Mao dismisses Teng, names Hua to No. 2 spot

TOKYO (AP) — China's Chairman Mao Tse-tung dismissed First Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-ping from all his party and government posts today and elevated Acting Premier Hua Kuo-feng to premier and party first vice chairman — No. 2 man in the country.

The action climaxed months of official campaigning against Teng and followed violent demonstrations in his favor in the heart of Peking two days ago.

The promotions catapulted Hua into the role of heir apparent to the 82-year-old Mao.

Teng, 72-year-old protege of the late Premier Chou En-lai and inheritor of his moderate policies, became for the second time in nearly a decade a loser to the radical wing of the Chinese Communist party. He was ousted from his jobs as vice chairman of the party and chief of the army general staff. He retained his party membership conditional on future good behavior.

The 56-year-old Hua was former minister of security and former party boss in Mao's home province. Besides the premiership, which became vacant with Chou's death from cancer on Jan. 8, Hua was given the post of first vice chairman of the party.

A one-paragraph resolution of the Central Committee, distributed by Hsinhua news agency and monitored here, described the violence in Tien An Men — Gate of Heavenly Peace — Square on Monday as "counterrevolutionary incidents."

It implied that Teng was behind the protest by up to 100,000 people and said that, on Mao's proposal, the party Politburo "unanimously agrees to dismiss Teng Hsiao-ping from all posts both inside and outside the party while allowing him to keep his party membership so as to see how he will behave in the future."

The incidents in Peking's main square began after tens of people massed there in tribute to Chou on Sunday, an annual festival of the dead. They left paper flower wreaths at Martyr's Monument with the understanding they would remain until Tuesday. But by Monday morning the wreaths were gone, and people reacted with an angry rampage.

Demonstrators battled militiamen, set three motor vehicles afire and partially burned a building. Scattered protests continued Tuesday, but by today the square was quiet with thousands of militiamen and guards on duty there.

Carter's dramatic finish keys primaries; Jackson, Ford win

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent

Jimmy Carter and Henry M. Jackson gained the victories, but in the end, the divided Democratic verdicts of the Wisconsin and New York presidential primary elections could prove a boon to the man who wasn't there — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey.

President Ford won his sixth Republican primary, winning easily over challenger Ronald Reagan in Wisconsin.

But the drama was packed into the Democratic contest there, a race that turned around early today and tipped into Carter's column as the final votes were counted, hours after Rep. Morris K. Udall staged a premature victory celebration.

Washington's Sen. Jackson won convincingly in New York, although he fell short of the delegate majority he had forecast. He wound up with 41 per cent of the state's 274 Democratic National Convention delegates.

Udall came up a loser despite a costly, intensive Wisconsin campaign. The defeat was magnified by the fact that he had claimed a win on the basis of an early lead and victory projections by ABC and NBC.

But the Arizona congressman won a big bloc of New York delegates. That showing, coupled with his near miss in Wisconsin, probably will be enough to keep his campaign going.

So Tuesday's two primary elections point to another three-way race in the next big Democratic test, for Pennsylvania's 178 delegates on April 27.

That could work to Humphrey's advantage. The more candidates there are to divide the votes, the more likely a stalemate that would leave room for a late entry by the Minnesota senator, who is shunning the primaries but says he will reassess his potential candidacy if there is no clear leader after the final primary voting on June 8.

WISCONSIN

With 99 per cent of the precincts counted, among Democrats, the votes stood:

Carter 269,477 or 37 per cent.
Udall 262,395 or 36 per cent.
Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace 92,112 or 13 per cent.
Jackson 47,304 or 7 per cent.

NEW YORK

With 99 per cent of the precincts counted, among Democrats, the votes stood:

Jackson 1,336,974 or 36 per cent.
Udall 1,099,344 or 29 per cent
Uncommitted 665,722 or 18 per cent.
Carter 530,184 or 14 per cent.
Harris 115,082 or 3 per cent.

Wallace received 12,016 votes and McCormack 7,305 votes.

Candidates pledged to Jackson won 107 Democratic convention slots. Udall supporters captured 69, uncommitted entries 65 and Carter backers 33.

LAST RITES FOR HUGHES

West Point cheating probe may involve 100 cadets

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — Some 100 cadets at the U.S. Military Academy could be involved in a cheating scandal now under investigation, the Army says.

"The honor committee began today looking into a matter possibly involving unauthorized collaboration on a graded home study assignment," Lt. Col. Thomas Gerrigan, an academy spokesman, said Tuesday.

Subcommittees of the elective, 44-cadet honor committee spent the day weighing initial allegations, he said. A source at the academy said the case centers on a home study assignment in an electrical engineering course taken mostly by juniors.

Gerrigan refused to say how many students might be involved. But the source said the number is "under 100, but not well under 100.

"No allegations have yet been made by the honor committee. It is inappropriate to comment further until the investigation is complete."

"A cadet will not lie, cheat or steal, or tolerate those who do," says the code by which cadets are instructed to live.

In 1973, 15 cadets either resigned or were expelled after being convicted by the honor court of swapping answers on an exam.

There are 4,000 cadets at the academy, and according to the cadet curriculum, about 1,000 are taking the engineering course in which the cheating was reported.

First word of the inquiry came in a telephone call to the New York Times on Tuesday. "It makes me angry. I don't cheat. Why should they," said the caller, who identified himself only as a cadet.

Procedure for such investigations is for subcommittees of the full honor committee to investigate the allegations.

Hughes buried in brief, secretive services; death by kidney failure

HOUSTON (AP) — Billionaire industrialist Howard Hughes was buried in brief, unannounced graveside rites at an exclusive cemetery west of downtown Houston today with an Episcopal dean proclaiming: "We bring nothing into this world and we can take nothing out."

There were few mourners at the service and there was no eulogy for the eccentric recluse who died Monday of kidney failure.

Dean Robert Gibson of Christ Church Cathedral, one of Houston's oldest Episcopal churches, delivered his short remarks, ending with, "Remember thy servant Howard," and then read the last rites from the 14th chapter of the Book of John.

About 10 women and 15 or 20 men gathered at Glenwood Cemetery for the three-minute service which had been kept secret from the public. There was no effort to exclude reporters and photographers.

Neither of Hughes' ex-wives attended.

Hughes' body was quickly lowered into the grave in a 1,000-pound, silver-jacketed copper casket that will be covered by a matching vault, funeral home spokesmen said.

Mrs. Frederick Lummis Sr., Hughes' 85-year-old aunt, occupied a front-row seat at the services along with her son, Will Lummis.

The Rev. Mr. Gibson read from the Bible the words of Jesus, "In my Father's house are many mansions: If it were not so, I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you."

HOW HUGHES LOOKED?

1 killed, 2 critical as car hits abutement traveling 100 m.p.h.

One person was killed and two others seriously injured Tuesday night when their car slammed into a concrete bridge abutment on Riverside Drive near Ontario while traveling 100 miles per hour.

John Lee Homan, 19, of 7691 Hall Ave., Corona, the driver, was pronounced dead on arrival at the Chino General Hospital.

His two passengers, Cheryl Giovannoli, 18, of 1642 N. Towne Ave., Pomona, and Antonio Martin, 17, of 12964 11th St., Chino, were admitted to the hospital's intensive car unit, where their conditions are termed as critical.

Miss Giovannoli suffered fractures to the pelvis and left leg and scalp lacerations and Martin received a fractured pelvis and severe head lacerations, said highway patrolmen.

All three persons were ejected from the vehicle. Homan was found 33 feet away. The two passengers were near the main portion of the vehicle.

The impact caused the vehicle to break apart, with various parts found scattered along the roadway.

Homan was driving east on Riverside Drive about 100 miles an hour and had passed one vehicle and was cutting back in front of a station wagon when he lost control, said investigators.

The car went into a southeast direction and struck the bridge abutement located near Grove Avenue.

The vehicle then glanced off and spun around before coming to a stop along the road.

Officers said they found the car's frame, rear axle, gas tank, seat, floorboard and driveshaft scattered about the area.

Homan's body was released to the Griffith Mortuary in Chino, where funeral arrangements are pending.

Rain tardy, but on way

Showers may have been delayed, but they're still on the way to the valley.

The weatherman says there's a 30 per cent chance they'll arrive tonight and a 50 per cent likelihood they'll be here by morning. The storm will include some southwesterly winds.

The showers are being generated by a low pressure area moving to the Southland from Northern California. The storm is expected to be of short duration.

The National Weather Service calls for clearing skies Friday and fair weather for the weekend.

SJSU probing reports of student porno movie ring

SAN JOSE (AP) — San Jose State University's president has promised to investigate a student newspaper's allegations that students have been producing pornographic movies in campus dormitories for more than two years.

A story front-paged Tuesday in The Spartan Daily said the operation had produced more than 200 films ranging from 15 minutes to 1½ hours and that the films were sold to wholesalers for distribution in Los Angeles and on the East Coast.

The reporter said 25 actors and actresses, a producer-director, a cameraman and nine helpers whose duties included serving as guards participated in the movie-making. The writer said she had talked to nine of the women actresses and one of the men and had seen one production filmed.

School president John H. Bunzel said, "The university is conducting an investigation into the allegations reported in The Spartan Daily. Obscene behavior is clearly contrary to university policy. Appropriate disciplinary action may be initiated if evidence of conduct in violation of university regulations is uncovered."

Bunzel said results of the university investigation would be made available to the Santa Clara County district attorney should he request it.

Woman who bilked senior citizen is given probation

A 28-year-old woman, charged with attempting the pigeon drop confidence game in Pomona last December, has been turned over to other jurisdictions for prosecution on similar charges after being placed on three years' probation by Pomona Superior Court Judge Howard D. McClain.

But McClain made a condition of the probation of Vicki Lynn Conrad, Beverly Hills, that she immediately begin participation in a supervised program for narcotics addicts and that she remain active in it until released by both her probation officer and the program director.

Miss Conrad pleaded guilty March 4 to attempted grand theft. She was arrested by Pomona police last December after they were tipped off by employes of Pomona First Federal Savings and Loan Association at 550 N. Indian Hill Blvd. that a 60-year-old Pomona woman was in danger of being swindled out of $2,000 in cash.

The victim had been persuaded to put up $2,000 as "good faith" money in order to share in a large amount of money Miss Conrad claimed to have found. The victim withdrew the money from the savings and loan company, causing employes to become suspicious and call police.

Miss Conrad was named as a suspect in similar pigeon drop operation in other communities, police said.

Bar owner goes free in shooting

A Pomona tavern owner, charged with assault with a deadly weapon in the wounding a year ago of a customer, has won dismissal of the charge because the prosecution was unable to proceed against him after his first trial ended in a mistrial.

The dismissal went to Rafael Navarro Laguez, 32, accused of wounding Aurelio Garcia Herrera, 36, Pomona, in Laguez' El Herradero tavern at 1142 W. Second St. Herrera was shot in the stomach, but recovered.

The complaint was dismissed by Pomona Superior Court Judge Howard D. McClain who ruled that Laguez had been denied a speedy retrial of the case against him after the jury in the first trial was deadlocked hopelessly last February. The prosecution reportedly had trouble locating the witnesses again for a second trial.

Trial delayed too long

Murder-for-hire case is dismissed

Charges against a Covina businessman, accused of trying to hire the murder of an Irwindale police officer, have been dismissed in Pomona Superior Court where it was ruled a speedy trial had been denied him.

The defendant, James Sidney Donaldson, 29, 10541 Wilbur St., Northridge, won dismissal of the charge of solicitation of murder when Judge Glenn M. Pfau ruled the prosecution had exceeded the statutory time for bringing him to trial

Donaldson, proprietor and owner of Sid's Body Shop at 561 E. San Bernardino Road in Covina at the time of his arrest last July, was charged with paying an undercover sheriff's deputy $1,000 to kill the Irwindale officer because the officer allegedly had connected Donaldson with the burglary the previous March of the West Covina office of the state Employment Development Department.

The officer, who was not identified, arrested Donaldson April 13 in Irwindale where Donaldson allegedly was using a welding torch to burn documents taken from the state office.

The documents had to do with his having been denied unemployment compensation, authorities said.

Coronary care course to open

A 13-week coronary care nursing course for registered nurses and other interested medical personnel begins Thursday at Kaiser-Permanente Medical Center in Fontana.

Successful completion of the course will earn participants four credits from Chaffey College which can be aplied towards an associate of arts or associate of science degree.

There are no course prerequisites and the participants will also receive a certificate from the San Bernardino County Heart Association upon completion of the course.

Registration are being accepted at the medical center, 829-5145.

Bicentennial salute at Simons

"Heritage '76" is the title of a Bicentennial program to be presented by students of the Simons Junior High School in Pomona tonight at 7.

Groups to perform are the square dancers, A Band, the Verse Choir, Order of the Arrow's Navajo Lodge Dance Team, the Simons Singers and the Drama Club.

Art work for the program was executed by students in E. Lee Simmons' art class.

Principal Keith H. Daniel will introduce the performers. The Verse Choir will open the program with "Overture, Spirit of '76," followed by the Navajo Lodge Dance Team, directed by Marty Woods, and the band.

Throughout the program, subtitles will carry out the theme. Those subtitles are "The First Americans Before 1620," "Pilgrims and Strangers, 1620." "These Were the Times That Tried Men's Souls — 1776," "Declaration of Independence," "Westward America," "One Country United — 1861," "A Growing Nation" and "Which Way, America."

The finale will include two numbers, a multi-screen presentation titled "From Sea to Shining Sea," and a band and Verse Choir number, "America the Beautiful."

The program is open to the public admission free. Performing students represent drama, music, physical education, art and English social studies departments at Simons.

Thirteen students from Gary Montz' plant science classes comprise the Simons Bicentennial tree planting committee. This group will conduct a Bicentennial tree planting on campus Thursday at 2 p.m. It will be dedicated by the Simons student body. Jerry Duffy is the sponsor.

Panelists will mull issues of Claremont recall

A panel discussion on the recall election May 18 of three members of the Claremont school board will be held tonight at 8:30 at Bridges Hall on the Pomona College campus.

Speaking against the recall of board members Ernest Taylor, William Anderson and Beverly Shacklett will be James Norris, local businessman, and William Johnson, former school board candidate.

Speaking for their recall will be John Moore, professor of history at Cal Poly, and Joseph Hough Jr., who is seeking to take Taylor's place if he is recalled.

The discussion will be broadcast live over the college station KSPC.

Rifle club will meet April 10

Boys and girls 10 through 17 will be accepted into a rifle club which will meet April 10 at 2 p.m. at 142 N. Prospectors Road, Diamond Bar. Harry J. Swangler will be the instructor.

Additional information may be obtained by calling Swangler at 595-0171 after 5 p.m.

Election likely

2 Chino teacher groups vie for negotiation role

Two Chino teacher groups, who have filed petitions with the school district seeking to be the sole representative in labor negotiations, apparently have forced the district to hold an election.

"It appears that there will be an election in Chino," Supt. Royce Lapp said Tuesday.

The elections are called for under certain conditions in the state's new collective bargaining law — Senate Bill 160,

Both the Chino Federation of Teachers (CFT) and Associated Chino Teachers (ACT) filed petitions to be the teachers' only representative in wage talks with the school board.

Elections must be held if two teacher organizations are claiming to be the sole representative. The balloting will determine the organization or union, if any, that would represent teachers in negotiations.

Both Chino teacher groups have presented more than the required 50 per cent of signatures from their units.

School boards have the option of scheduling an election, regardless of the competition among different groups. However, if competition exists, the board is likely to call an election, officials say.

The state's new Educational Employment Relations Board is charged with conducting the elections, and it depends on that board's action as to when the balloting will be held. Some officials say it may not be until at least July 1.

Demo caucuses slated in area to select convention delegates

Democratic candidates for President will hold caucuses Sunday in the valley to recommend delegates to the national convention. All caucuses start at 1 p.m.

Democrats wanting to be delegates must file an "intention to run" with the county clerk or registrar of voters offices by Thursday, attend the candidate's Congressional district caucus in the local district on Sunday and then work for the election of the candidate.

Each Presidential candidate must hold 43 Congressional district caucuses to be eligible to receive delegates based upon the June 8 primary election results in each district, said officials.

The candidates and caucus locations follow:

— Gov. Edmund Brown Jr., 26th District, San Marino High School Auditorium, San Marino; 33rd District, Excelsior High School, Norwalk; 35th District, Chaffey High School, Merton Hill Auditorium, Ontario.

— Former Gov. Jimmy Carter, Georgia, 26th District, First Avenue Junior High School, Arcadia; Monte Vista High School auditorium, Whittier; Ganesha High School cafeteria, Pomona.

— Sen. Frank Church of Idaho, 26th District, San Marino High School, San Marino; 33rd District, Rio Hondo College, Putnam Center, Whittier; 35th District, Chaffey College, Alta Loma.

— Former Sen. Fred Harris, Oklahoma, 26th District, Monrovia Park Recreation Center, Monrovia; 33rd District, Glascow Community Center, Norwalk; 35th District, Pitzer College, Claremont.

— Sen. Henry Jackson, Washington, 26th District, Jefferson Junior High School, San Gabriel; 33rd District, Cerritos College, Norwalk; 35th District, Edgewood High School, West Covina.

— Rep. Morris Udall, Arizona, 26th District, South Pasadena Junior High School auditorium, South Pasadena; 33rd District, Santa Fe Springs Neighborhood Center, Santa Fe Springs; 35th District, Oakmont Elementary School, Claremont.

— Gov. George Wallace, Alabama, 26th District, California Federal Savings and Loan Association building, Arcadia; 33rd District, residence at 15603 Wilder Ave., Norwalk; and 35th District, residence at 3025 Charlinda Ave., West Covina.

People in the news

Julie under pressure

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Julie Nixon Eisenhower, "under intense emotional pressure" after distribution of a book about the final days of the Nixon administration, has canceled an appearance here.

Mrs. Eisenhower and comedian Bob Hope were to appear Thursday at the state Chamber of Commerce's annual membership meeting, the Mississippi Economic Council said.

The MEC said Mrs. Eisenhower informed officials of her cancellation "and explained that she would be unable to appear because of the pressure on the Nixon family as a result of the publication of the book, 'The Final Days'."

A spokesman for the family said Mrs. Eisenhower and her husband "had been unable to leave their apartment. Family members are under intense emotional pressure."

Dog's best friend

ATLANTA (AP) — Keith Roark, who is blind, got tired of being thrown out of restaurants and motels because of his guide dog, Lottie, and decided six months ago to do something about it.

He scraped together $200 and founded the National Organization for the Rights of Guide Dogs.

He says the treatment he sometimes gets is illegal because Georgia law forbids banishment of guide dogs from public places.

Roark, 45, lectures, distributes films about guide dogs and the blind and hands out decals saying, "No dogs allowed except guide dogs." He also is seeking an increase in the $100 fine for violating the guide dog law.

Continue custody fight

ATLANTA (AP) — The attorney for a white Atlanta couple says she will continue appeals to the U.S. Supreme Court if necessary to help the couple try to retain custody of their racially mixed foster child.

"Again we feel like the door has just been slammed in our face," said American Civil Liberties Union lawyer Marge Hames after the state Department of Human Resources upheld on Tuesday a county decision to place 2½-year-old Timmy with a black couple.

Timmy, born out of wedlock to a white mother and a black father, has lived with Bob and Pauline Drummond since he was less than a month old.

Last November, the Fulton County Department of Family and Children's Services denied their petition to adopt him, and federal and Superior Court judges have upheld that action.

Shades of Harry Truman

Early to bed makes Udall a loser in Wisconsin vote

MILWAUKEE (AP) — "Oh, how sweet it is," said Arizona Rep. Morris Udall as the band at his victory celebration played, "Happy Days are Here Again."

Meanwhile, at a downtown hotel ballroom where former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter was to host his victory celebration, Carter supporters grew grim as the sound system was dismantled and celebration plans faded.

The time was 10:20 p.m. Tuesday, and the ABC and NBC networks had projected Udall as winner of the Wisconsin presidential primary.

"I've finished second and I like first a lot better," Udall told cheering campaign workers.

Carter, meanwhile, sent tentative congratulations to Udall and retired for the night to his bedroom several floors above the somber crowd in the ballroom.

Udall and his wife were smiling when they left their victory celebration to retire early, as the band played, "On Wisconsin," and his supporters began chanting, "Go, Mo; Go, Mo; Go, Mo."

Three hours later, many of the same Udall supporters wept openly as Udall's margin over Carter vanished and his camp was forced to accept a bitter defeat.

At the Carter ballroom, the loudspeakers for the sound system were hastily reassembled as word spread that Carter had overtaken Udall.

The 300 assembled Carter backers had been rejuvenated. The cash register at the bar jingled like sleigh bells, but the sound was lost amid the amplified blare from the stage, where a guitarist, a bass player and two youthful vocalists led the throng in improvised, footstomping versions of "Battle Hymn of the Republic."

Presently, a path was cleared, and a beaming Carter strolled into the room. Flashing his famous smile, he strode to the podium and evoked frenzy by raising his arm and displaying a Milwaukee Sentinel whose top headline proclaimed: "Carter Upset by Udall."

"As I said earlier, I told you I would never tell you a lie. I would rather win than lose," said Carter.

The mood at the Udall camp had changed drastically.

"It's a victory no matter how the final vote turns out," Udall's news secretary, Richard Stout volunteered.

But there was no hiding the disappointment in the Udall team of yet another primary loss.

Udall retired for the night apparently without knowing of his defeat.

"How could so many people be so stupid?" asked one man when it was announced Carter had taken a 5,230 vote lead.

A young woman walked out into the hallway and slapped the wall repeatedly as tears streamed down her cheeks.

In a nearby hotel room, other Udall supporters watched the tide change with the late televised returns.

"I would hate to be the person to wake up Mo Udall," one local television commentator said.

The incident recalls the 1948 election when Thomas Dewey went to bed thinking he had defeated Harry Truman for the presidency. The Chicago Tribune was so certain of the results that it bannered its story, "Dewey wins," for the next day. Truman took great glee in holding up and mocking the paper — just like Jimmy Carter does in the accompanying photograph — after it had been ascertained that he (Truman) had won, not Dewey.

DMV plan takes traffic tickets out of courts

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Judging traffic ticket cases in non-court hearings would save work for the courts, money for the taxpayers and probably lives on the highways, says the Department of Motor Vehicles.

DMV Director Herman Sillas said Tuesday the government could save nearly $9 million the first year and more than $13 million a year after that by taking minor traffic offenses out of the courts.

Under the plan prepared by a DMV team, traffic infractions would be civil offenses instead of crimes. They would be judged by DMV hearing officers, with appeals possible in Superior Court.

The officers would be appointed by an Administrative Adjudication Board named by the governor, Sillas said. The board would draw up hearing rules and a uniform list of penalties.

The penalties, which would take into account a driver's record, would avoid "judicial inconsistency," Sillas said.

He also said the system would improve traffic safety by enhancing "early detection and control of hazardous drivers."

Sillas said the hearings "would be conducted simply in a relaxed atmosphere without the accused person carrying the stigma of a criminal."

A BIT PREMATURE

Former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter holds up an edition of a Milwaukee newspaper with a headline saying he had been upset by Morris Udall in Wisconsin's presidential primary election Tuesday. Carter actually emerged as the winner.

Carter opposes forced integration

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Democratic presidential hopeful Jimmy Carter says he is opposed to breaking up ethnic neighborhoods merely to promote integration.

He added, however, he would never condone discrimination and favored people having the right to live where they choose.

"I'm not trying to keep black and white people apart. I'm not trying to keep Czechoslovakians and Polish people apart," Carter said on Tuesday. "I'm not trying to keep neighborhoods apart.

"I'm not trying to subvert anyone's right to live where they choose. In fact, I'm trying to insist on the right of people to live where they choose. I'm very adamantly in favor of all the civil rights legislation that has been passed."

Carter was campaigning in South Bend in preparation for Indiana's May 4 primary when he faced intense questioning about housing and integration. The former Georgia governor had been quoted as opposing government intervention "to break down an ethnically oriented community deliberately to inject into it a member of another race."

He said if government housing units are built, they should be constructed "in a neighborhood they are compatible with. Building a high-rise, very low-cost project in a suburban area would not be in the best interests of people who live in the high-rise or the suburban neighborhood.

"To artificially create within a community that is fairly homogeneous in racial or economic status just the diametrically opposite kind of family, is bad for the community on both sides," he said.

Carter emphasized his support of federal and state open housing legislation, insisting he had endorsed a state open housing law when he was governor of Georgia, even though it was unpopular.

But he added, "I'm not going to use the federal government's authority to circumvent the natural inclination of people to live in homogeneous groups."

Ontario rejects housing rezoning

By L. T. ROGERS
Asst. City Editor

The Ontario City Council Tuesday night upheld a Planning Commission decision and denied a request to rezone 4.5 acres on Cypress Street south of Mission Boulevard from agriculture to residential use.

Dwight W. Mize, a developer, had sought a multi-family residential zone to build 18 single family homes in the rural area.

The Planning Commission had previously voted 3-3 to deny the request.

The application was opposed by residents who complained the site is under Ontario International Airport's flight pattern and would thus be bothered by airplane noise and also by those who wanted to retain the rural atmosphere.

Ronald Gaddie, owner of a worm farm on Cypress Avenue, said he kept some cattle on the back of his property. If houses were allowed, he said he would be required to move them because of an ordinance which requires a 200-foot separation from such animals and residential structures.

He also reported that once a housing tract was allowed these would spread until they eventually occupied the entire area.

Irene Rice, who serves on the Planning Commission, urged the City Council to set a limit on how close to the airport it will allow development of single family residences.

"This is not a good place for homes. It makes no sense to have residences in a noise area. This is not in conformance with the master plan to have houses in the airport flight pattern."

Mize, said the 18 or 19 homes proposed will not disrupt thw rural atmosphere in south Ontario. He requested the City Council to conform to a state code by rezoning his property which conforms with the city's master plan.

In moving for denial of the application, Councilman Homer Briggs asked the city staff to make a specific plan study for that area.

He was opposed by council members Faye Dastrup and Beecher Medlin who recalled the council had approved three weeks ago a request to rezone nearly 50 acres on both sides of Mountain Avenue near Phillips Street to allow single family homes. That area is southeast of the Mize request.

But Briggs claimed the Mize request is closer to the airport runway. "There must be a point when you go no farther. This is that point. I feel this is different from the Presley of California request."

Briggs said after the meeting that he wanted to find out if this is "truly an area that will be disturbed by the airport noise factor.

City Atty. Samuel Crowe had sent a memo to council members noting that a state law requires that when an application for a zone change is in accordance with the master plan, the council must grant the change or, based on the information received, determine that a new study is needed on the master plan.

He informed the council that based on information received at the hearing, it could request a new study.

The council voted 3-2 against the residential zoning. Briggs was joined by Mayor Paul Treadway and Councilman Robert Abel in opposing the change. Mrs. Dastrup and Medlin voted for the zone change.

Brown, growers trade accusations

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. has accused growers of trying to sabotage a farm labor collective bargaining law by refusing to compromise, and has in turn been accused by a growers' spokesman of unwillingness to compromise.

The governor drew applause Tuesday in a 10-minute talk to the AFL-CIO Committee on Political Education when he attacked the growers for refusing to compromise on key issues which he did not specify. He added, "Compromise is one thing and betrayal is another."

The California Farm Bureau Federation's president, Fred Heringer, responded with a statement saying it was Brown who had shown "an unwillingness to compromise."

Heringer said, "What we seek are amendments to make it (the law) work fairly."

Ford veto looms over issue of aid to Israel

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford told congressional leaders today there is "a very strong probability" he would veto a $5.6-billion foreign aid bill if it includes an extra $550 million for Israel, according to House Republican Leader John Rhodes.

Speaking with reporters after the White House meeting, Rhodes said Ford told leaders of both parties he would "have no alternative" if the proposed additional funds for Israel are included in the foreign aid package.

Rhodes, R-Ariz., said Ford indicated no compromise was possible on the issue.

House Majority Leader Carl Albert, asked if Ford appeared firm in his resolve to veto the bill if the extra money for Israel remained intact, said: "No, I don't think the President has reached that point but he has set down certain conditions under which he would veto."

Albert, D-Okla., did not elaborate but said that "the President and all his advisors say that Israel doesn't need that extra $550 million."

It was learned Tuesday from a high administration source that Israel's ambassador to the United States had been warned of the possibility of a veto.

The over-all foreign aid measure includes $3 billion for in aid for Middle East countries, including $2.2 billion for Israel.

Hughes 'had to die to prove he was alive'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The secrecy that surrounded Howard Hughes in life continued to shroud the man "who had to die to prove that he was alive." His aides remained silent about the disposition of the recluse's billion-dollar financial empire.

Arelo Sederberg, a Hughes' spokesman in Los Angeles where Hughes' Summa Corp. has its headquarters, said there would be no comment on whether a will exists to detail disposal of his aerospace, hotel-casino and airline properties.

There also were reports of official concern over the identification of the body despite statements by hospital officials that the body they performed a 2½-hour autopsy on Tuesday was indeed Howard Robard Hughes, victim of "an ordinary death" from kidney failure.

With or without a will, there also remained the entangled legal question over the legal home of Hughes, who spent the last two decades hiding from public view, slipping from hideaway to hideaway.

This much was known today:

—Hughes, a tall, romantic motion picture and aviation figure before going into hiding in the 1950s, was a scrawny 90 pounds and had apparently been bedridden sometime before he died Monday on a flight from Acapulco, Mexico, to Houston, doctors said.

—His multiple financial interests estimated to be worth $2 billion apparently will continue to operate normally since his organization always ran without personal contact from Hughes while he lived.

Dr. Joseph Jachimczyk, the Harris County, Tex., medical examiner who observed the autopsy which listed the cause of death as chronic kidney failure, said, "As far as I'm concerned, it's an ordinary death. It's just that it was not an ordinary person."

A Treasury Department spokesman said two Internal Revenue Service agents and a Customs Service officer were dispatched to make an official identification, although Hughes' body was reported to have been accompanied by his birth certificate.

In Washington, the Treasury Department said two IRS agents guarded Hughes' body. "We do not have official custody of the body but we are going to stick with it," until identity is confirmed, a Treasury spokesman said.

Jachimczyk said he took fingerprints from the body and forwarded them to the FBI for positive identification.

He said "there's always somebody that might say, 'That's not him.' We do this to answer all these questions."

Meanwhile, William Gay, president of Summa Corp., said, "It's tragic, it's tragic that Howard Hughes had to die to prove that he was alive."

As for the autopsy, Jachimczyk said, "I could not tell what kind of life he had led, but he was very emaciated. The evidence is there that he had been bedridden for some time. I don't know how long."

Although the official said Hughes appeared frail, he discounted earlier reports of Hughes having a bizarre appearance, including three-inch long fingernails and shoulder-length hair. He said the body had short hair, normal length fingernails but a full beard — "He looked like any other 70-year-old man who was in poor health."

Hughes left no known heir to lay claim to the empire, and in a 1972 news conference the billionaire said he planned to leave it all to the Howard Hughes Medical Institute in Miami.

Greg Bautzer, a Hughes attorney, said there were indications that Hughes planned to write his own will. Bautzer said he had never been asked to draw one up for Hughes.

"He was a brilliant man and could have done this very easily."

An important step in setting out Hughes' estate would be establishing his residency.

Confusion was created by Hughes' moves, which included stopovers in Nevada, Canada, Britain, The Bahamas, Nicaragua and Mexico.

On the matter of residency, Harris County Probate Judge William Bear said in Houston, "That is going to really determine which state has jurisdiction. The second most important thing is, did he have a will or not? When we answer those two questions then it'll be a whole lot easier from then on."

Speaking hypothetically, Bear said if no will exists and Houston is declared his home, "There would be an heirship determination made by the court."

Hughes' nearest living relative is an aunt, Mrs. Frederick Lummis Sr., 85, of Houston, who was his late mother's sister. It was she who reportedly gave approval for the autopsy. Other surviving relatives include several first cousins in the Houston area.

The tax implications of the estate could be enormous. If the money goes to medicine it would escape federal taxes. If not, it could face a maximum 77 per cent estate tax — up to $1.5 billion.

Poison kills 4

PINNEBERG, West Germany (AP) - Four tree nursery laborers died after drinking a highly poisonous weed killer from what appeared to be a rum bottle and police said Tuesday they do not suspect foul play.

Three of the victims were German, the other Portuguese. Police said they drank from a bottle which another laborer emptied some weeks ago and then filled up with weed killer to treat plants at his home.

Venereal disease epidemic claimed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Agreeing there is a "hidden epidemic" of venereal disease in Los Angeles County, supervisors are planning to crack down on doctors who don't report all cases they treat.

County Supervisors Tuesday approved a motion by Supervisor Edmund Edelman to tighten reporting requirements and prosecute "flagrant abuses" of those requirements.

Under a recent state law, doctors and laboratories are required to report all venereal disease cases to public health authorities.

Calling the problem a "hidden epidemic," Edelman said the 44,000 cases reported in 1975 represent "two or three times below" the actual number.

Under questioning at a hearing, Department of Health Services officials acknowledged as many as 80,000 people in Los Angeles County may have gonorrhea.

Richardson hits probation...Lancaster offers health plan

STATE SEN. H.L. RICHARDSON, R-19th Dist., has called for abolition of the state's probation subsidy program because of statistical information which he claims shows the program to be a "monumental failure."

Probation subsidy is a program devised by the state to pay county probation departments up to $4,000 for every convicted felon retained on probation at the county level instead of being sentenced to state prison.

"This is the program which has given local law enforcement officers nothing but trouble and which has turned county jails into local state prisons," he declared.

Richardson said he received information from the state's Bureau of Criminal Statistics which showed that 42.8 per cent of those persons with subsidy experience were arrested at least once during the one-year follow-up period. The data also noted that 60.6 per cent of the subsidy subject arrests resulted in convictions.

"Without probation for felons and with mandatory prison terms — including escalator terms for repeaters — virtually all multiple offenders would be off the streets in about nine years," he said.

"Law enforcement officials can tell you their biggest menace is the repeater who has been through the criminal justice turnstiles time and again."

ASSEMBLYMAN WILLIAM LANCASTER, R-62nd Dist., has introduced a comprehensive bill to provide health insurance for California residents who can't obtain coverage.

His proposal includes the creation of an "assigned risk" pool to provide health insurance coverage for persons with physical disabilities.

"Because of a special illness or injury, many persons can't obtain health insurance. Or they may only be able to obtain insurance with an exclusion for that illness or injury. With such an exclusion, health insurance is of very limited benefit to them," he said.

A second feature would provide up to six months of continued health insurance coverage for employees who lose their health insurance coverage through no fault of their own. The coverage must be available at the same rate the person received during his employment.

"To be eligible for this extended coverage, persons can't have quit their jobs or have been fired with good cause. The coverage is only for people who are laid off or otherwise lose their jobs involuntarily," he explained.

The third feature would guarantee an employe's spouse 12 months' continued coverage in cases of death or divorce. "In many cases the death of an employe or a divorce can leave the spouse without health insurance coverage. This will allow the spouse at his or her expense to continue the coverage for up to 12 months at the same rate as before."

ASSEMBLYMAN WILLIAM McVITTIE, D-65th Dist., has proposed a revision in the state's small claims courts to make them more accessible to the residents.

He has introduced a bill that would raise from $500 to $750 the limit on claims that may be settled by small claims courts.

It would also require small claims courts to hold proceedings during evenings and on Saturdays. Hearings could also be held at any convenient location outside the county courthouse.

Other provisions include authorizing judges to appoint nonattorneys to represent persons needing assistance because of language difficulties, requiring municipal courts to maintain lists of interpreters and prohibiting attorneys from representing small claims court litigants.

"This bill will provide greater opportunity for citizens of modest means to resolve their economic grievances," said McVittie.

In another matter, McVittie has proposed the state create an ombudsman office as an independent state agency to improve the "bureaucratic effectiveness."

The ombudsman would be appointed by the state legislature to a six-year term and given authority to investigate complaints against state agencies.

Don Stokes, a Diamond Bar businessman, has been appointed chairman of the California Citizens for Reagan Committee in Diamond Bar.

Stokes, active in the Republican Party for more than 10 years, is vice chairman of the 64th Assembly District Los Angeles County Central Committee.

Los Angeles City Councilman Art Snyder has urged city councils in California to oppose PROPOSITION 15, the nuclear initiative on the June ballot.

"Proposition 15 is a very lengthy, complex document but when you finally understand it, you have to oppose it," he declared. "Commercial nuclear energy has a perfect safety record over its 20-year history of operation. Proposition 15 will not improve that record.

"What it will do is shut down nuclear energy plants in California and that would mean an economic slowdown, more air pollution and increased dependence on expensive imported oil — all critical problems facing city officials in California."

The Los Angeles City Council recently voted 12 to 1 to oppose Proposition 15.

BOB WALLACH, Democratic candidate for the U.S. Senate, has announced his support for Proposition 15, calling it the most important measure before the voters on this year's ballot.

He believes the dangers and uncertainties surrounding the development of nuclear facilities in or adjacent to urban areas outweigh the "alleged consequences of an alleged dependency on foreign oil."

Wallach, an attorney, resides and has his residence and law office in San Francisco.

Former California Lt. Gov. JOHN HARMER, a Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate, has received an endorsement from the Young Americans for Freedom, a conservative youth organization.

"Many of the candidates in this year's Senate race are giving lip service to conservative ideas. John Harmer is the only candidate whose record reflects a long standing commitment to conservative principles," said the organization's board of directors.

CECIL GREEN, Democratic candidate for the 33rd State Senatorial District seat, has received the personal endorsement of Harry Evans, director of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes, AFL-CIO.

"After surveying all the candidates, their records and qualifications, I have concluded that you can best serve the interests of the citizens who live in the 33rd District of the California Senate. You have my personal endorsement," wrote Evans in a letter to Green.

Michael Reagan, son of RONALD REAGAN, Republican candidate for President, visited Upland recently to support his father's candidacy.

He was accompanied by his wife, Colleen, and Edwin Gray, the former governor's press secretary. They visited Twentynine Palms, Apple Valley, Upland and Redlands.

While visiting at the Upland home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cummins, Reagan said of his father:

"Ronald Reagan is concerned with America and its people. He does not approve of the Washington give-away of arms, countries and canals. And soon it will be us.

"If elected president, Ronald Reagan will be committed to make America's defense and military might second to none. He has a determination to bring back pride in our country by all citizens, to reduce inflation by cutting deficit spending with its serious effect upon employment, and our savings values."

Stars, stripes

The first change in the flag of 13 stars and stripes adopted by the Second Continental Congress in 1777 came in 1795 with the addition of Vermont and Kentucky to the Union. Congress passed and President Washington signed an act specifying a flag of 15 alternate red and white stripes and 15 white stars on a blue field. In 1818 Congress established the present basic design — 13 alternate stripes representing the original states and a star for each state, new ones to be added on July 4 following admission of a new state.

Claremont school board picks Steffen

The Claremont school board has elected Arthur L. Steffen Jr. president for the 1976-77 year.

Steffen, a member of the real estate firm of Wheeler, Steffen, Garrison Ltd., was chosen unanimously by fellow board members, after board President Ernest Taylor nominated him.

Mrs. Beverly Shacklett was elected vice president.

Steffen previously served as board president in 1970-71 and 1971-72.

Taylor noted that he had served as board president for two years, with a year of "sabbatical in between" when he was not on the board.

Taylor said that "it has been a very educational year personally. The community has become much more involved than in the past."

Elected to the board in 1969, Steffen is serving the third year of a second four-year term.

Board member Mary Ellen Kilsby was elected as district representative for electing members to the County Committee on School District Organization.

Aid boost urged for Cucamonga channel

By TERRY WADE
PB Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — The $86.2 million Cucamonga Creek flood control project was promoted by testimony of the San Bernardino County flood control engineer here last week and the area's representative, Jim Lloyd, D-35th Dist.

Art Sidler, county engineer, told House and Senate subcommittees that the project needs nearly twice the administration's proposed fiscal 1977 appropriation.

Sidler contended the Cucamonga project should receive $10 million, the full Army Corps of Engineer capability. The White House has requested only $5.1 million for the project.

Only $3.6 million has been appropriated to date for the Cucamonga Creek project, $3 million of that in fiscal 1976.

Sidler also requested $500,000 for a Santa Ana River basin survey which includes Prado and Mentone dams. The Administration has requested $300,000 for the survey which has been going on since 1965. Another $700,000 will complete the study to determine flood control needs along the river basin in San Bernardino, Riverside and Orange Counties.

A spokesman for Lloyd said there is a good chance of receiving the amount the administration has requested for the projects, but "I wouldn't bank" on getting the additional funding Sidler requested.

Baldwin Park man guilty of slaying

Michael James Meyers, 26-year-old Baldwin Park man, has been ruled guilty in Pomona Superior Court of second-degree murder of the slaying last summer of an Upland man in San Gabriel Canyon.

Meyers was found guilty by Judge Howard D. McClain following a nonjury trial. McClain scheduled Meyers' probation hearing and sentencing for April 19.

Meyers was arrested several hours after Merrell Eugene Purtle, 25, was shot to death at the Shady Oaks Campground early the morning of June 8. Investigators said the two men had been in an argument at about 2 a.m. They charged that Meyers pulled a pistol during the dispute and shot Purtle several times in the upper torso. Purtle was pronounced dead at the scene.

Meyers was arrested 10 hours later in San Bernardino County by deputies who had been alerted that he was a suspect and might be in the Twentynine Palms area.

Tri-City budget passes in split vote

A $1 million budget for the Tri-City Mental Health Authority has been approved by the Tri-City governing board.

The budget, which totals $1,097,423 — 6.1 per cent higher than last year, was presented to the governing board by Roderick Richardson, director.

Most of the budget is supported by state and federal funds, although the three member cities, Pomona, Claremont and La Verne, will be required to allocate $45,330, $12,225 and $6,889 respectively.

The budget was approved Monday by a 5-3 vote, with Pomona Mayor Ray Lepire and Pomona Councilman Adrian Wright and Georgia Grove voting not to accept the spending plan.

Only Lepire explained his objection, stating that the budget provision for a six per cent wage increase was too high. There are approximately 40 employe positions.

Tri-City Mental Health operates a health center at 1149 N. Garey Ave. in Pomona, offering a variety of mental health services to residents of the three communities.

Ontario F.D. exec retires

Red Medley, Ontario Fire Department battalion chief at the Ontario headquarters station, has retired after more than 28 years' service with the department.

Ontario Fire Chief Richard Custer said Medley was forced to retire because of an old knee injury suffered in the service.

"I just couldn't make the 30," said Medley.

Richard Lebel, former Ontario fire inspector has been assigned to Medley's headquarters battalion chief position.

Also leaving the Ontario Fire Department on April 19 will be Ontario Fire Inspector Mikel Park. Park has been with the Ontario department for the past 12 years, and is on the board of the Foothill Fire District.

Park said he will be accepting a new job as battalion chief, fire prevention, in the city of San Luis Obispo. Park said "The one person I will miss most is battalion chief Medley."

Mardi Gras

Mardi Gras was first celebrated in New Orleans in 1827 when French-American students organized a procession of mummers on Shrove Tuesday, the last day of the season of merrymaking before Lent.

High corporate profits eyed by union leaders

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Corporate profits have taken a leap that would make a pole-vaulter proud, and in the audience of admirers are, among others, the nation's union leaders.

Since the first quarter of 1975, when after-tax profits dropped to an annual rate of only $59.6 billion, they have watched the measurement bar being placed at steadily higher levels.

In the second quarter of last year, the rate rose to $66.6 billion, in the third to $78.8 billion, in the fourth to $80.6 billion. In the first quarter of 1976 it reached $85.5 billion.

Argus Research Corp., which supplies much research used by investment institutions, calls it "the profits explosion." Argus projects a rate of $100 billion by the fourth quarter of the year and $110 billion by mid-1977.

Such stunning increases are bound to raise the sights of labor leaders, even though the first-quarter rate doesn't even bring profits back to the level of 1974's third quarter, just before the big dip.

Labor hasn't been excluded from the improvement either. Real disposable income has risen steadily since the first quarter of 1975, achieving a gain of about 4 per cent in 1975, with more projected for 1976 and 1977.

Escalator clauses helped protect some 6 million workers, or 59 per cent of those under major contracts. But, says the AFL-CIO, such clauses recover only about 50 per cent of the buying power lost to inflation.

Moreover, disposable income — that is, income available to the worker after payment of personal taxes — is diluted in power by the pre-empting of close to 20 per cent of it by food-beverage purchases.

In addition, labor's experience with prices and joblessness during the recession has resurrected some old fears, especially about job security, which is expected to receive high priority in new agreements.

The bargaining schedule this year involves 4.5 million union workers under major contracts, one of the largest figures on record. In agreements reached last year, only 2.8 million workers were covered.

This month, the United Textile Workers' agreement, covering 16,000 workers, will be renegotiated, as will the agreement 70,000 Rubber Workers have with Goodyear, Goodrich and Uniroyal.

In May and June, some 49,500 members of the Plumbers & Pipe Fitters, Carpenters and other building trades will renegotiate their contracts, as will 8,000 Retail clerks in Colorado. In June, a California Teamster agreement covering 50,000 workers is scheduled to be renegotiated.

A total of 196,000 electrical workers represented by various unions will be involved in contract talks during the first half of the year with General Electric, Westinghouse, RCA and Allen-Bradley.

Contracts with 24,500 Meat Cutters will be discussed in August and September. And throughout the year, 102,000 service workers in hotels, restaurants, department stores and other institutions will be renegotiated.

In the latter part of the year, major contracts with the automotive industry will be renegotiated with American Motors, Chrysler, Ford and General Motors. A total of 769,000 workers are involved.

Legal harassment drove Hughes into seclusion

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "I don't want to spend the rest of my life sitting in courtrooms being harassed and interrogated...," Howard Hughes said in a strange televised telephone interview in 1971.

Although he was not seen, Hughes' words confirmed for some the widely held suspicion that the eccentric billionaire had chosen the life of a recluse for a simple reason: he didn't want to testify.

Beseiged with lawsuits and embroiled in government investigations for the last 15 years of his life, Hughes raced secretly across several continents to avoid subpoenas.

To the very end, he eluded the detectives and process servers. Despite repeated demands for his presence in court, Hughes never showed up.

In his absence, an army of Hughes lawyers fought his many cases. Hughes was winner and loser in judgments involving millions of dollars. And some litigations are still pending.

In recent years, three complex lawsuits put Hughes' name in headlines.

—Hughes' legal battles with Trans World Airlines spanned two decades. It took a U.S. Supreme Court ruling to set aside a default judgment against Hughes for $180 million.

—Robert Maheu, who once headed Hughes Nevada operations, sued the billionaire for defamation over comments made in the 1971 telephone press conference. After incredibily involved litigation, Maheu won a $2.8 million award from a jury which ruled he had indeed been financially injured by Hughes' comments.

—Hughes and several associates were indicted by a federal grand jury in Las Vegas in 1974 on charges of conspircy, stock manipulation and fraud in the 1968 acquisition of Air West, a regional airline. After the charges were thrown out of court, the Securities and Exchange Commission filed a civil suit in the matter claiming Air West stockholders were defrauded out of $49 million. It is still pending.

At one point, Hughes was even the subject of a lawsuit demanding that he prove he was not dead. A judge dismissed the effort as "an exercise in futility."

Hughes associates frequently dated his disappearance from public life to the start of his troubles with TWA in the 1950s.

Hughes, a daredevil aviator in his own right, began buying up TWA stock in the late 1930s with an initial investment of less than $2 million.

When he sold out his 75 per cent interest under pressure in 1966, he realized a profit of $546 million.

In the interim, however, there were battles over management of the airline. With the advent of jet air travel, Hughes yielded management to a syndicate which filed suits accusing him of mismanagement. Hughes countersued.

It was during this bitter legal hassle that Hughes disappeared. Detectives hired to serve him with subpoenas could find no trace of the man. After a five-year stalemate Hughes sold out. But he never materialized in public again.

The TWA litigation snowballed into one of the most complicated and costly legal cases ever. U.S. Supreme Court Justice Warren Burger denounced the time and expense involved, estimating it had taken "56,000 hours of lawyering at a cost of $7.5 million" to settle only a part of the corporate conflict. He estimated lawyers' fees at $15 million.

Burger dissented from the ruling which overturned an earlier award to TWA which would have cost Hughes $180 million. The record judgment had been awarded by lower courts in 1963 in default when Hughes refused to appear as a witness and produce certain evidence.

The more recent Air West case involved allegations that Hughes and associates conspired illegally to bring down the price of Air West stock just before Hughes' purchase of the ailing airline. The SEC suit for $45 million is still pending, and Hughes ignored the agency's demand for hig appearance at a hearing March 8.

Maheu's defamation suit cast light on a previously unknown facet of Hughes' secretive dealings—his behind - the - scenes manipulations involving politicians and a president of the United States. Documented testimony in the case revealed Hughes' massive contributions to political campaigns including a reported $100,000 to the campaign of President Richard M. Nixon.

As controversies swirled about him, Hughes became more mysterious than ever. He fled his Las Vegas headquarters and began wandering abroad. He moved from the Bahamas to Nicaragua to London, then the Bahamas again, and finally, Mexico. Some associates said he would have run forever to avoid process servers.

Hughes had admitted as much in his 1971 press conference.

"...If the serving of the process would mean endless hours of embarrassment, interruption of what work I want to do before I die," Hughes said, "I certainly say I don't want it and I don't relish it and I would certainly not welcome it or encourage it or make it easy."

EYE ON THE BALL — Howard Hughes looks down the fairway while playing a round of golf in Southern California during the 1930s. Hughes, who ruled a business empire valued at more than $2 billion, died Monday at the age of 70.

Difficult for press to get at Hughes

By GENE HANDSAKER

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Tall, slender, handsome, with a thin, dark moustache. That was Howard Hughes surrounded by a crowd of reporters at an Ambassador Hotel press conference in 1938.

The dashing young flyer-industrialist-movie producer had just set a speed record for around-the-world flight and was meeting the press to tell about it.

Thirty-four years later, it was a different story. Hughes was the celebrated recluse when he and I had our next meeting at a 1972 telephone press conference at the Sheraton Universal Hotel.

Hughes' aides had arranged the meeting so the industrialist could denounce as fraud Clifford Irving's biography of him.

Seven of us sat in an arc in the hot glare of TV lights, questioning Hughes for two hours. His voice came from miles away by telephone and was amplified over a loudspeaker in the hotel conference room.

Each panelist asked questions at the outset to trip up any impostor posing as Hughes on the phone. I asked if the symbol "H-1" had any significance to him. That, he said, was the designation of his record-setting plane, and he went on for what seemed like five minutes discussing fuselage, wing span, east-west speed tests — much more intricate details than a stand-in could have given.

As the news conference ended, NBC moderator Roy Neal asked the panelists if they thought they had really been talking to Hughes. To a man, we agreed we had.

Not long afterward came a report that the elusive Hughes and his bodyguards had flown to Managua, Nicaragua.

Hughes a technical genius in field of aviation

LOS ANGELES (AP) — If he had never made a movie, never clashed with a Senate investigating committee, never run an airline or been a hermit on an epic scale, Howard Hughes would still have left his mark in the world — as a technical genius.

From the early experimental planes through gradiose projects like the "Spruce Goose," to lasers and satellites designed by his Hughes Aircraft Co., Hughes' inventions stood out in the technology of war and peace.

In his 30s, while lionized in Hollywood as a creator of sexy films, Hughes set these aviation records:

1935 — world land-plane speed record of 352 miles per hour in an H-1, a low-wing monoplane he designed.

1937 — transcontinental speed record, Los Angeles to Newark, N.J., 7 hours, 28 minutes, an average of 332 m.p.h., in an H1.

1938 — round-the-world record of 91 hours, 14 minutes, in a Lockheed 14, built to his specifications. The plane later became the Hudson bomber used by the British in World War II.

1944 — Speed record for transport planes of 6 hours, 58 minutes from Los Angeles to Washington, D.C., in a Lockheed Constellation, designed largely by him for use by Trans World Airlines, which he controlled.

Hughes' H-1 racing plane had tremendous influence on military craft of its period. First with flush rivets, first with power-driven retractable landing gear, first with jet thrust exhaust, first with air intakes on the leading edge of the wings, it shook the idea that monoplanes were impractical for pursuit.

The Japanese tried to buy it, but Hughes refused. They photographed it and used it as the basis for the famed Zero of World War II.

Hughes also was credited with the basic design of another famous World War II plane, the P38 Lightning.

Hughes later was given a contract to build a high-speed photo-reconnaissance plane, the XF-11, an advanced design which had

Spent $300 million in Nevada, then left state mysteriously

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) — Howard Hughes made an indelible mark on Nevada, beginning with his secret arrival on a private train in 1966.

He spent $300 million on a casino empire, vast land holdings, mines and other properties, then left Nevada just as mysteriously four years later.

Hughes left behind about $172 million in lawsuits against him and his Summa Corp.

Throughout his stay in Nevada, Hughes painstakingly avoided the public eye. Even his key employes said they only occasionally caught glimpses of the reclusive billionaire, although they often got phone calls and hand-scrawled notes from their boss.

Hughes was no stranger to Nevada when he arrived in 1966. He spent time in mining areas of the state in his youth and in 1957 secretly married movie queen Jean Peters at a Tonopah motel.

But he became the state's No. 1 mystery man after arriving in Las Vegas on Thanksgiving evening 1966 on a private train. He barricaded himself in a penthouse at the Desert Inn Hotel-Casino and started his buying spree.

He wound up with six Las Vegas hotel-casinos and one Reno club, which produce annual gross revenues of more than $100 million.

Hughes has left a question mark over his Nevada casino holdings.

But officials say they are not worried about the future, although authorities will be keeping a close eye on the heirs to the fortune.

"We will be watching when it goes through probate to see who the heirs are," said Phil Hannifin, chairman of the Nevada Gaming Control Board. "Those parties who inherit shares will have to be licensed by the state."

Under Nevada law, major shareholders will be subjected to intense scrutiny before they can assume any control whatsoever over the seven —casino chain.

Hughes' 8,000 employes face no uncertainty, officials of the Summa Corp., the firm which operates the casinos, assured them Monday.

J. C. Jordan, general manager of Harolds Club in Reno, said the industrialist's death will have "absolutely no effect" on casino operations.

"The executive board of directors has been making all major decisions for some time," he said. "They have assured me they will continue to do the same."

The only fear expressed Monday was by a state gaming official who predicted lengthy court litigation when the Hughes estate enters probate.

"I expect a final solution to the matter will be years away," said one top official who asked not to be named.

Hughes also bought famed old mines around Tonopah and elsewhere in Nevada, running up a tab said to have been as high as $20 million.

His land holdings included a ranch near Las Vegas bought in 1967 for a reported $600,000 from the ex-wife of German munitions magnate Alfred Krupp. It was later sold.

Hughes also bought extensive tracts of vacant land along the glittering Las Vegas Strip. The final tally was said to exceed 30,000 acres.

He also picked up a Las Vegas television station, an air terminal, a charter air service and other properties.

Hughes ended up with an employe force in Nevada of more than 8,000, making him the state's largest single employer.

Hughes caused controversy in nearly all his Nevada dealings. He was credited with buying out underworld figures with some of his casino purchases. But state Gaming Control Board Chairman Phil Hannifin complained at one point that trying to establish personal contact with Hughes was "like yelling into a big barrel. All I ever hear is my own voice."

Hannifin and Gov. Mike O'Callaghan eventually got a personal meeting with Hughes in March 1973 in a hotel suite in London.

The meeting was necessary because the state Gaming Commission had refused to approve a top-level change in the Hughes organization. After the meeting, the reorganization was approved.

Hughes' gambling holdings include the Desert Inn, Castaways, Frontier, Sands, Landmark and Silver Slipper, all in Las Vegas. He also bought Harold's Club in Reno.

While many of Hughes' moves prompted lawsuits, others drew praise and smiles. He gave large sums of money for a new medical school in Nevada. He also contributed to the campaigns of various political figures in the state.

Hughes' aviation career

counter-rotating propellers on its two engines.

It almost killed him. While he was testing the plane over Los Angeles in July of 1946, the four rear blades of the right propeller failed and went into reverse pitch. This exerted a powerful backward push and the craft spun out of control. Hughes stayed with the plane, trying to land on a golf course, but it hit three houses. He was critically hurt, but he flew a duplicate of the craft successfully a year later.

Hughes' final effort in aircraft design was his least successful — a 200-ton flying boat made of plywood to circumvent wartime aluminum shortages. The "Spruce Goose" cost the government $18 million and Hughes several times that amount but it never fulfilled its mission: to span oceans with a load of 750 troops.

The cost of the project brought Hughes into hot-tempered confrontation with a Senate investigating committee in 1947. Hughes answered charges that it would never get into the air by flying it a few months later to a height of 70 feet in a mile-long hop during a taxi test. It never flew again.

Inventions spun from Hughes like sparks from a pinwheel. For his round-the-world flight, he invented a rubber life raft and a portable radio transmitter.

For his D-2 he invented a flexible ammunition feed chute that stepped up the rate of .50 caliber fire five times. This was the forerunner of a Hughes gun system for Navy aircraft that fired 12,600 rounds of 20 mm. cannon shells per minute.

While hospitalized after the XF-11 crash, he designed a motorized bed so completely automatic that a physician remarked, "It can do everything but fly."

After the war, Hughes went in heavily for electronics, helicopters, missiles and eventually spacecraft.

The Culver City aircraft division of his wholly owned Hughes Tool Co., the foundation of his fortune, concentrated largely on rotor craft. After experimenting with a cargo model, once the largest helicopter in the world, it switched to lighter craft. In the mid-1960s the division claimed a higher unit production rate than any other helicopter firm.

Hughes Aircraft is the nation's 10th largest defense contractor, according to a company spokesman, with $1.5 billion worth of sales last year.

Hughes' empire reflected its creator

NEW YORK (AP) — The empire of Howard Hughes grew out of inventiveness until it became a conglomerate that reflected its creator.

The Hughes Tool Co., which he inherited at 19, thrived by selling a drill bit that clawed through rock as easily as mud.

The bit is the basis of the oil drilling process now used in every producing country outside of the Communist world. It was invented by Hughes' father and partner in 1909.

In 1923, Hughes inherited the firm, and before that decade had ended he had made his move into other businesses.

His fortune at the time of his death Monday was generally estimated to have been about $2 billion, but some who knew him say it was less than that. All concede it was one of the greatest personal fortunes ever amassed.

His holdings in recent years have largely been controlled by Summa Corp., the holding company for his casino, helicopter and real estate operations.

Almost as if he wanted to make his own mark rather than be known as his father's heir, Hughes was known for letting the managers of Toolco run their own show while he took a personal involvement in every detail of his other operations.

When he moved into the motion picture industry in the 1920s, Hughes was involved in casting and production techniques. When he moved into aviation, he often tested his own planes.

But the tool company served as the basis of his empire. A Fortune Magazine article in December 1973 estimated that he earned $750 million in profits on the tool company before selling it to the public in 1972 at $30 a share, a $150 million transaction.

This wasn't Hughes' largest business deal, though. When he sold his holdings in Trans World Airlines in 1966, he received $546,549,171 for his $80 million investment.

Another of his business deals saw Hughes buy RKO Pictures in 1954 with a personal check for $23,489,478. He sold it 16 months later for 25 million.

Hughes' empire varied in shape through the years, reflecting the changing interests of the man.

In recent years he was involved in mining operations and ocean exploration. This led him to ownership of the Glomar Explorer, which was found to be involved in a Central Intelligence Agency effort to salvage a sunken Russian submarine instead of its stated purpose of scooping up mineral nodules from the ocean floor.

His investments in real estate and casino-hotels in Las Vegas, Nev., also occupied the closing years of his life as he ran his empire while secluded in a succession of heavily guarded hotel suites.

In 1972, Hughes sold his Toolco holdings and grouped the rest of his vast holdings into Summa.

The money from the Toolco was used to fund the purchases of five casinos in Las Vegas and one in Reno, Nev., all of which are officially owned by Summa.

Where the vast fortune will go is a public mystery. It was not immediately known whether Hughes even left a will.

One man close to Hughes in earlier years said he had heard that Summa executives had tried to find a will several years ago when Hughes was reported ill. The source, who asked not to be identified, said he had heard that they were unable to come up with one.

A spokesman identified the present Summa holdings as the Sands Hotel, Frontir Hotel, Desert Inn, The Landmark, Castaways and Silver Slipper, all in Las Vegas, and Harolds Club in Reno, Nev.

Also, Hughes Aviation Services at McCarran International Airport, Las Vegas; station KLAS-TV, Las Vegas; various parcels of land in Los Angeles and Las Vegas; and Hughes Helicopter, which produces commercial and military helicopters.

Summa, through another company, also controls Hughes Airwest, a West Coast regional airline with routes to Canada and Mexico.

Kissinger brother-in-law got job through threat?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department is being asked to investigate Civil Service Commission charges that Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's brother-in-law received his government job through preferential treatment.

The commission said David Maginnes, the brother of Nancy Kissinger, was hired by the U.S. Office of Education for $20,000 a year although there was no work for him to do.

The man who did the hiring told investigators he was threatened with dismissal when he balked at employing Maginnes in 1972, about a year and a half before the Kissingers were married, the report said.

It cited evidence that Maginnes, who still holds the job, was regarded during the administration of former President Richard M. Nixon as a "must hire" and concluded, "The preponderance of evidence ... points to the conclusion that Maginnes was in fact a 'must hire' and that he was given preferential treatment in his appointment to a competitive position."

The secret report, dated July 1975 and made public by two California congressmen, said officials at the Office of Education were aware that Maginnes' sister was going to marry Kissinger.

There was no direct comment from Maginnes or from the Kissingers.

New Times magazine, which carried a brief story about Maginnes in its April 2 issue, quoted him as saying, "My credentials were impeccable. I will have you know I am a Yale graduate with honors. I have a Ph.D. in history from Columbia University, five European languages and a decade of university teaching."

The report, released by Democratic Reps. Augustus Hawkins and John E. Moss, carries the notation "For U.S. Government Use, Only" at the top of most pages and cautions against its release to the public.

Hawkins and Moss asked the attorney general for a Justice Department investigation into the hiring of Maginnes and into allegations that the Nixon administration filled career government jobs with political employes at the Department of Health, Education and Welfare until late 1973 and may have covered it up by destroying documents.

The two congressmen said the report outlines a pattern of hiring actions that "may involve criminal violations of the law."

Larry LaMoure, the man who was ordered to hire Maginnes, told investigators he tried to refuse the order because there was no work for him. "I did not have the workload to justify the hiring of Mr. Maginnes," he was quoted as telling the Civil Service Commission. "As a matter of fact, when he eventually joined the staff I had to put him in a make-work situation."

LaMoure said he first refused orders to hire Maginnes but capitulated because "I was told I would do so or be removed from my position as being uncooperative."

LaMoure said that threat came from his boss, Robert Wheeler, but Wheeler was quoted as telling the investigators, "I do not recall any of these events."

Oil squeeze

The recent oil squeeze hit Japan harder than any other major nation. Japan, which depends on imported oil for 75 per cent of its energy, saw its oil bill soar from $6 billion in 1973 to $19 billion in 1974, The Conference Board notes.

S.D. planners challenge firing—lose

By MAE TATE
PB Staff Writer

Three ousted San Dimas planning commissioners showed up for business as usual Tuesday night, but politely relinquished their seats after the city attorney declared their firing by the City Council a legal act.

Gerald Klein, Clyde Bartman and Robert Sturrock, although fired by the council March 22, entered the council chambers and took their seats before a crowd of nearly 100 persons.

Jim Butler, Jim Clampett and Nicholas Martocchio, the three new commissioners appointed last week, sat on the front row.

Through the proceedings supporters of the "new guard" — Mayor Marvin Ersher and Councilmen Terry Dipple and Philix Wax — and the "old guard" prepresented by Councilmen James Lough and James McLean sat quietly shoulder to shoulder.

All council members except Lough attended.

Immediately following the flag salute, Klein asked for the floor and read a prepared statement on behalf of the three men, addressing his remarks to Chairman Don Haefer. He referred to the accusations by Wax that the trio of ousted commissioners was "irresponsible" and had committed a breach of public trust in supporting expansion of the A-Z Transfer firm, a non-conforming industrial use.

"All of those allegations are completely false and have no basis in fact whatsoever as the record, the tape of that meeting, clearly shows," Klein continued. "All this commission's actions were to attempt to solve a difficult and trying problem."

He noted that the vote was 5-0 on the issue and questioned the legality of the dismissal of the three commissioners.

Klein read a letter from attorney Stephen C. Jones of La Verne who had been retained on behalf of himself, Bartman and Sturrock. According to Jones, "There is no provision in the state law or in the San Dimas ordinances which authorizes the act of the City Council in dismissing the three planning commissioners. Each of you was appointed to a specific term of office and, absent cause for dismissal, each of you is entitled to serve to the end of such term. The City Council acted illegally in dismissing the three."

Klein repeated his belief that the action was unwarranted, saying there was "a difference of opinion, perhaps, but that certainly is not cause."

He then refused to relinquish his seat unless City Atty. Norman Oliver ruled that the firing was legal. Bartman and Sturrock concurred.

At this point, Haefer commented "We indeed have a problem. There are five seats on the commission and eight men for those five seats. Do we seat the three gentlemen appointed by the City Council or not?"

Oliver said that the ordinance does provide for a specific term of the commissioner, but he was aware of no decisive law in the state that says the action the council took was an invalid act.

"It is my intent to support the action of the council," Oliver asserted. "Unless the courts decide otherwise, the termination of the three men's terms was indeed a valid act."

Haefer asked the three to step down and both he and Commissioner Dave Brode expressed appreciation and gratitude for the years of service given by them. Brode added "It is important now to put the pieces back together and proceed in the leadership of this community."

Interviewed later, the three said they have not as yet decided to file suit against the city.

"We have no great desire to go into a lengthy court battle. The community will not benefit from that and we have no desire to disrupt the orderly functions of the community," Klein said.

Responding to the charges made by Klein, Wax later said "My action was justified in my opinon. We did research the role of the commissioner and what the council majority can and cannot do. We felt the circumstances warranted the action."

MARY MONTES

School unit puts Montes in top spot

Mrs. Mary Montes, assistant professor and adviser to bilingual-cross culture programming at Cal Poly Pomona, Tuesday was elected president of the Pomona school board She succeeds Don Donnelly.

C Allen Braswell was elected vice president and board representative to the Los Angeles County School Trustees Association.

Donnelly was retained as the board's representative on the Baldy View Regional Occupational Program Commission, with Ken Pine as alternate.

Mrs Montes failed to win a seat on the school board in the 1973 election, was appointed to the board in July of 1974 to replace Roy O. Day who resigned, then won a landslide victory in the November 1974 election, receiving twice as many votes as the second-place candidate.

She served as board vice president last year.

Braswell, commenting that he believed the individual chosen board president should be "a product of exhibited leadership," nominated Mrs. Montes for the post. No other name was placed in nomination. The vote was 3-0. Board member Gene Whitlock was absent because of illness. Pine abstained, explaining he opposed the procedure of automatically electing a board vice president to the top spot.

Following the reorganization of the board, members discussed the continued use of City Council Chambers for board meetings. When it appeared the vote was split, the matter was held over for a full board. Donnelly and Braswell favored the continued use of the chambers while Mrs. Montes and Pine favored returning to the Education Center board room.

Claremont woman held after crash injures four

A 30-year-old Claremont woman has been booked at West End Sheriff's Jail for reckless driving after a four-car collision which injured four persons Tuesday at Holt and Central avenues, Montclair.

Police said witnesses reported that Miss Consuelo Cassils Florez, 30, of 413 Victoria Place, Claremont, was chasing her boyfriend, Pedro Rodriguez Cortez, 23, along Holt Boulevard in Ontario and Montclair at speeds between 65 and 70 miles an hour when Cortez slowed for a red light at Holt and Central avenues.

Miss Florez' car rear-ended the Cortez vehicle, sending it across the intersection to collide headon with two vehicles stopped for the red light.

Miss Florez was arrested, but police said that Cortez, although injured, fled on foot, and is wanted for felony hit-and-run.

Taken to Doctors Hospital, Montclair, for treatment of injuries, were Lydia Quezada, 21, of Pomona, who suffered facial and scalp injuries, and Glafira Chavez, 30, of Pomona, who sustained a broken right leg and other possible broken bones. Both were passengers in Cortez's car.

Bob Young, 32, of Alta Loma, driver of a vehicle which Cortez hit headon, complained of pain in the left side.

Kristaps Grinbergs, and his wife Anna, of Pomona, were in the other car which Cortez hit, and were not hurt.

Witnesses said that during the chase the Florez and Cortez cars weaved from lane to lane, and at least one car was forced off the road.

Chino school revisions proposed

By ELIZABETH BORDENAVE
PB Correspondent

Hiring more counselors and increasing the number of credits required for graduation were among the recommendations by subcommittees of the Committee on Re-Evaluation of Secondary Education (RISE), presented to the Chino school board Tuesday night.

If all the proposals were implemented, it would cost the district $588,540 for the first year, and about $1,800,000 for a projected five-year program.

The proposals presented during a special workshop session of the board, were a result of studies made by the district's RISE committee, a board-appointed citizens group, in response to urgings by the state.

Representatives from each committee presented and discussed their recommendations by priority. Only the specific recommendations were given, but further background material is scheduled to be discussed at the next meeting.

The subcommittee on counseling and guidance recommended decreasing counselor-student ratio by hiring more counselors. A program of family-student educational planning was offered. The committee also suggested counselors reorganize current methods of student contact and that they be relieved of most administrative and clerical duties.

Main recommendations of the graduation requirement subcommittee were that the number of credits for graduation be raised, that one year of math and science be increased to three years combined with at least one in each, and that standardized tests of proficiency be given.

The subcommittee on vocational education recommended five major changes in the school system be made:

— That teach in-service programs be conducted to eliminate irrelevant content from existing courses

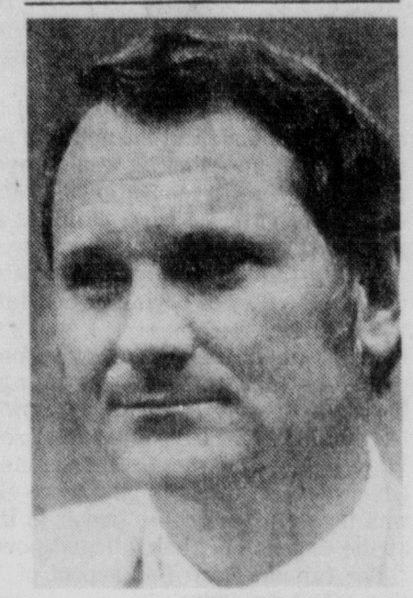
— That the district provide exploratory experiences in the career field of interest to students

— That it establish career guidance centers

— That it encourage and support a curriculum based on career goals and occupational clusters for all students

— That it develop an extensive information system of post high school employment and occupational education.

The teacher training subcommittee suggested a further study be made in the area of intern supervision by colleges and universities involved in Teacher Training.



BARRY BRANDT

New school board chief in Upland

Barry Brandt, Upland attorney, was elected president of the Upland school board for 1976-77 on Tuesday.

Brandt was appointed to the school board in September 1974 to replace Erwin Schneekluth who retired in August of that year. He subsequently was elected to a four-year term in March 1975.

Other officers elected are Dorothy Gibson as vice president and William Emrich as clerk and county representative for the board.

The board selected the Baldy View School at 979 W. 11th St. in Upland as its new meeting site. Board meetings will be held there the second Tuesday of each month at 7 p.m.

The board was to have been presented with a report concerning school boundaries. However, the report was not forthcoming and the committee asked for an extension on the report.

Bill Plaster, superintendent, told the board, "The immensity of problems has led the committee to ask for more time." Plaster added the committee was attempting to "now delimit 15 plans for the boundary study."

The superintendent called upon the board to set up a special meeting following the schools' spring break at which time the study would be presented. Plaster also asked the board to set up two public hearing meetings on the boundary study.

Results of the study could affect teacher transfers and student relocation.

Opponents to street refuse collection in Chino win out

By JON MORRIS
PB Staff Writer

Chino residents who complained loud and long over a new trash collection system have won their battle with the city.

After strong urgings from Mayor Bob McLeod, the City Council Tuesday night threw out the new program of street refuse collections, and voted to return to alley pickups.

A number of citizens who favored alley pickups were in the council chambers, and pictures of various alleys were dispalyed during the meeting.

City officials indicated strong citizen reaction had played a major role in reversing a staff decision last February in favor of street pickups. Chino resident Helen Orr presented the pictures of alleys to the council.

Officials have claimed street pickups are more economical than alley pickups — but residents complained about carrying containers longer distances to the street than to alleys.

McLeod earlier said citizens were forced to "haul trash through their living rooms," and businessmen had to drag large bins onto main thoroughfares.

The council had halted the street system last month after it was implemented briefly and ordered a staff review. The report presented by Lee Fenstermaker, administrative analyst, said the reasons for abandoning alley pickups, besides the cost, was to "minimize vandalism to refuse containers, decrease the number of broken water meters (by trash trucks), improve access and the appearance of the alleys."

However, Fenstermaker admitted there was "overwhelming" negative citizen reaction to street pickups. Petitions were received from 125 concerned citizens, and a staff random sample showed 86 per cent of the residents favored a return to alley pickups.

Western Refuse, the city's trash collector, complained about the cost and damage to its trucks in the alleys, Fenstermaker noted.

But Councilwoman Eileen Carter said smaller trucks could be used in alleys, and that would be more economical.

As to appearance of the alleys, Councilman Leonard Frketich said "Our alleys are in better shape than they have been in years. But were getting shafted by the Humane Society in what we're paying them, with all the dogs running around loose. And that isn't just in the alleys."

Frketich questioned whether alleys were in such bad shape as to cause damage to trash trucks. He also said Western Refuse should not use as many men on the trucks.

The council voted unanimously to notify Western Refuse to return to alley pickups.

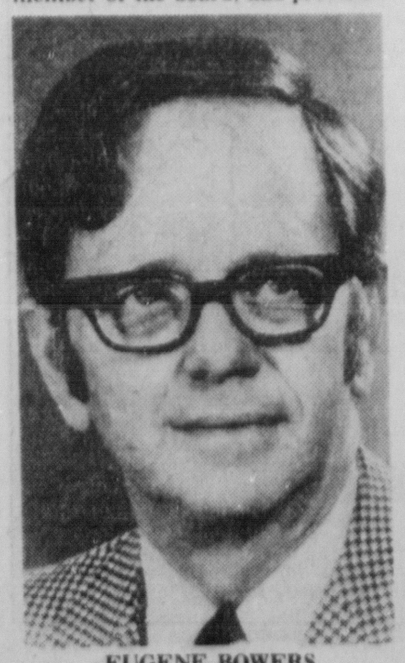
Presidential term No. 5 for Bowers

By BOB SWETNAM
PB Correspondent

Eugene Bowers, an executive with the Metropolitan Water District, was elected president of the Bonita school board for a fifth consecutive term at Tuesday night's meeting.

Bowers, serving his ninth year as a member of the board, had previously served for six years on the La Verne city school board before its merger with San Dimas in 1958.



EUGENE BOWERS

Re-elected, along with Bowers, were Robert Rimpau, vice president, and Vera Mae Gephart, clerk. All votes were unanimous.

Rimpau, a resident of San Dimas since 1946, is a former president of the board. Gephart, a housewife, is a long-time resident of La Verne.

In other action the board received a tentative budget for the 1976-77 school year estimated at $10,611,524. This compares with a 1975-76 adopted budget of $10,361,022, an increase of more than $250,000.

Supt. James Johnson explained that the tentative budget is only used as a "planning document" and that the budget's effect upon taxes was not known at this time.

"There will be three additional budgets following this one" said Johnson. "We will have a much better idea after our balances are known."

Johnson also pointed out that many of the cost increases reflected in the budget were state-mandated increases over which the district had no control. These included increased payments to the teacher's retirement fund, public employes retirement fund, disability insurance, and other employe benefits.

Cucamonga school board elects Lewis

Patton Lewis was reelected Tuesday night as president of the Central school board in Cucamonga.

Other officers elected during the organizational meeting were Dr. Thomas Shore, clerk, and Benjamin Mackell, district representative to the San Bernardino County Committee on School District Organization.

The board also voted to maintain the same meeting schedule as in previous years, with regular board meetings to be held on the first and third Tuesdays of each month, the exceptions being the third Tuesday in both August and December.

The board adopted the district's school calendar for the 1976-77 school year. The summer school session will be held from July 6 to July 30, while the regular fall semester is to begin Sept. 13. Teachers are to report Sept. 1 for pre-school orientation.

Board approval was given to a proposal that Central School administration run the district's summer school program. The administrators will be employed for an eight hour day for 19 days.

Park discussion slated in Chino

A public meeting will be held tonight by the Chino Recreation and Parks Department to discuss design and development of the Monte Vista Park site.

The meeting is scheduled for 7 p.m. at Gird Elementary School multipurpose room, Third and B streets. Interested persons will be given a chance to voice opinions.

Shady donations vs. fuzzy thinking

It wasn't the news media that brought about the downfall of Richard M. Nixon. It was the news media plus the machinations of a "military-intelligence-industrial complex" that is dedicated to turning America into a fascist state.

Or so contends Marcus G. Raskin, a director of a Washington, D.C. think tank, the Institute for Policy Studies, one-time adviser to congressmen, member of President Kennedy's national security staff and co-defendant with Dr. Benjamin Spock and two other anti-Vietnam war activists in that famous 1968 trial for encouraging young men to avoid the draft.

It was because Nixon attempted to leash the CIA and FBI and undercut the political power of the corporate "barons" that he was dumped, says Raskin in an interview in the National Observer. The furor over Watergate, he says, came as a complete surprise and shock to Nixon because he hadn't done anything that other presidents before him hadn't done in the way of spying or burglary or bribery or whatever.

Adherents of the conspiracy school of history will probably nod their heads in agreement with Raskin's theory. In doing so, however, they will have to ignore at least one rather salient fact about Watergate — and that is that so many people should have spent so much money to re-elect a man who was trying to centralize power in the White House at the expense of their alleged power.

The fall-out from this aspect of Watergate continues to rain down.

Just the other day, industrialist Armand Hammer, chairman of Occidental Petroleum Corp., was fined $3,000 and placed on one year's probation by a U.S. District Court judge in Los Angeles for making and concealing an illegal $54,000 contribution to Nixon's 1972 re-election campaign. The fine was the maximum allowed by law.

At about the same time as Hammer was hearing his sentence, the Civil Aeronautics Board slapped Braniff International Airways with a record $300,000 fine for juggling its books to hide a similar illegal contribution to the Nixon campaign.

Hammer and Braniff have thus joined a lengthy list of other individuals and companies charged with or convicted of the same offense, including such fair-sized corporate "baronies" as Gulf Oil and Ashland Oil.

All these contributions, it should be remembered, were made after Nixon had already been in office for nearly four years and his intentions certainly should have been clear. But maybe he made the power brokers an offer they couldn't refuse. Or maybe they are simply too clever for our understanding.

Or maybe Raskin should go back to the tank and do some more thinking.

Business and society

Reports on the birth of a new sense of corporate social responsibility have not been exaggerated.

Business executives are accepting greater social responsibility, if only because they are convinced that society will demand it of them during the balance of the century. This is the major finding of a survey by American Management Associations.

A recently published report entitled "Business and Society, 1976-2000" by John L. Paluszek, president of a New York public relations counseling firm, is a summary and analysis of the opinions of 644 company presidents across the country.

A "fundamental change" is taking place in the relationship between business and the society it serves, says Paluszek. Today, 86 per cent of the companies surveyed are not only undertaking social responsibility programs mandated by the government but are initiating voluntary and "anticipatory" programs as well.

Asked where they expect increased social pressures on business during the next five years, majorities or near majorities of the presidents cited such things as changing aspirations of minority groups and women, improvement of the physical working environment, job enrichment programs, better consumer relations and increased employe participation in decision making.

Significantly, more than 68 per cent of the presidents surveyed agreed that "We have reason to be concerned whether the corporation as we know it will survive into the next century."

"The corporation will either transform itself," the report concludes, "or be transformed by the agents of the public into a unit that formally and continuously considers the desires, needs and concerns of the individual and forms its policies accordingly."

Thought

"The spirit of man is more important than mere physical strength, and the spiritual fiber of a nation than its wealth." — Dwight D. Eisenhower, 34th U.S. President.

The Zetterberg house

Dear Editor,

A friend has just mailed me a copy of Scan for March 20, 1976, telling about the old Zetterberg home in Claremont. I knew the house well about 1908. We had just moved from Pomona to Claremont and on the way stopped at our orange grove to "camp out" in the old house there until we bought the Ferguson house at the N.E. corner of Tenth and Harvard where we lived from 1910-1920. It has been so restored that I hardly know it! Our orange grove was on Harrison Avenue about a block west of the Zetterberg house. Mr. Hamilton, I am sure, did not build that house. He bought it when he brought his family from Illinois. The Loops lived in the Zetterberg house and I am sure that Mr. Loop built it.

Mr. Loop was a business man in Pomona. I have an impression that he owned a restaurant there. He was a very large man with a "bay window" and a hearty manner.

To my childish eyes, Mrs. Loop was a raving beauty, with all the attributes youngsters now apply to movie stars. My impression is that she was much younger than Mr. Loop and that she was the stepmother of Mabel Loop, Pomona ex-1915, but possibly the mother of the younger girl with whom I played but whose name I cannot recall. Mabel Loop transferred to another school from Pomona College and became greatly respected and beloved English teacher in a Los Angeles High School.

The Loops seemed very affluent to me, although we had all the comforts and luxuries usual at that time. One thing we did not have. The little Loop girl, who was quite a tomboy, had a brown and white Shetland pony and a wicker pony-cart built for two. In this we often took long rides with lunches on Saturdays, as far away as Lordsburg — now La Verne.

The furniture in the Loop house impressed me greatly. It was all Chinese, of heavy carved teak wood, imposing but uncomfortable. Golden Chinese dragons, ivory bibelots, huge green ceramic elephants and countless oriental throw rugs adorned each room. The odor of incense permeated everything. I had never seen a double chair before, the first facing one way, the second the other — just right for a tete-a-tete.

Mrs. Loop's bedroom on the second floor spread from the east side of the house to the west and had a fireplace. In front of the hearth, on the hardwood floor, lay a giant white polar-bear rug, its stuffed head a fine place for a little girl to sit, its eyes and claws and big white teeth gleaming. To me this was the height of opulance. I remember the beautiful Mrs. Loop swishing around the room in a long Chinese dressing gown, clutching her little white poodle to her bosom.

If you wish to know more about the George Hamilton family, you might look up my classmate, Grace Hamilton Burt (Pomona 1919) who married Harold Burt, (Pomona 1916) in the Pomona College Alumni Directory. The Hamilton siblings were Helen (Helen 1913), Grace, George, Frank and Rebecca.

I am intensely interested in the history of Pomona and especially Claremont and hope to contribute to the Pomona Valley Historian before long, perhaps including this very memorabilia in what I have already written. Anything further written about the Zetterberg house will be of great interest to me and I can only hope that someone will send it to me. I also hope that this small contribution of mine will reach those at Pitzer College who are interested in the history of the Zetterberg house.

A torpedoed scandal

WASHINGTON — Chinese Nationalist officials attempted last year to buy some bootleg U.S. torpedoes, which are on the forbidden list.

The sophisticated naval torpedoes aren't supposed to be made available to America's most trusted allies, reportedly, because of their secret guidance mechanism.

To save face for the Chinese, the scandal has been hushed up. No move has been made to prosecute either the Chinese or Americans who were involved in the illegal scheme.

The former Chinese naval attache, Rear Adm. Chiu Hau-ku, was sent home to Taiwan for his role in the deal. Sources close to the case tell us, however, that the Admiral was merely a scapegoat.

They are convinced that the orders to go ahead with the bootleg purchase came directly from Taipeh, probably from Premier Chiang Ching-kuo who personally runs the Chinese Nationalist armed forces.

The ousted Admiral, according to our sources, was in touch with a California con man who posed as a naval officer and offered to sell the Chinese the banned torpedoes. It is doubtful whether the promoter could have delivered them.

In any event, the FBI got wind of the scheme and notified the State Department. It was agreed to keep the incident quiet in order to spare an ally public embarrassment. The unhappy Admiral Chiu, meanwhile, packed his bags and hastily departed Washington.

Footnote: Neither the State nor Defense Departments would comment on the story. Taiwan's Ambassador James Shen told our associate Joe Spear: "No comment, no response. I don't even want to know about it. I will wait and read it."

HALLS OF MONTEZUMA: Old soldiers never die; they merely move into top government jobs when they leave the armed forces.

The practice of collecting a civilian salary and a military pension from the taxpayers at the same time is called double-dipping. It is common among the military brass, who often retire from active duty one day and show up in command of some obscure federal office the next.

Take the case of Gen. Herman Nickerson, who missed becoming the Marine commandant. To assuage his injured feelings, he was eased quietly into the administrator's office at the National Credit Union Administration.

This is a quasi-official body, known inside the government by its initials NCUA. It is supposed to regulate the nation's 13,000 chartered credit unions and, specifically, to "promote thrift."

But Nickerson charged into the corridors of the NCUA as if they were the halls of Montezuma. He is a stickler for red tape, spic-and-span surroundings and the accoutrements of high command, which may make for parade-ground precision but is a little hard to take for civilian bookkeepers.

The General, in dismaying disregard of the thrift he was supposed to promote, also scattered money around as if he were still a free-spending member of the military-industrial complex.

He spent about $5,000, for example, on a fancy display case for his Marine memorabilia. He also availed himself of a chauffered limousine. He adorned his office in regal fashion with such appointments as a wooden signature stand and two color television sets.

He also put his former military aide on the payroll to attend to such mundane matters as manicuring the lawn at the General's home.

Nickerson's arrival at NCUA was in the nature of a Marine invasion.

He repeatedly violated federal employment regulations by placing his military sidekicks in high-paying jobs.

One military crony, Fred M. Haden, was installed as general counsel. He left the agency at the end of 1974 to go into private law practice.

But he didn't leave empty-handed. According to NCUA documents intended for official eyes only, Haden started his new law career with $172,769 in legal fees from the agency he had just left. One of his clients, a California computer firm, also landed a cross-continent contract to do the agency's computer work.

Who's to pay for health care?

By TERRY WADE

WASHINGTON — The question of national health insurance probably divides the country philosophically as greatly as any other issue. Accordingly, the 1976 presidential candidates reflect the differences in the country, offering a clear-cut choice to the voters.

Reasonably priced health care is a goal that hardly any American would oppose, least of all a presidential candidate. The issue really boils down to two basic points. First, who is going to pay the multi-billion dollar bill? Second, is it the government's role to see to the health care of every American?

Democratic presidential contenders Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington and Rep. Morris Udall of Arizona believe the federal government should foot the bill. They are both co-sponsors of the Kennedy-Corman Health Security Act, a bill backed by organized labor, that would fund a national health program 100 per cent.

Jackson in a December paper on "National Health Insurance" declared "We must provide medical care service to all our citizens, regardless of wealth." In an undated position paper Udall claimed "Every American citizen has the right to quality health care, regardless of income and it is the duty of the federal government to guarantee this right."

In a later statement Udall vowed, "I would commit every available resource to insure that I do not leave office as President of the only major industrial nation which did not provide this basic service (national health insurance)." Former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter is also a proponent of "comprehensive, nationwide, mandatory" health insurance.

"Our health care delivery system must be restructured to hold down the cost of services, to make care available to those who do not find it available because of geography or income and to improve the quality of medical care," Carter has said.

Carter does support leaving the "administrative function" to private companies. President Gerald Ford has rejected the nationwide health insurance concept. In his State of the Union Message Ford said "We can not realistically afford federally dictated national health insurance providing full coverage for all 215 million Americans."

In the same address Ford did propose "catastrophic health insurance for everybody covered by medicare." Ford doesn't see other industrial nation's experience with national health care as a shining example. "The experience of other countries raises questions about the quality as well as the cost of such plans."

Ronald Reagan, former California governor, thinks "We have more doctors and hospitals in proportion to population than any other nation on earth" and sees no need for the insurance.

Just in jest

Have faith and a bit of patience dear readers. If only you'll give our lawmakers just a little more time, I assure you they will definitely make certain there will be no such thing as evil left in this country. And if you don't believe it, take a look at their record on that score to date.

Already they have decriminalized abortion and marijuana, given the green light to pornography, and taken the onus off homosexuality. And now our state health chief is advocating the decriminalizing of the use of heroin. Who knows? In due time they may even go so far as to rule that overparking is not a sin but an inalienable right.

These days a little learning is a dangerous thing — so dangerous, in fact, that a federally financed study recommends a government expenditure of $12.6 million of the taxpayers' money on a program designed to combat vandalism and gang warfare in our schools. This in addition to the school taxes we pay and the school bonds we are asked to vote for. — Things were different in the days of my youth.

Then, as I recall it, the primary function of education was to dispense the 3Rs — Reading, Riting and Rithmetic — along with a tuneful application of the hickory stick. So we paid our taxes and sort of figured we were getting our money's worth. Today, however, when one applies the 3R formula to education, he usually comes up with Racism, Rhubarbs and Riots.

Ombudsman needed?

By EARL G. WATERS

Some notions around the legislature never seem to go away no matter how many times they are disproved and disapproved. One that has been interred countless times, and resurrected just as often, is the ombudsman. An invention of Sweden, where the office has existed since 1810, various modifications of the idea have been adopted in some other countries, mostly around the Baltic.

In its pristine form the ombudsman serves as a protector of the citizens against bureaucratic oppression. Possessed of independence, he has the power to investigate complaints and take corrective action including the prosecution of malfeasants.

Off the top it sounds like a whale of an idea, especially to those citizens who have been frustrated by governmental red tape which includes almost everyone at one time or another. It was first advanced in California by former Speaker Jessie Unruh and has been revived intermittently at successive legislative sessions. The latest version is proposed by Assemblyman Bill McVittie, an affable young man whose experience in local government before coming to the Legislature in 1974 included a stint as city attorney of Chino.

It has merit in the fact that government today has become unwieldy and too often is dominated by appointive officials. Elected by no one they plunge ahead in uncontrolled zeal totally bereft of any feeling of responsiveness to the desires or needs of the people.

But those who look to the ombudsman concept as an answer to the bureaucratic problem overlook the basic requirements for such a scheme to be effective. First off, the person selected to do the job must have all the qualities of a benevolent despot. He must be given total job security and permitted to act without interference, which would include an unrestricted budget. His powers must include not only that of investigation, but authority to counterman governmental actions and to prosecute.

It is the recognition of how awesome the position could become that has served to disenchant legislators from taking such proposals seriously in the past.

Hardly any member would be willing to create any office in state government which would be unanswerable to the Legislature. Few would be willing to write blank checks for the support of any agency. The executive branch of government is not likely to favor the establishment of an unelected official to overrule its actions. The district attorneys would never surrender any part of the prosecution authority to a state official.

Even a watered down version of the ombudsman office, which eliminated the major objections, would be a mistake for it would simply be creating just another ineffective and expensive agency of government at best and a potentially dangerous bureaucrat beyond removal by the people at its worst.

The fact is that California already had the best machinery possible for performance of ombudsman duties. That is the Legislature itself. Its 120 members, elected by the people, can be removed by the people. It has almost unlimited powers to investigate the complaints of citizens and the power to overrule bureaucrats either by enacting laws or by putting the squeeze on budgets. And the members all have large staffs along with field offices to handle citizens complaints.

As McVittie recites it himself, "I know . . . the idea works . . . I began an ombudsman experiment in my Pomona office with a staff of student interns fielding questions and complaints . . . We've cut through miles of bureaucratic red tape . . ."

Speeding citations finally taken care of

Last year I had a terrific nervous breakdown as a result of a bad divorce after a brief marriage.

I had taken a large dose of pills trying to destroy myself. I understand that can mess up your metabolism to the point that you can do some very dumb things. I did. I was cited eight or nine times for various things, mostly speeding.

Finally I was arrested and, unable to post bail, went to jail until my court date.

Well, the public defender told me to plead guilty as I had already been there long enough to satisfy the judgment. I did and that took care of ONE ticket.

The public defender and the judge told me to go to each of the other courts and pay the tickets.

I had no job nor any place to go so I went back East for several months to get myself together.

After much rest, I was able to go to work and save enought to come back here where my children are. I am working now but I only make $2.20 an hour. It takes all of that to pay my rent and utilities and I have very little for food.

Is there any way that I could consolidate all the remaining tickets so that I could pay a little each pay day and get this taken care of?

I can't pay all the tickets now because I don't have the money. — E. E., Claremont.

Preserving your anonymity, we described your problem to a representative of the Los Angeles County Public Defender's Office.

He discussed it with Stanley Matheison, chief public defender, who phoned us and suggested you set up an appointment with him.

We told you just how to contact him. You made the appointment. After a lot of time and one court appearance by you, all citations were dismissed.

This letter probably will never appear in print because it is a complaint against your paper but if you can help, I'd be most grateful.

Every few days there are supplements to your paper which we don't always get.

I have complained to the carrier and he says the paper doesn't provide him with enough to cover his territory.

The advertisements are one of the main reasons that I subscribe to your paper. It is frustrating to have to ask neighbors to see these supplements, especially since I subscribe to the same paper at the same price. — C. K., La Verne.

It wasn't necessary for you to try to psyche us into publishing your letter. We're proud to say we get very few complaints about Progress Bulletin circulation but when we do, they get the same consideration other consumer problems receive from Action Line.

We resolved your immediate problem through our circulation department.

All your carrier has to do if he runs short of supplements again is to ask his supervisor for more. If you would rather make the request personally, call the Progress Bulletin and ask to talk with Mrs. Linda Zbinden, your area supervisor.

Sometimes one of the supplements you like may fail to appear for a specific reason: some advertisers want only partial coverage of our circulation area part of the time.

We're glad you read our advertising, sorry you don't value our news more highly but glad you read Action Line.

I want to take a Bicentennial vacation but don't know how to go about planning a route so that my family and I can get the most out of it.

Is there a book or pamphlet I can obtain that will give me information about Bicentennial events? — L. M., Pomona.

Yes, our know-it-all friend, the Consumer Information Center of the General Services Administration, has a booklet on the subject.

It is called "Festival USA: Special Bicentennial Edition." You can buy it for $1.95 by sending a check to the Consumer Information Center, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

BERNICE BEDE OSOL
For Thursday, April 8, 1976

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Give risky ventures the widest possible berth today. Don't gamble for large returns on situations about which you know very little.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You may have to contend with a considerable amount of domestic frustrations today. Be patient and be sure to watch your temper.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be cautious today as to whom you impart your secrets. You don't want what you've said distorted or used against you.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Usually you manage your resources reasonably well, but today you could do something irrational that may cause severe complications.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) There's a strong possibility today you'll attempt more projects than you can capably handle. Do less, but do it properly.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Duties that you thought you had swept under the rug may pop up to haunt you today. It wouldn't be wise to again brush them aside.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) If you're not prepared to make concessions to others today, don't expect them to do you any favors. You get only what you give.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Winning and achieving is important, but if you have to do it at the expense of others today it will be a hollow victory for you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) It could be embarrassing today if you let yourself get drawn into a discussion involving subjects you know very little about.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) In doing business with new firms or people today, don't take anything for granted. Insist upon proof that they'll stand behind what they sell.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your one-to-one relationships could cause you some unexpected headaches today if you're not tactful with companions.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Be careful while working today and keep a close eye on the people you are working with. Be sure all are safety-conscious.

Your Birthday, April 8, 1976

This coming year should be a very active one for you socially, with many new people entering your life. Some will bring opportunities. Others may bring problems.

Ann Landers

The mourning after—why?

Dear Ann Landers: I have not been long in your country and am trying to understand Americans and their customs. Please explain why your people look at death and mourning in such a strange way.

"Was it a big funeral?" is a question I am asked always. Why is it important that a funeral be "big" (like a party where guests are invited)? Is it considered a status symbol to have a big funeral? I would rather have a small funeral, only the people who really cared about me, rather than a huge crowd who come for social purposes.

Then they ask if anybody "broke down"? It seems the observers are disappointed unless there is a big display of grief. If the widow is carried out they are pleased, like in an exciting film. If there are no tears or loud crying or if nobody faints, it is assumed that the mourners didn't care very much about the deceased. Then, of course, an important question, "What did So-And-So wear?" All this seems strange to me. I would like to understand it better. Can you help? — Old Country

Dear O.C.: Not ALL people would ask the questions you listed. Just the nosy, boorish and insensitive.

It is true that certain people enjoy witnessing grief. This means their own lives are so empty and uneventful that any display of emotion is "entertainment." How sad.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a 20-year-old working wife who has been married seven months. My husband and I have interesting high-paying jobs and I love him very much.

Almost every weekend we get together with another couple. I like the male more than the female and my husband has always known this. But there is nothing sexual between us. Last night my husband blew his top, accused me of having an affair with Mr. Friend and said, "We aren't going to see them any more."

Am I supposed to give up the pleasure of the man's company just because my husband is a jealous nut? How can I make him understand he is being childish and ridiculous?

I've heard it said that the first year of marriage is the hardest. I'm beginning to wonder if we'll make it. Please advise me. — Upset And Hurt

Dear U and H: It appears you have a choice to make. If you love your husband as you say, and if Mr. Friend is just that, and no more, the choice should be an easy one. If my advice sounds as if I'm opting in favor of letting your husband push you around, let me assure you such is not the case. I believe Mr. Friend could be dynamite — sooner or later — and I'm suggesting you eliminate him before you get into big trouble.

Dear Ann Landers: I have a lovely adopted daughter who has the same coloring that I have — olive skin, blue eyes and black hair. Many people have said to me, "She looks just like your own." I resent this and reply, "She IS my own." Then they say, "Well, you know what I mean." Can you come up with a really super put-down for such ignorant dumbbells? — Tulsa Mom

Dear Mom: Silence can be positively deafening, when accompanied by a long, incredulous look. Try it.

Take me out of the ball park

Now that spring has sprung, the sky is blue, the sun bright, the grass green and the freeways clogged with baseball fans, the time has come for the perennial call that heralds the long, hot summer of our content, "Kill the umpire!"

Major league baseball has, or should or is about to open its official season, after a truncated spring training in which all players were given four-year multimillion dollar contracts to perform for their chosen teams for at least a year. Time has come to throw out the first Gowdy.

Those who do not closely follow what is known as "the hot stove league" (winter horse trading among teams — often more exciting than the baseball season) are surprised at what greets them when the boys in their jockey caps and bloomers trot out on the diamond for the opening game.

A lot of people were astonished when the Yankees traded Andy Messersmith to the Dodgers for Bobby Bonds, plus cash. Others thought it outrageous that the Astros swapped Catfish Hunter for two batboys and a dozen game balls. I myself was flabbergasted to see Reggie Jackson playing in Japan, and Walter Alston the designated hitter for Oakland. That's the way, in the time-inured phraseology of baseball, the ball bounces.

More baseball players and their agents and attorneys and spokesmen and public relations representatives have been in court during the winter than honest-to-badness muggers and murderers. Burglaries and assault cases are piling up in the criminal courts while our befuddled justices attempt to decide whether an ERA of 1.06 is worth two .300 hitters.

For the average baseball fan, plopping into his $3.85 general admission seat with an 85-cent hot dog and a $1.25 beer, the new season is going to be less arguing about the infield fly rule and more about two-year contracts with the reserve clauses. You and I know about double-plays and ground-rule doubles, but what do we know about no-cut contracts, double-option reserve stipulations and retroactive clauses binding pro tempore ex post factotums? Zilch.

Nolan Ryan won't pitch until Billy Martin comes out on the mound with his lawyer and executive secretary to assure that he won't be derricked for at least three innings. His first pitch is called a ball and catcher Johnny Bench serves a writ of habeus corpus on the plate umpire. Time is called while second baseman Hank Aaron signs a no-cut contract with shortstop Manny Sanguillen.

Reggie Jackson's agent, Gary Walker, grounds out to Baltimore general manager Hank Peters. Tom Seaver's executive secretary, bowing to a writ of mandamus, pops up to Paul Blair's general counsel. Joe Ferguson's agent is called out on strikes — as who isn't?

The way baseball is going today, you don't need a scorecard to tell the players, you need the U.S. Legal Code. It will put you to sleep pretty quick, but so will the baseball game.

Dr. Lamb

About yogurt and cataracts

DEAR DR. LAMB — Recently there has been quite a controversy among my friends about yogurt. They know how fond I am of it and that I eat it daily. Several mentioned it causes cataracts. They stated it had something to do with the preparation. I hope we don't have to worry about that too.

DEAR READER — There is some experimental evidence that rats on a yogurt diet develop cataracts. The rats studied, however, ate esentially nothing but yogurt and I presume that your diet does include other things.

The theory advanced was that the double sugar, lactose, found in milk and milk products was responsible for the development of cataracts in rats.

The scientists reporting the study stated that they thought commercial yogurt was more likely to do that than natural or homemade yogurt. They pointed out that commercial yogurt is made by adding dry milk powder to the yogurt to thicken it. This "enriched" yogurt preparation then contains far more lactose than ordinary milk and milk products.

There is no evidence that human beings eating even a large amount of yogurt develop cataracts on that basis. It is a very, very big jump, from rats on a strictly yogurt diet to human beings eating yogurt as part of their diet. In view of the meager evidence available I am content to tell you that you need not worry about the problem of cataracts from this source.

For more information on double sugars and milk send 50 cents for The Health Letter, number 7-2, Milk Products: Good and Bad. Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 326, San Antonio, Texas 78292.

DEAR DR. LAMB — A statement on the report of a stress test I took recently stated resting electrocardiograph shows left ventricular hypertrophy. Would you please comment on the meaing of this statement, and does it mean that the heart has been damaged?

DEAR READER — Electrocardiograms are just like any other laboratory test and have to be correlated with the patient being studied. Left ventricular hypertrophy implies that the left ventricle, the main pumping chamber of the heart, is enlarged. From my own personal experience of interpreting thousands of electrocardiograms in normal people I think this is one of the most unreliable diagnostic terms used in electrocardiography. I have seen many, many young, healthy people with such electrocardiograms.

Even in skilled hands about 15 per cent of electrocardiograms diagnosed as left ventricular hypertrophy are in people who have no heart enlargement at all.

The most common error is made in reading the electrocardiogram of a young, healthy, vigorous individual. If you happen to be fairly slender, muscular and young and active you could have such a diagnosis without having anything wrong at all with your heart.

I'd like to add that a number of cardiac conditions will cause enlargement of the heart which can cause electrocardiographic changes classified as left ventricular hypertrophy. These include such things as high blood pressure.

Nine never—but maybe

By Oswald & James Jacoby

There is an old bridge rule of thumg called, "Eight ever — nine never" that applies to the play of a suit when the defense holds the queen. When you hold exactly eight you try a finesse. When you hold nine you try to drop the lady.

The "ever" with eight is almost always correct; the "never" with nine is such a close proposition that experts frequently go against it when they know that one opponent holds a long side suit.

In today's hand East took his ace of clubs and returned the suit. South ruffed with the six of trumps, led a trump to dummy's king, noted the fall of the queen from West, led a trump back, finessed against East's jack and made his slam when the finesse worked.

The finese wasn't a sure thing, but it was definitely the correct percentage play. The principle of restricted choice had come into action. West held either queen-jack or queen of hearts. With queen-jack he might well have played the jack. With the actual queen singleton he had to play the queen.

30 is best age for man to wed

Three out of five men think they got married too young. At least, that's the situation in Vienna, where one Dr. Otto Weiniger devoted a couple of years to a study of the matter. His findings raised the query: What is the best age for a man to marry? About age 30, he concluded. The fellows who marry then have a 30 percent less chance of being divorced at age 50 than the bridegrooms who do the thing at age 20.

Our Language man can't explain what causes that ailment known as "cherophobia." He only knows it's the technical term for the fear of having fun.

Q. "Is hot-air balloon flying a seasonal sport?"

A. Not necessarily. But the cold of winter gives the balloonists a lot better lift, so that's when they get their best speeds, altitudes and distances.

Did I say nobody knows why ships always pass on the right? Wrong! Yesteryear's tiller man, usually right handed, controlled that ancient steering oar to the right quarter of the ship's stern where it was most comfortable. Being on the right, therefore, he passed ships on the right where his vision was not impaired.

The word "periscope" means to "see around." With a toy periscope, you can see around corners, over walls and other objects blocking your view.

The simplest periscope consists of a tube with a mirror at each end. The mirrors slant in just the right way so that the light which strikes the top mirror is reflected down the tube to the lower mirror and then into the eyes of the viewer.

The periscopes used in submarines to see what is going on above the water are much more complicated. They have prisms for changing the direction of light instead of mirrors, and magnifying lenses that act much like a telescope to make ships far away show clearly.

The periscope is filled with a dry gas to keep it from fogging like a car window on a winter day.

Submarines often cruise at "periscope depth" with only the periscope above water. The periscope can move up and down, and be turned to look in a complete circle.

A World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, Ca 95061.

Slow, but steady drive to bring prayers back into classroom

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — A disjointed movement is afoot in America to return prayer to the schoolroom.

More and more states are looking for ways to restore prayer in classrooms and small, local bands of vocal citizens are raising their voices to demand that schools provide time, and in some cases guidance, for religious observance.

There appears to be no coordinated national effort. But in the 14 years since the U.S. Supreme Court decided it was unconstitutional for children to pray in schools, nearly 30 states have instituted, or are investigating, ways to get religion back into the classroom.

A survey by The Associated Press showed that within the past two years at least 15 states have enacted laws allowing periods of silent meditation in public school classes.

The form and function of the meditation periods vary, but the prevailing belief of those who support the movement is that religion cannot be exorcised from the historical and moral fabric of American society.

Supporters of pro-prayer measures argue that the United States is truly "One nation under God" and that a strict separation of church and state is futile.

Those who want prayer in public schools say they are perplexed by the contradiction of getting prayer out of the classroom but not out of other American institutions.

Rita Warren of Brockton, Mass., a pro-prayer activist, says: "Every piece of money in this country says: 'In God We Trust' and that's a prayer." Mrs. Warren, who has taken her campaign around New England and to Washington, is leading a drive for a constitutional amendment to allow prayer in public schools.

New Hampshire Gov. Meldrim Thomson, a strong prayer-in-the-school advocate, points out the U.S. Congress and other legislative bodies open their deliberations with prayer.

After a recent federal court ruling declaring New Hampshire's year-old school prayer law "patently unconstitutional," Thomson said he would not give up the fight to have some type of meditation in the state's public schools. He said a new law would be written avoiding a direct constitutional confrontation.

New Hampshire's first attempt to deal with the 1962 Supreme Court ruling turned recitation of the Lord's Prayer into an historical exercise. Students were reminded at the opening of devotional exercises that "this Lord's Prayer is the prayer the Pilgrim fathers recited when they came to this country."

More than 30 New Hampshire communities are now debating whether to use silent meditation as an alternative until some new state law is enacted.

Connecticut's 1975 law allowing a meditation period originally called for recitation of a prayer, but the legislature changed it before passage.

The Connecticut Civil Liberties Union says it opposes even the silent meditation statute. It claims some teachers are using the law to allow prayer.

But William Olds, director of the Civil Liberties Union, says: "The schools seem to be bending over backward to keep it from being prayer. It's going to be a long time before we get a test case."

Olds says passage of the Connecticut law did have some beneficial effect because it publicized the illegality of school prayer and may have encourged teachers to stay away from it.

Several states have followed the lead of Pennsylvania's four-year-old law and left the matter up to teachers to decide whether to allow the class to meditate or even pray silently.

A Virginia law approved early this month gives teachers authority to enforce quiet during 60-second meditation periods. Montana's unchallenged law says: "Any teacher, principal or superintendent may open the school day with a prayer."

Occasionally, teachers, who might be named in suits protesting school prayer or oppose devotional exercises themselves, sue to have prayer stopped.

A teachers' union in Okaloosa County, Fla., successfully sued to overturn a county school board policy requiring them to lead their classes in Bible readings and prayer. The exercises allowed students to leave if they wanted to, but teachers were required to stay.

A lawyer in the Oregon attorney general's office says his state's constitution and laws more strictly separate church and state than the U.S. Constitution and federal rulings.

Utah dancers set for MSAC

The Utah Repertory Dance Theater, troupe in residence at the University of Utah, will present a performance in Gymnasium 3 at Mt. San Antonio College at 8 p.m. April 24.

Tickets, at $4 for general admission and $2 for students, may be obtained at the MSAC Community Services Office, Wallich's Music City and Liberty ticket agencies.

The troupe has a repertoire of 50 works by 22 choreographers. Among them are dances by John Butler, Anna Sokolow, Glen Tetley and Matt Mattox.

But many of the modern dances come from the members themselves. For instance, Kay Clark of Pasadena presents "Women Waiting," a touching quartet elaborating different degrees of need and patience. Linda C. Smith, who with Miss Clark is a founding member of the company, choreographed "Snack Pack," a spoof of pop art, commercials and modern dance itself.

The modern dance variety show features dances that are contemporary and classical; music that is percussive and synthesized, and lights that are expressive — from brightest whites to darkest blacks, pastels, fluorescents and rainbows.

The Utah Repertory Dance Theatre was founded in 1966 through the co-operation of the Rockefeller Foundation, the University of Utah and some dancers as an experiment in the performing arts. It was founded to be a fully professional modern dance company in permanent residence on a university campus.

The artistic structure in dance allows each member a voice in direction and gives all dancers the opportunity to perform, teach and choreograph.

Designed to be a regional company located outside the New York dance center, the troupe takes dance to communities that have never before seen live modern dance, as well as to communities with well-established dance audiences.

These original concepts have been the basis which has allowed the company to grow from eight to 18 members employed year round. The repertoire has grown to 50 works, 30 of which have been choreographed by members. The company has a system of artistic collaboration in which an elected committee of three dancers coordinates the direction of the company.

All members of the company also teach master classes and give lecture-demonstrations and seminars on college campuses. They also conduct modern dance workshops at the University of Utah and on other Western campuses, teaching as many as 200 students for as long as six weeks.

SOUL SINGERS — Brush Arbor, popular Christian musical group, will take part in "Hallelujah Jubilee" at Magic Mountain April 13-18. The group stars on television's Hee Haw and shares top-billing with the celebrated Clara Ward Singers. The Valenci area amusement park will be open from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Ticket scalpers flourish in state

By STEPHEN FORD

NEW YORK — (NEA) — For those who have experienced it, it's hardly worth noticing the gauntlet of ticket hustlers touting their illicit goods at supposed sold-out concerts. Like the souvenir booklet peddlers and uniformed dragoons inspecting the tickets insuring your right to be in queue, the concert habitue must expect an onslaught of Fagins gnarled by the law to push their wares — front row and balcony seats not available two weeks ago at the ticket outlet you ordinarily deal with are now suddenly at your fingertips — for double or more the legitimate price, of course.

Is there no justice? Very little but a few conscientious souls are attempting to curtail this tradition. Most of the effort seems to be coming from California where one legislator has snatched up the cause of rock concert fans too long preyed upon by the one social villain Dickens never ran up against — the swiftfooted, great-winged ticket scalper.

California state senator Alex Garcia, attempting to pour salt on the tails of these fly-by-night operators, introduced legislation to outlaw their policy of "whatever the traffic will bear" used to determine the resale price of the hard-to-come-by tickets. The bill was shot down faster than a proposal for aid to the unemployed.

Testimony gathered by Garcia revealed that some ticket agencies employ college students to stand in line and buy the maximum number of tickets, usually six, from legitimate ticket outlets, turn them over to the agency, then return to the scene of the crime to purchase another half dozen. This continues until there are no more seats left and you must meet the exorbitant price of the only game in town.

A Hollywood area ticket scalper wishing to remain unidentified confessed he could acquire tickets to any sold-out show depending on how many his college-type shills can buy during return trips to the box office. This, too, determines the amount the scalper will demand for the tickets.

Rock bands booked

Two 4-member rock band will present a program at the Colony Park Recreation Center, 1240 W. Fourth St., Ontario, at 8:30 p.m. Friday. Tickets are $1.50.

The principal feature is Medusa, made up of Mike Odle, lead guitar and vocals; Nick Mars, second guitar and vocals; Ken Perish, drums, and Randy Deets, bass and vocals. The group is from Ontario.

The second foursome is The Axe from Chino.

Olio slated

Eleven olio acts will be presented during a performance of "The Drunkard" by the Montclair Vista Women's Club Players this weekend at the Monte Vista Lodge, 2426 N. Euclid Ave., Upland.

The 142-year-old melodrama will be staged for senior citizens and students at 8:15 p.m. Thursday, admission $1. It will be repeated at the same hour Friday and Saturday, admission $3.

The olio numbers and performers are "Olio Girl," Doreen Schan; "Throw Out the Lifeline," Charlotte Carpena; "Away with Rum," and "A Night in the Tavern," Andrew Krueger; "A Bird in a Gilded Cage" and "The Last Rose of Summer," Cherie Ann Garland; "The Cremation of Sam McGee" and "The Face on the Barroom Floor," Harold Goodell; "Meow, Meow," Rose Edwards; "Teapot," Erin McGee and Theresa Shepard, and "Corky Corkhead," Bob Carroll Sr.

TV men to visit Pitzer

Video artist John Sturgeon and Richard Dreyfuss, actor who performed in the movie "Jaws" will be on the Pitzer College campus today and Thursday as part of the spring artist lecture series.

Sturgeon, who is based in Los Angeles, will lecture in the Scott Hall TV studio, at 7:30 tonight.

Dreyfuss will talk Thursday at 8 p.m. in Avery Auditorium. Though best known for his work in "Jaws," he also appeared in "American Graffiti", and "inserts."

Others to appear in the series are painter Charles Garabedian, on May 5, and David Middlebrook, sculptor, on May 13.

Faculty art show opens

An exhibition of works by five members of the Cal Poly art faculty is on display through next Wednesday in the gallery of the University Union.

More than 40 pieces of art are featured — including acryllic paintings, etchings and intaglios, ceramic masks, ceramic sculpture, woven forms and fiber constructions, graphic design, metal castings, and pen and ink drawings.

Contributing to the exhibit are Diane Divelbess of Claremont, coordinator of the university's art program, Stanley Wilson of Los Angeles, Walter Glaser of Claremont, Charles Frederick of Mt. Baldy Village and Yoram Makow of Claremont.

Stephen Sondheim

Composer will take it easy

EDITOR'S NOTE — Now that he's done with "Pacific Overtures," one of his most difficult projects, Stephen Sondheim plans to vegetate for a while and mull over an idea for another maverick musical.

By WILLIAM GLOVER
AP Drama Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Theatrical non-conformity, Stephen Sondheim finds, can be a handicap — but also a creative help.

"A lot of people are automatically hostile to whatever you do when you are a maverick," says Broadway's eminent composer-lyricist.

Sondheim's most recent collaboration with producer Harold Prince is "Pacific Overtures," which opened a few weeks ago at the Winter Garden to what the word-careful Sondheim calls "the most extreme reviews we've ever had."

The critical majority hailed the exotic spectacle, about the westernization of Japan since Commodore Perry's 1853 arrival, with extravagant praise. Other reviewers were as emphatically negative.

It was Oscar Hammerstein II, Sondheim's late mentor, who with Richard Rodgers wrote the show which is generally recognized as having drastically altered the course of theatrical musicals.

"'Oklahoma!' in 1943 made all the demands different," says Sondheim, "and writers haven't been the same since. What they really said was there are many ways to tell a musical story on stage.

"The result is that over the past 30 years there has been enormous experimentation in the form, more than in straight drama."

STEPHEN SONDHEIM

Braille benefit planned

The Frank G. Meyers Council 5271 of the Knights of Columbus, Glendora, will present a variety concert for the benefit of the Braille Institute in the Citrus College Auditorium at 8 p.m. April 17.

Under the direction of Carol Stewart, assistant professor of music at USC, the program will feature a variety of numbers including the Braille Institute Exhibition Squares, Spanish songs of de Falla, the music of Brahms, Grieg and Beethoven, a USC jazz ensemble and a Bicentennial community sing.

"The Knights are aiming to fill every seat of the spacious auditorium," said Tomas Romero, Knights publicity director, "with all the proceeds going to the Braille Institute.

Admission is $3.50. Tickets may be obtained by calling (213) 339-5592 before 5 p.m. and (213) 339-0597 or (213) 966-9476 after 5 p.m.

Ice show due in L.A.

The 1976 edition of Ice Capades will be offered in the Los Angeles Sports Arena for 24 performances April 21-May 9.

Opening night is Valley News & Green Sheet Family Night. All tickets are half-price for this performance.

This year Ice Capades presents an entirely new production, "Just for You." The show starts with a festive champagne gala featuring a lively solo by Dawn Seesler. The next number is "Gym 'n Ice Tricks," with skating champions Jo Jo Starbuck and Billy Chapel. Then Peter Gordonand Barbara Wilson give their lyrical adagio performance.

The world of make-believe comes alive when Ice Capades celebrates "Happy Birthday, Yogi Bear," featuring cartoon favorites.

The set then becomes a century-old Mongolian scene in which a wise old sage narrates "The Story of Tsing-Tsu." Portrayed by Sarah Kawahara, Tsing-Tsu falls in love with the Master of the Flashing Blades, Ken Shelley.

A happy-go-lucky hobo wanders into "The Curiosity Shop" and then Ice Capades offers "A Pinball Odyssey," a futuristic fantasy.

"Those Golden Girls" perform precision skating routines.

Terry Head and Gisela, the hilarious duo of LaBrecque and Mac, and the juggling of 15-year-old Albert Lucas are included.

A flag-waving salute to love and friendship, "I Love a Parade," is the finale.

Tickets are $3.50, $4.50 and $6. Performances are Wednesdays through Sundays. Tickets are on sale at all Mutual, Ticketron, Wallichs and Liberty agencies, and the Sports Arena.

Bob Hope heading north

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Famed traveler Bob Hope is going to Canada for his next television special, the first he has originated north of the border.

Hope will be joined by Bing Crosby, Sammy Davis Jr. and Shirley Jones in a 90-minute NBC telecast originated at the Montreal Forum. The show will appear on the network April 21.

The special will be a benefit performance for Olympic athletes of the United States and Canada. Proceeds from attendance — hopefully 18,000 — will be divided equally between the two teams, NBC has announced.

Jesse Owens, winner of four gold medals in the 1936 Olympics in Berlin, will also appear.

TV networks jockey for position

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS and NBC won't reveal their 1976-77 schedules for perhaps a week. But low-placed sources here say those networks plan drastic steps to combat ABC's innovative fall lineup of programs.

This is called counter-programming. And here's what to expect:

CBS will strike hardest at ABC's new "Nancy Walker Show." (She used to play the mother of "Rhoda" before ABC lured her away.)

Apparently acting in revenge, CBS now plans to lure away a key male character from ABC's hit "Welcome Back, Kotter." He'll appear in a new series called "Giddoudda Heah, Horschak."

NBC, meanwhile, has a major counterprogram move afoot against ABC's new "Mr. T. and Tina," about a widowed Japanese businessman who moves to Chicago and hires a scatterbrained young American girl to tend his kids.

NBC's weapon is "Mrs. T. and Sympathy." It's a sitcom about a widowed American businesswoman who moves to Tokyo and hires a scatterbrained young Japanese man to take care of her Lockheed stock.

We know that Tony Randall, the fastidious half of "The Odd Couple" for many years, is returning to ABC in "The Tony Randall Show," in which he plays a Philadelphia judge. But what competition will he face?

Well, our sources say CBS and NBC are now negotiating for the right to counterprogram him with "The Jack Klugman Show."

In it, Klugman stars as a wacky attorney for the Philadelphia Athletics who has a room to let. In Oakland.

A major program battle may come if ABC renews "Rich Man, Poor Man."

And if it does, our sources say CBS will fight ABC with "Poor Man, Poorer Man," a contemporary drama about a modern family's tax audit.

If CBS goes with that series, the sources add, NBC will counterprogram it with "Poorer Man, Nolo Contendere," a contemporary drama about a modern family charged with tax fraud.

We shall await the CBS and NBC schedules with great interest.

Signups for films

Mickey Rooney joins Gene Hackman, Candice Bergen and Richard Widmark in "The Domino Principle," produced and directed by Stanley Kramer.

Andy Sidaris, veteran director for ABC Sports, will play a TV director who spots a football game sniper in "Two-Minute Warning."

Stage actor Fritz Weaver has been added to the other movie about terror in the stadium, "Black Sunday," playing an FBI agent.

Strother Martin is portraying an aging manager of a pro hockey team in "Slap Shot," directed by George Roy Hill with Paul Newman as star.

Joyce Brothers

Depressed granddad

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: We recently became grandparents for the first time. I am quite thrilled, but my husband doesn't seem pleased at all. On the contrary, he has become depressed and irritable, and makes derogatory remarks about himself whenever I mention how nice it feels to be a grandparent. He complains of insomnia and headaches. He is only 51, but he's acting like a cranky, old man. Could he be jealous of our family's new addition? — P.A.

Dear P.A.: Becoming a grandparent affects people in various ways, sometimes triggering feelings of depression and anxiety over the loss of youth.

You seem to be confusing your husband's anxiety with jealousy of the new baby. I suspect the only thing he's jealous of is the fact that the child's life is just beginning, while his own is more than half gone.

Between 35 and 55 most men experience feelings similar to those you have described, something many doctors have termed the male menopause. This emotional menopause can build up for years but is usually brought to the surfacc through one of life's traumas — personal illness, the birth of a grandchild, or the realization that youthful aspirations are never to be fulfilled.

Because a man's anxietiew do not appear with physiological characteristics, such as the termination of menstruation in a woman, it is often difficult to diagnose the symptoms. Thus the situation becomes increasingly frustrating because the victim does not understand what is happening to him.

I suggest that the best way to help your husband through this period is by being as supportive and understanding as possible. Your role in his present crisis can directly affect the course of the remaining years of your life together.

Male menopause is a very real ailment that's best treated by the love and encouragement of an understanding wife. But, if your husband's symptoms continue, it would be wise for him to see a psysician.

Ask your children's understanding of their father during this period. His lack of attention to the new baby is only a temporary thing. In time he will grow to love the child and take pride in its growth, as almost all grandparents do.

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: I feel like one of those dumb teenagers in a TV late movie. I am crazy about a boy from school who works nights as a ticket-taker at the local movie theater. My friends and I go there almost every weekend but I spend most of the time at the popcorn stand eating popcorn and talking to him. He couldn't be nicer or friendlier but I think he is too shy to ask me out. I don't know exactly how to ask him out either. Please help me. I've eaten about 35 pounds of popcorn in the last three months. — B.K.

Dear B.K.: I didn't know this sort of thing was still a problem. I suggest you organize your friends to do something together after the show next time out and ask the ticket-taker along as part of the group rather than making it a straight invitation from you. But, for Heaven's sake, stop eating all that popcorn. You'll ruin your teeth — and your figure!

Eastern Star charts treasurer's reception

San Dimas Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, will host a state reception honoring Mrs. La Verne I. Walker, grand treasurer of the State of California, at 7:30 p.m., Saturday, in Azusa Pacific College at Azusa.

Elected to the position at the grand chapter session last October in Sacramento, Mrs. Walker has traveled extensively within the state as grand officers make their official visits to the more than 500 chapters of the order. Her tenure will terminate in October.

Mrs. Walker was initiated into Lyra Chapter in Whittier, later affiliating with San Dimas Chapter. She was worthy matron in 1958. During that year she served as president of the Orange Belt Association of worthy matrons, representing 48 chapters.

For the reception Mrs. Walker will be escorted by John S. Johnson who served as her worthy patron in San Dimas in 1958.

General chairman for the reception is Mrs. Ruth Morgan, past matron. Mrs. Opal Lewis, past matron, decorations chairman, will be assisted by Mrs. Elizabeth Minarik, past matron. Another past matron, Mrs. Marian Hamic, is refreshment chairman.

Serving as organist will be O'Leta Ellis of Alhambra Chapter. Soloist will be Don Snyder, a member of Los Feliz Chapter in Los Angeles. Four past matrons serving as marshals will be Mds. Hannah Gillette, Myrtle Swank, Elaine Thies, all of San Dimas, and Mrs. Thelma Shaw of Alhambra Chapter, a sister of the honoree.

Hostess Mrs. Owen Lewis and host Stanley Plummer, past patron, will introduce the worthy matron and worthy patron of San Dimas Chapter, Mr. and Mrs. Cletus Evans, and the other officers of the local chapter.

Special Guests of the evening will include Mrs. Donna M. Smith of Indio, worthy grand matron, and Stanley M. Love of Escalon, worthy grand patron of the State of California. Mrs. Thelma Bailey, right worthy grand conductress, and William Wilson, a member of the International Temple committee of General Grand Chapter are also expected to be present. Sharing the East, will be past grand matrons Mrs. Grace Hoffman of Long Beach and Mrs. Mary E. Balden of Santa Paula and past grand patron James L. Millard of Concord.

Mrs. Shirley Plummer, past matron, will carry the Bible and James C. Minarik, past patron, will give the invocation and benediction. Flag bearer is Richard J. Bingle, past patron and inspector of the 610th Masonic District. Tribute to the flag will be paid by Mrs. Marian Hamic, past matron.

Presiding at the guest books will be past matrons Mmes. Mary Duvall, Frieda Funkhouser, Florence Gillette, Mabel Johnson, Minnie Nelson and Ina Mae Sheets. Corsage hostesses will be past matrons, Mmes. Olive Badgley, Margaret Campbell, Velma Dean and Jessie Obney, all of San Dimas; and deputy grand matron of the 58th District, Mrs. Onzelle Selmon, past matron of Baldwin Park Chapter, Mrs. Evelyn Jett past matron of West Covina Chapter, Miss Alice McMillan, past matron of Alhambra Chapter, and Mrs. Ila Schwab, past matron of Glen Chapter, Glendora.

The welcoming committee consists of past patrons of San Dimas Chapter William Hamic and Merle Sheets; and Mmes. Maebelle Denslow, past matron of Monrovia Chapter and Dorothy Nelson, past matron of Rialto Chapter. Taking charge of presentations is past matron Elizabeth Minarik. Miss Elaine Sherman made the signs, and photography will be done by Mrs. Mabel Skodje of La Paloma Chapter, Covina, assisted by Mrs. Wava Lindstedt, associate matron of San Dimas Chapter.

Chairman of ushers is Harry Swank, past patron, assisted by past patrons Carl Dean, Earl Gillette, and William Obney, as well as Ira D. Morgan.

Reserved parking will be handled by James C. Minarik, past patron, assisted by Artie Jett, past patron of West Covina Chapter, and J. T. Selmon assisted by past patrons Carl Dean, Earl Gillette, and William Obney, as well as Ira D. Morgan.

Reserved parking will be handled by James C. Minarik, past patron, assisted by Artie Jett, past patron of West Covina Chapter and J. T. Selmon, worthy patron of Baldwin Park Chapter.

General parking chairman is past patron Delmar Badgley assisted by the associate patrons of the 58th District.

Presiding at the tea tables will be past matrons mmes. Hazel Hallock, Reaba Stadlbauer, Marie Everton, Mary Roadhouse, and Patricia Russell, as well as the Mmes. Helen Rorex, Helen Wood, and Alta Trew, all of San Dimas Chapter.

On Sunday morning Mrs. LaVerne Walker will entertain the treasurers of the State of California, Order of the Eastern Star, at a breakfast in San Dimas Masonic Temple. Breakfast chairman will be past matron Mrs. Olive Badgley, assisted by past matron Mrs. Charliene Todd.

MRS. WALKER

La Leche meetings scheduled

Mt. Baldy View Chapter of La Leche League has announced the certification of two new leaders, Mrs. Donna Naranjo and Mrs. Karen Whisnant. The league now has 13 leaders affiliated with the chapter.

La Leche League is a non-profit, non-sectarian organization offering encouragement, information and practical help to women who wish to breastfeed their babies.

The Upland morning meeting will be held Wednesday. Subject will be "Advantages of Breastfeeding to Mother and Baby." The Claremont night meeting will be held Thursday and the subject will be "Nutrition and Weaning."

On April 15 an evening meeting will be held in San Dimas. Program for the meeting will be "Art of Breastfeeding and Overcoming Difficulties." The April 20 meeting will be held in the morning at Pomona. Topic will be "Baby Arrives, the Family and the Breastfed Baby."

All interested women and their babies are welcome. For the addresses of the meeting places call 623-2346 or 985-0055.

NARFE meeting charted

Pomona Chapter, National Association of Retired Federal Employes, will meet for luncheon at noon, April 13, at Sir George Restaurant, 2972 N. Garey Ave., Pomona. A business meeting will follow.

Further information on the group may be obtained by calling Amy Selfridge, 629-5871.

Dance club location is changed

Swinging Stars Square Dance Club will be dancing at their new location, Colony Community Park at 1240 W. 4th St., Ontario, Saturday.

Dancing to the calling of Speedy Spivacke will begin at 8 p.m. and will continue until 11 p.m.

July 17 wedding planned

Miss Karen P. Margarevitch and Mark S. Schechter of La Verne will be married July 17 in the La Verne Church of the Brethren.

The future bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Omohundro of La Verne, graduated in 1973 from Bonita High School in La Verne. She is a junior at Cal State, Fullerton, where she is majoring in psychology.

Son of Dr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Schechter of La Verne, the groom-to-be is a 1974 graduate of the University of Redlands where he was a member of Alpha Epsilon Delta and Intramural director. He is a second-year medical student at the Milton S. Hershey Medical Center of Pennsylvania State University.

National Secretaries Week has new angle

April 18-25 is National Secretaries Week — that time of year when the boss is supposed to be gentle and patient with the harried gal behind the typewriter or steno pad.

It's also an excellent time for "gals Friday" to give themselves a special kind of bonus, especially if their waistlines are not as trim as they would like them to be.

"Too often," observed Selma Rifkin, area director for Weight Watchers in Los Angeles, Kern and Santa Barbara Counties and Antelope Valley, "the secretary who is toting around too much weight finds that 'getting things done' seems increasingly difficult, particularly if she works in an office where the pace ranges from frantic to chaotic."

"In these situations," said Mrs. Rifkin, "sensibly eating often goes out the window. The coffee break turns into a coffee and Danish pastry break. Secretaries will eat on the run, or gulp down king-sized sandwiches, french fries and cakes at their desks with incredible speed."

"And when the pressures build, and nerves become rattled, eating can be a pacifier or a personal reward. Regardless of the reason, the result is the same: unwanted and unsightly extra pounds," Mrs. Rifkin said. "But it doesn't have to be; even in the most harrowing office experience."

"Re-educating eating habits holds out the best answer for the busy secretary who often eats the wrong foods at the wrong time because of her hectic lifestyle."

"As we stress at Weight Watchers meetings, planning is essential to success, whether you are single or whether you must dash home after work to prepare dinner for the family. Meal planning, both the office lunch and your dinner at home, should be coordinated the same way as a wardrobe. Eat three sensible meals a day and never skip a meal. The gulped juice and coffee on the way to the bus leads to the two pieces of Danish at 10 a.m."

"If you're likely to be stuck in the office for lunch, try the 'brown bag.' Some take-along lunch ideas are as follows:

LUNCH IDEA 1

2 devilled eggs, enriched white or 100 per cent whole wheat bread (1 or 2 slices), celery sticks, ½ medium dill pickle, 1 fruit, beverage.

Deviled Eggs

Hard cook 2 eggs; cut in half and remove yolks. Mash yolks and mix with 1 teaspoon prepared mustard, 1 teaspoon mayonnaise, ⅛ teaspoon onion salt and ⅛ medium chopped dill pickle. Stuff egg halves with mixture and sprinkle with paprika. Makes 1 serving.

LUNCH IDEA 2

Open faced chicken sandwich (4 ounces chicken on 1 slice enriched white or 100 per cent whole wheat bread topped with lettuce), 1 ginger pear, beverage.

GINGER PEARS

Peel and core 1 medium pear. Dice and simmer about 10 minutes in ½ cup water. Sweeten to taste with artificial sweetener and add a dash of ground ginger. Makes 1 serving.

LUNCH IDEA 3

Turkey sandwich (4 ounces turkey on 1 or 2 slices of enriched white or 100 per cent whole wheat bread) celery sticks, spiced peaches, beverage.

SPICED PEACHES

Slice 1 medium fresh peach. Place slices in small baking dish and add 1 tablespoon vinegar. Top with brown sugar replacement and cinnamon to taste. Cover with foil and bake at 375 degrees F. for 20 minutes. Makes 1 serving. (This can be made in advance and stored in the refrigerator.)

"Finally," Mrs. Rifkin said, "let variety be your watchword when you go out to lunch. Select a place that offers a variety of salads, sandwiches and baked or broiled foods."

Mrs. Rifkin added: "With the warm weather months and vacation time almost upon us, National Secretaries Week offers an excellent time to remember that the neat and trim silhouette is the look that fashion, figure, and promotion-conscious secretaries will want to achieve."

Brother's night planned

Brother's Night will be observed when Pomona Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, meets at 8 p.m., Saturday, at the Pomona Masonic Temple.

Theme for the evening will be Great Foods of America with George MacLaughlin and all brothers in charge of refreshments and the program.

There will be balloting on petitions for membership during the business meeting. Mrs. Kay Frazier and Mrs. Josephine Kopke will be in charge of the guest book.

Pomona students will compete in math tests

Fourth through 12th graders from 30 public schools in Pomona will compete in the school district's second annual Mathematics Field Day May 1 from 8 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. at Pomona High School.

They will participate in various math contests including chalk talks, math bowls, mad hatter marathons, terminology tournaments and six math strategy games.

The event is sponsored by the school district and has received support from the business and professional people in the community, along with members of service clubs, who have donated prizes and trophies for winners.

Judges will be volunteers from professional groups, and faculty members from colleges and schools. Parents and community residents have volunteered to assist with registration, scoring and supervising contests.

Pomona High students will serve as proctors for games and contests.

The purpose of the contest is to generate interest and improve competence in math.

Each student who participates will receive a certificate.

Bonita singers warming up for spot in D.C. show

In a preview of their part of the National Capitol's Bicentennial Celebration, the Chamber Singers from Bonita High School in La Verne will appear in a "send-off" concert April 30 and May 1 at Founder's Auditorium, La Verne College.

Under the direction of choral music instructor Thomas Antal, the costumed and choreographed presentations of American patriotic and folk music will begin at 8 p.m.

The Chamber Singers will perform June 26 in the Ellipse of President's Park in Washington, D.C. To defray costs of the two-week trip, admission to the concerts will be donations of $2 per person.

Advance tickets may be obtained by sending donations to P.O. Box 1776, La Verne 91750.

The student singers also are raising money by painting red, white and blue curb numbers in City of La Verne.

In other scheduled programs, the Chamber Singers will perform before the Federation of Republican Women at the Pomona Country Club on Friday, for a Senior Citizens Special Concert at Gardner Spring Auditorium in Ontario Tuesday and before the La Verne Kiwanis Club May 10.

Those interested in supporting this group of 21 young singers as they represent California's schools in Washington, D.C., under the auspices of the California Music Educators Association, may send donations to the Bonita Chamber Singers Parents' Association, P.O. Box 1776, La Verne 91750.

Policeman at parley

Officer James Brownrigg of the Glendora Police Department is among 31 law enforcement officers taking part in the 40th Juvenile Law Enforcement Officers Training Course scheduled through Saturday in Sacramento.

Subjects will include child abuse, unfit homes, sex crimes, missing children, concepts of juvenile court law, innovative juvenile programs in California and child growth and development.

The program is presented by the state Attorney General's Office, the USC Delinquency Control Institute, State Peace Officers' Association and the associations of sheriff's deputies and juvenile officers.

First of three Children's Theater shows coming up

The Diamond Bar Children's Theater will present the first of three spring productions, "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" on Saturday and Sunday. "Rip Van Winkle" and "Old Mother West Wind" will be staged May 22-23.

All productions will be at Walnut High School at 3 p.m.

Tickets are donations of $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for children 12 and under. They may be obtained by mailing checks to Diamond Bar Children's Theater, P.O. Box 4666, Diamond Bar 91765. Additional information may be obtained by calling Tama Magnussen at 595-2483 or Barbara Yoder at 595-9572. Youth group rates allow 10 or more into a performance for 50 cents each. Reservations are needed.

Adults working with the children are director Ross Clark, assistant directors Christine Champagne, Debbie Lyons and Steve Roper and set designer Don Smith. Sets are built by families involved in the theater.

Parents serving on the theater board are Mrs. Yoder, program director; Mary Bramdt, assistant program coordinator; Joanne Johnson, secretary; Jan Taylor, treasurer; Linda Balogh, publicity, Mrs. Magnussen, tickets; Sally Mount, costumes; Anne Ganley, program advertising; Marlene Yanow, refreshments; and Cheryl Bodenhamer, ways and means.

State Bar board elects ex-doctor

A physician turned lawyer is president-elect of the State Bar of California.

Ralph J. Campbell, a native of Manchester, England, was elected to the post by fellow members of the bar's board of governors in San Francisco. His term in office will begin in September when he succeeds the current president, David S. Casey of San Diego.

Campbell, 59, came to the United States in 1949 and became an American citizen in 1957. He was in private medical practice in Los Altos until 1960. He entered Stanford Law School in 1954 and obtained his law degree in 1957. He is a member of a two-man law firm in San Jose. Campbell's wife, Margaret, also is an attorney.

Pianissimo

Irving Berlin, wife celebrate 50th anniversary

By Ira Berkow

Irving Berlin, who wrote such songs for our special days as "Easter Parade," "White Christmas," and "Count Your Blessings Instead of Sheep" (for Thanksgiving), had a special day of his own recently.

He and his wife, Ellin, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary, and went about it pianissimo, just as when they were wed. They'd rather play simple melody, as Berlin has said in his fashion, than be puttin' on the ritz.

They were married in City Hall in New York. This information was happened upon by your faithful correspondent only when he bought a collection of writings from the old New York World newspaper in a second-hand bookstore. In the book is an article entitled, "Irving Berlin Takes a Bride," dated the day after the wedding, Jan. 5, 1926.

Some excerpts: "The shy genius of jazz and sentimental music, who first faced New York through the dirty windows of 'Nigger Mike' Salter's Chinatown saloon and restaurant as Izzy Baline, 'the singing waiter,' is now the husband of the daughter of Clarence H. Mackay, President of the Postal Telegraph Company and a custodian of the great wealth which his father dug out of the Bonanza mine in the middle of last century.

"Berlin is 37 and his bride is 22.

"Their marriage was over the objection of Mr. Mackay, who for two years has tried by every means at his command to discourage the love affair. The ceremony was in the small office of (the deputy city clerk) and required little more than one minute . . .

"The ceremony was to the accompaniment of that full medley of New York which Irving Berlin learned early in life and put into songs, and which Ellin Mackay is just beginning to understand."

The only witnesses were three people from Berlin's publishing firm. Mr. Mackay, stunned, reluctantly issued from his office a statement to the press: "The marriage came as a complete surprise to me and was done without my knowledge or approval. Beyond this I have nothing to say. Thank you. That's all."

"His opposition flowed from two sources," reported the World, "social and religious differences. The barrier of religion, which he had thought would restrain the two younger people from following their love to its inevitable conclusion, was hurdled by them in a single telephone call (yesterday morning, by Berlin). Ellin Mackay and her father are Catholics, Irving Berlin is a Jew . . .

"(Later that day) Berlin, whose renown is worldwide, shrank from questions by telephone from reporters).

"Please," said Berlin. "Just say we were married and we're very happy. We're both frightened to death, you know."

Miss Mackay said, "We wish to say nothing." And then: "We must go."

How did Berlin, in fact, break through the imperial paternal barrier?

The chronology of the Berlin song hits which came while Elin Mackay was sent abroad to 'forget,' (is revealing). Such as 'All Alone' and, not long afterwards, 'Don't Wait Too Long.'

And lastly the sentimental, passionate song 'Remember.'"

The New York World for some inexplicable reason forgot to remember perhaps the greatest hit he wrote for Ellin Mackay. That is, "Always."

He said how he'd be loving her always, with a love, he said, that was true — always. He concluded that he wouldn't be loving her just for an hour, nor for just a day, nor for just a year, but, he said, always.

The Irving Berlins today have three children, all daughters, all married, and nine grandchildren. The Berlins remain as private today as they were a half century ago. Irving Berlin gives no interviews. He rarely goes to his office at the Irving Berlin Music Corporation, which still is a thriving business, and sells and promotes the 600 or so songs that he has written.

The biggest hit of all was "White Christmas," which by Dec. 31 of 1975 had sold 105,528,526 records (and that includes only the United States and Canada) since its release in 1942.

A VERY PRIVATE COUPLE — Ellin and Irving Berlin celebrated their 50th anniversary recently, just as they celebrated their wedding — without fanfare or publicity.

The song he says is closest to his heart, however, is not "Alexander's Rag-Time Band" or "Blue Skies" or "This is the Army" or "There's No Business Like Show Business" or "What'll I Do" nor, even, "Yiddle on Your Fiddle Play Some Ragtime" — no, the song he says is closest to his heart is "God Bless America."

"Understandably," says a friend who wishes to remain nameless, "Irv was born in a small town in Russia, called Temun, near Siberia, I believe. He came here when he was four years old. And he was a millionaire by — well, by the time he married Ellin, easily."

The Berlins live in a five-story brick building on New York's Upper East Side. Only miles away but worlds removed from where Irving Berlin grew up on the crowded and impoversihed Lower East Side.

He still tinkles at one of his several pianos but hasn't published a song since 1966.

NATIONALLY KNOWN SPEED READING COURSE TO BE TAUGHT HERE IN POMONA VALLEY

Pomona (Spec.) Golden State Reading Lab, Inc. will offer a 4 week course in speed reading to a limited number of qualified pople in the Pomona area.

This recently developed method of instruction is the most innovative and effective program available in the United States.

Not only does this famous course reduce your time in the classroom to just one class per week for 4 short weeks, but it also includes an advanced speed reading course on cassette tape so that you can continue to improve for the rest of your life. In just 4 weeks the average student should be reading 4-5 times faster. In a few months some students are reading 20-30 times faster, attaining speeds that approach 600 words per minute. In rare instances, speeds of up to 13,000 wpm have been documented.

Our average graduate should read 7-10 times faster upon completion of the course with marked improvement in comprehension and concentration.

For those who would like additional information, a series of free, one hour, orientation lectures have been scheduled. At these free lectures, the course will be explained in complete detail, including classroom procedures, instruction methods, class schedule and a special 1 time only introductory tuition that is less than one-third the cost of similar courses. You must attend any of the meetings for information about the Pomona classes.

These orientations are open to the public, above age 14, (persons under 18 should be accompanied by a parent, if possible).

If you have always wanted to be a speed reader, but found the cost prohibitive or the course too time consuming . . . now you can! Just by attending 1 evening per week for 4 short weeks, you can read 7 to 10 times faster, concentrate better, and comprehend more.

If you are a student who would like to make A's instead of B's or C's, or if you are a business person who wants to stay abreast of today's everchanging, accelerating world, then this course is an absolute necessity.

These special one-hour lectures will be held the following times and places.

Thursday, April 8 at 6:30 & 8:30 P.M.
Friday, April 9 at 6:30 & 8:30 P.M.
Saturday, April 10 at 10:30 A.M. & 1:30 P.M.

Meetings will be held at Pomona Valley YMCA, 350 N. Garey Ave.

Tuesday, April 13, at 6:30 & 8:30 P.M.
Wednesday, April 14 at 6:30 & 8:30 P.M.

These last two days, meetings will be held at the Uplander Motel, located at Foothill Blvd. and Euclid.

If you are a businessman, student, housewife or executive, this course, which took 5 years of intensive research to develop, is a must. You can read 7-10 faster, comprehend more, concentrate better, and remember longer. Students are offered an additional discount. This course can be taught to industry or civic groups at "Group Rates" upon request. Be sure to attend whichever free orientation that fits best in your schedule.

Now–you can enjoy Freedent® gum in a peppermint flavor, too.

"New Freedent® gum won't stick to my dental work."

"I had to give up chewing ordinary gum because of the sticking problem. But Freedent, the new gum from Wrigley's, is specially formulated not to stick to most dental work. So I'm free to enjoy chewing again."

And now Freedent comes in a new peppermint flavor, too. Try some yourself. Spearmint in the blue pack. Or new peppermint in the green pack. You'll like both.

Think first before taking a bite of that sandwich

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Order a bacon, lettuce and tomato on toast with mayo these days and you'll get the problems of the world served with your sandwich.

All you have to do is think for a moment to realize that the triple decker mirrors issues ranging from foreign policy to food additives.

Soaring pork prices last year pushed the cost of bacon to record levels. The pork prices went up because the hog supply went down. The hog supply went down because the price of feed corn went up. The price of feed corn went up because the size of the harvest went down.

Pork prices have declined, but another problem remains: the use of chemicals called nitrites which are added to bacon to give the meat its red color and distinctive flavor and to help preserve it.

The nitrites combine with other substances in the meat to form another group of chemicals called nitrosamines, which have been shown to cause cancer in laboratory animals.

Irwin Fried of the U.S. Department of agriculture's animal and plant health inspection service said that the nitrites in bacon wind up as nitrosamines more frequently than the nitrites in other foods.

"In bacon there are a lot of substances present with which nitrite combines," he said. "Upon the application of heat with frying, nitrosamines are formed."

The USDA is working on new regulations to lessen the amount of nitrites in bacon without hurting the flavor or color.

If safety and price dominate the news about bacon, labor strife is most often mentioned in connection with lettuce.

The workers in the lettuce fields of Salinas Valley, California, have been the targets of organizing efforts by Cesar Chavez' United Farm Workers and the Teamsters Union. Supporters of Chavez pushed for a nationwide boycott of lettuce picked by nonunion workers.

Elections held late last year under a new California law settled the issue temporarily, but the dispute could pop up again since the winning union gets bargaining rights for one year only.

When it comes to tomatoes, it's not so much who picks them that counts, it's what and when.

Breeders have developed tomatoes that can be picked by machines in a condition known as "mature green." The tomatoes are then sent to warehouses where they are artifically ripened with ethylene gas.

The tomatoes may look just as though they had been fresh picked from the garden, but they don't taste the same. They are hard, mealy and often have very little flavor.

If you've gotten this far and assembled the inside of your sandwich, you might take a minute to think about the bread.

If you want toast, you'll have to worry about the soaring cost of electricity and you should get an energy-efficient toaster.

The bread itself, meanwhile, is far from problem free.

Wheat is one of the key ingredients in bread and wheat has been a controversial subject since the 1972 U.S.-Soviet grain deals that sent wheat prices soaring.

Some critics of the grain deals accused the government of furthering detente at the expense of the American family's food bill.

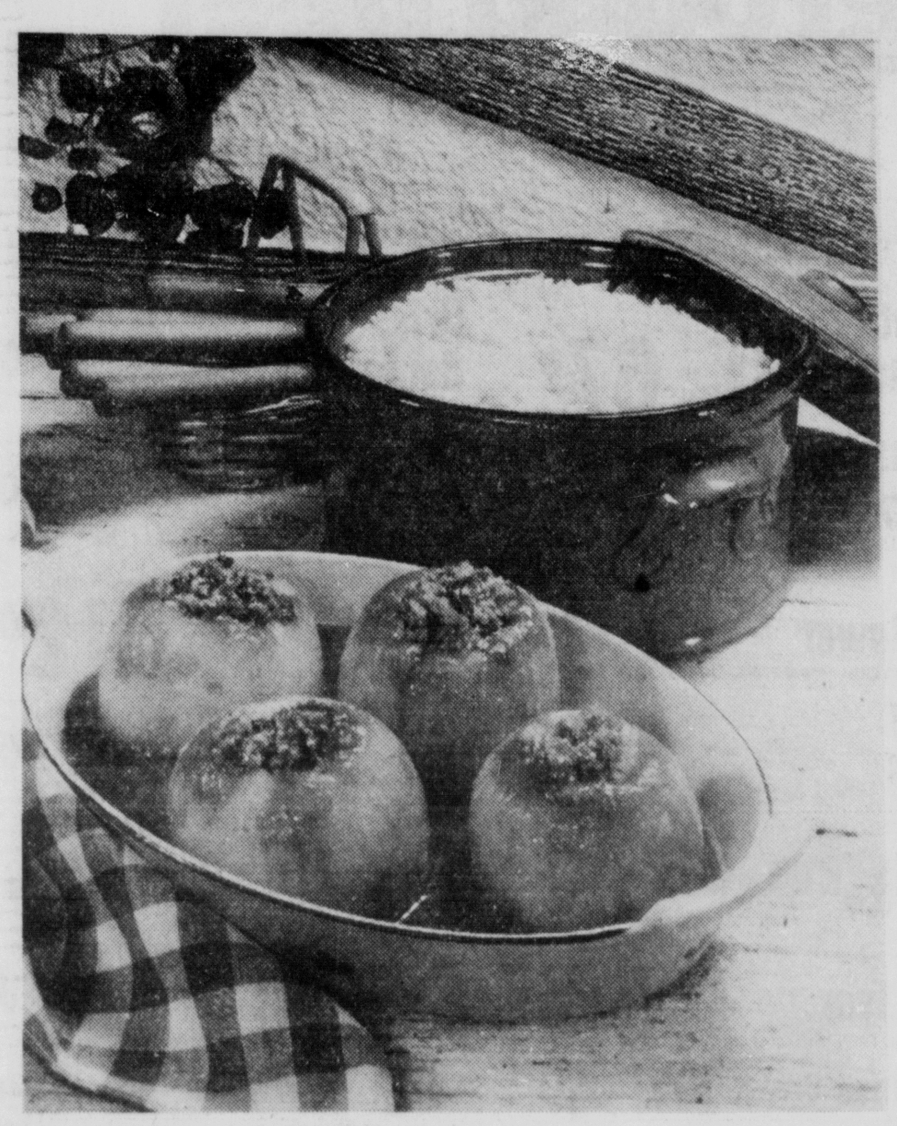
Although there is only about four cents worth of wheat in a loaf of bread, the size of harvests can still stir concern among farmers and consumers. Last year's wheat harvest was a record, but agricultural authorities are worrying about a winter drought that could hurt the 1976-77 crop.

Crop size also is a factor in the final ingredient — mayonnaise.

Bad weather that hit the Midwest in 1974 and damaged wheat harvests also struck the soybean crop. And soybean oil is a mainstay in mayonnaise manufacturing.

The price of soybean oil more than tripled in a year and the wholesale price of mayonnaise soared. As with pork, prices have declined slightly, helped by large soybean harvests last year. But no one knows what will happen this year.

The only thing you can do is cross your fingers and eat hearty!



STUFFED ONIONS

Stuffed onions Italian style

In these times of high interest in home gardening, innovative homemakers are taking a new look at vegetables. As a result, the day of the plain vegetable is over.

The creative cooking spirit has touched everything, from the plebeian potato to the obscure onion. For example, here is a recipe for Surprise Onions Italiano, an interesting departure from the usual stuffed peppers or tomatoes.

In this instance, large parboiled onions are hollowed out and filled with a tasty combination of ingredients, uniquely flavored with bottled real Italian dressing. The traditional Italian spices are already measured and blended with the oil and vinegar so that you can season both the stuffing and the sauce to perfection.

Surprise Onions Italiano makes an excellent light supper served with a side dish of savory saffron rice, crusty Italian bread sticks, and fresh fruit and cheese for dessert. And to top off, a pot of piping hot tea.

SURPRISE ONIONS ITALIANO

4 to 6 large Spanish or Bermuda onions
1 pound bulk pork sausage or ground beef
1 cup soft bread crumbs
8 tablespoons Italian dressing
1/3 cup grated Parmesan cheese
¼ cup chopped parsley
1 can (8 oz.) tomato sauce

In large saucepan, parboil onions 20 minutes in enough water to cover; drain and peel when cool. Hollow out and reserve centers, leaving a shell of 2 layers, about ¼-inch. Chop enough reserved onion to equal 1 cup. (Use remaining onion in other recipes.)

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. In medium skillet, brown sausage well; drain. Add chopped onion and cook 5 minutes or until onion is tender. Stir in bread crumbs, 6 tablespoons Italian dressing, cheese, and parsley. Spoon mixture into onion shells.

In shallow baking dish, place stuffed onions and top with tomato sauce mixed with remaining 2 tablespoons Italian dressing. Cover and bake 1 hour or until onions are tender. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Filled crepes made with beer can be inspiring

Ask any restaurateur and he'll tell you how popular filled crepes are for lunch or for appetizers.

If you're looking for original ideas when entertaining at home luncheons or buffets, a menu founded on a delicate but substantial crepe can be an inspiration.

Filled crepes are by no means beyond the capacity of most hostesses. In fact, the crepes themselves can be made ahead of time and stored in the refrigerator, separated by pieces of waxed paper. The filling, too, can be made ahead and simply reheated before rolling or folding into the crepes.

The filling, of course must be something special. And here is a mushroom-ham crepe which is made with beer.

MUSHROOM CREPES A LA BIERE

3 tablespoons butter
1 medium onion, chopped
3 cups (packed) sliced fresh mushrooms (about 18)
¼ cup lemon juice
1 (12 oz.) can or bottle beer
3 tablespoons heavy cream
8 ounces (2 cups) grated Gruyere cheese
¼ pound cooked ham, cut in thin strips
½ teaspoon cornstarch
1 teaspoon water
Salt
Black pepper

In skillet, melt butter and saute onions and mushrooms for 3 minutes. Sprinkle mushrooms generously with lemon juice to retain light color. Let simmer, stirring occasionally, until sauce is blended and slightly reduced, about 5 minutes. Add 1½ cups cheese and ham and stir until cheese melts. Dissolve cornstarch in water and add to sauce, cooking just until sauce thickens slightly. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Place 2 tablespoons of mixture in center of cooked crepe and roll. Arrange filled crepes in shallow ovenproof dish and sprinkle remaining cheese over top. Place under broiler for a minute or two, just until cheese is melted and lighty browned. Yield: 6 luncheon servings, 2 crepes each.

CREPES

2 eggs
2/3 rds cup milk
1 tablespoon melted shortening
½ cup all-purpose sifted flour
¼ teaspoon salt

Beat eggs well; add milk and shortening. Sift flour and salt together and add. Beat with egg beater until smooth. Add more milk if necessary to make batter consistency of heavy cream. Brush small skillet or frying pan (5 inches) with a little shortening. Spoon 2-3 tablespoons of crepe batter into skillet, rotating pan to cover bottom evenly with batter. Cook, turning once, until light brown on both sides. Yield: 12 crepes.

Note: Crepes can be made ahead, separated with waxed paper, and stored in refrigerator.

Try variety meats for a meal change

Looking for something different and really delectable to serve your family? Try your hand with variety meats. Variety meats are those highly nutritious flavorful organ-type parts of beef, veal, pork, and lamb such as tongue, liver, heart, tripe, sweetbreads, brains and kidneys.

Fresh, pickled, corned or smoked — that's the way to buy tongue. Smoked, corned or pickled tongue may be soaked in water for several hours before cooking to make the flavor milder. Change the water and cook it slowly for several hours until tender. It may be served hot or cold.

All liver is rated high nutritionally. It is an excellent source of such nutrients as iron, copper, vitamin A, riboflavin, niacin, and thiamin. While lamb and veal (calf) liver may be pan-fried or broiled, pork and most beef liver comes from mature animals and is best when braised.

Heart is a firm textured meat with very little waste. Because heart is a less-tender meat, it requires long, slow cooking in moisture. An especially tasty dish is heart stuffed with a savory dressing.

Tripe — plain or smooth lining from the first beef stomach, the honeycombed lining from the second stomach, and the pocket-shaped part from the end of the second stomach — may be purchased partially cooked, pickled or canned. When cooked, the texture of tripe should be like that of soft gristle. It may be served with a sauce, fried, broiled, baked, creamed, or as an ingredient in pepper pot, a thick soup.

Sweetbreads, the thymus glands, are made up of two parts — the heart sweetbread and the throat sweetbread — of a young calf. They are white and soft and have a very delicate taste. Cooked sweetbreads may be served broken into small pieces and scrambled with eggs, reheated in a cream or tomato sauce, fried, made into croquettes, used in salad, or broiled.

Brains and sweetbreads are much alike in tenderness and texture. They may be used interchangeably in all recipes.

The membrane and hard parts should be removed from kidneys before cooking. Lamb kidneys can be split or left whole. Beef kidneys, which are less tender than other kidneys, should be made into a stew or braised. Lamb or veal kidneys are tender enough to be broiled. Because they tend to have strong odor, it helps to soak them in water with vinegar added in the refrigerator for a couple of hours, before continuing with the recipe.

All variety meats are to be thawed before cooking; leave them in the freezer wrap and thaw them in the refrigerator. This will help prevent the growth of bacteria.

The Department of Agriculture inspects and certifies the wholesomeness of variety meats. But making sure they stay that way is up to you. Proper care in buying, storing, handling and cooking is essential to keep them in a wholesome condition for serving your family.

Why not tax consumption instead of income?

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)— The disclosure that about 200,000 wealthy Americans legally paid no income tax last year has stimulated new debate on an old idea—don't tax income, tax consumption.

One economist favoring this approach is Martin S. Feldstein, a Harvard professor and tax expert, who backed a consumption tax in a recent article in New Republic magazine.

"The idea that everyone's tax should depend on how much he consumes, regardless of how that consumption is financed, appeals strongly to our sense of fairness...," he wrote.

"Although such a change would have little effect on taxes paid by most families, it would force all of those who enjoy a high standard of consumption to pay their fair share of taxes."

In an interview, Feldstein explained that his proposal was not necessarily just a closing of loopholes.

"A lot of the loopholes serve good purposes," he said. For instance, taxing capital gains at a rate less than that applied to ordinary income, the present situation, helps stimulate needed investment and provides a slight edge against inflation.

Here's how Feldstein's idea would work: the taxpayer would add up his money receipts from all sources. Then he would deduct whatever he saved or invested.

He could still deduct business expenses and personal items like medical expenses, property taxes and loss from accidents.

The plan does away with special provisions for capital gains, tax exemption for municipal bond interest, the bookkeeping depreciation of real estate while it actually increases in market value and other special provisions.

Feldstein contends it would help, not hurt, capital formation since a wage-earner's savings would be exempt from taxes.

Changing the present system would be easy and should be done gradually, Feldstein said. "As a practical matter, nobody is going to throw away 60 years of development."

He suggested starting with rich taxpayers with sheltered income above a certain amount, "the group that matters the most."

"Then you could gradually move down through the income groups."

Piecemeal changes to the present system might make things worse, Feldstein contends, and tax experts should not neglect the effect of other taxes.

"The Social Security tax now collects more revenue from the average family than the income tax," he said.

Cleo F. Jaillet, former New England chief of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and former state tax commissioner, said that as he understands Feldstein's proposal, it would be no help "to the little guy."

"Take a man who earns maybe $8,000 a year," he said. "Say he has a family with five kids. He can't put any money in savings, so that's out. He doesn't have any real estate or investment, so that's out. So there's really nothing he can deduct. He has to use the whole $8,000 to support his family."

Noting that Massachusetts paid an astounding 9.04 per cent on a recent bond issue, Jaillet said, "If you did away with the tax-exempt status of state and municipal bonds, the interest rate would be 15-16 per cent."

Jaillet, now a tax specialist for the legislature, added, "We are a capitalist country, and I firmly believe that investment people keep this country going. If they put in their money, they're entitled to make money on their investment. They also can take a loss."

A simple salad aids the novice

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

A simple salad that can be made ahead and holds its flavor and attractiveness for many hours is a blessing to the beginning cook. A gelatin mold salad fits well into party plans for the less experienced hostess since it allows extra time to cope with other dishes. Serve well with other dishes. Serve well chilled to give a titillating contraxt to hot casseroles.

Ham and Celery Salad

1 package (3 ounces) lemon flavor gelatin
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup boiling water
¾ cup cold water
3 tablespoons vinegar
½ teaspoon grated onion
1 cup finely chopped cooked ham
1 cup finely chopped celery
2 tablespoons finely chopped sweet pickle

Dissolve gelatin and salt in boiling water. Add cold water, vinegar and grated onion. Chill until slightly thickened. Fold in ham, celery and pickle. Pour into 4-cup mold or individual molds. Chill until firm, about 3 hours. Unmold. Serve with crisp lettuce and mayonnaise, if desired. Makes three and one-third cups or 6 servings.

Celebrate spring with fresh salad

Fresh asparagus arrives in markets well-timed with the appearance of spring. Mother Nature knows what she's doing: the welcome vegetable gives a lift to meals. Enjoy green and tender asparagus to your heart's content while the supply is at its peak in April and May.

One way to serve asparagus is with fresh cherry tomatoes in a gelatine mold spiced with tangy bottled Italian dressing. Unflavored Gelatine, being both flavorless and colorless, captures their delicate goodness in Fresh-As-Spring Salad. Marinated in the flavorful dressing, then mated in the seasonal gel mixture, the vegetables create the "newness" in flavor so typical of the season.

When preparing this gelatine salad, there is no need to worry about complicated preparation or special techniques. The gelatine is dissolved quickly and easily in a mixing bowl, simply with the addition of boiling water.

As the salad is firmed in a simple 9-inch round cake baking pan, found in just about every kitchen, it could be cut in small wedges and served on lettuce as an appetizer for a spring menu. Or serve it as a side dish accompaniment to cold cuts, chicken, fish or shrimp. Think how colorful it will look, too!

Fresh-As-Spring Salad will keep firm and perfect in the refrigerator until you're ready to serve it. And unmolding from the baking pan is as easy as can be! Quickly dip the pan into warm (not hot) water for about 5 seconds, then loosen the edges with a knife. Invert serving dish on top of pan and, holding firmly together, turn right side up and shake gently. Garnish with the marinated asparagus and cherry tomatoes to complete this delightful, colorful spring salad.

FRESH-AS-SPRING SALAD

- 1¼ pounds fresh asparagus spears, cooked (about ½ bunch)
- 6 cherry tomatoes, halved
- 6 tablespoons Italian dressing
- 2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1½ cups boiling water
- 1 cup mayonnaise
- 3 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1 cup chopped cherry tomatoes
- 1½ tablespoons finely chopped onion

Cut 6 asparagus spears into 4-inch lengths and marinate with cherry tomato halves in 2 tablespoons Italian dressing; cover and refrigerate. Cut remaining asparagus into ½-inch pieces; reserve.

In medium bowl, mix unflavored gelatine and sugar; add boiling water and stir until gelatine is completely dissolved. With wire whisk or rotary beater, blend in mayonnaise, remaining 4 tablespoons Italian dressing, and lemon juice. Chill, stirring occasionally, until mixture is consistency of unbeaten egg whites.

Fold in reserved asparagus pieces, chopped tomatoes, and onion; turn into 9-inch round baking pan and chill until firm, about 4 hours. Unmold and garnish, in spoke-like pattern, with marinated asparagus spears and cherry tomato halves. Makes about 6 servings.

AFTER-SCHOOL SNACK
Wholewheat Banana Loaf

WHOLEWHEAT BANANA LOAF

- 1 cup wholewheat (graham) flour
- ¼ cup wheat germ
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- ¾ teaspoon salt
- 1¼ cups mashed ripe bananas (4 medium)
- 1¼ cup plain yogurt
- ½ cup butter or margarine
- ½ cup sugar
- 1 egg
- ½ cup raisins

Stir together the wholewheat flour, wheat germ, baking soda and salt. Stir together bananas and yogurt. In a medium mixing bowl, cream butter and sugar; beat in egg; gently beat in flour mixture in several additions, alternately with banana mixture just until smooth each time. Stir in raisins. Turn into a greased 8 by 4 by 2¾-inch loaf pan. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean 55 to 60 minutes. Loosen edges and turn out on wire rack; turn right side up; cool completely before slicing.

Note: The wholewheat (graham) flour should be about as fine as white flour; coarser stoneground wholewheat flour does not work in this recipe. The raisins are needed to absorb moisture; without them the bread may have a "sad" line at the bottom.

Minireuben Turnovers
Beverage

MINIREUBEN TURNOVERS

- 3 cups flour
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- ¼ teaspoon baking powder
- 2½ teaspoons salt
- ½ cup shortening
- 1 cup ice water
- 6 ounces sliced Swiss cheese, cut into 1-inch strips
- 6 ounces sliced cooked corned beef (lean), cut into 1-inch strips
- Kraut Mixture, see below

Stir together the flour, sugar, baking powder and salt; cut in shortening until fine. Stir in water and form into a smooth ball; divide in half. On a pastry cloth with a stockinet-covered rolling pin roll out one-half of pastry into a large round, about ⅛-inch thick. With a 3-inch round cookie cutter, cut into rounds. Repeat with remaining pastry. Reroll dough scraps. On each round place several strips of cheese and corned beef and about 1 teaspoon of the Kraut Mixture. Fold rounds over to form semicircles. Pinch edges to seal, then seal again by pressing edges with fork tines. Fry in hot deep fat heated to 375 on a deep-fat thermometer until golden brown, turning once—about 2 minutes. Drain on brown paper. Keep hot in a warm oven as fried and serve hot. Makes about 60 strikingly delicious hors d'oeuvres.

Kraut Mixture: Stir together ½ cup mayonnaise, 2 tablespoons chili sauce, 1 tablespoon minced chives, ¼ teaspoon paprika and 1 cup drained and loosely packed (about 8 ounces) sauerkraut.

SAUSAGE SORCERY

With income taxes due this month, your budget may be feeling an extra pinch. Remember, wise shoppers determine the cost per serving before purchasing meat. Lean meat such as hamburger, stew meat or boneless roasts yield 3 to 4 servings per pound; most roasts and steaks with some bone provide 2 to 3 servings per pound; steaks and ribs with a lot of bone, fat and gristle yield only 1 to 2 servings; but one pound of skinless franks serves 4 to 5 persons and you can satisfy 7 people with sliced bologna, salami or summer sausage if its used in a casserole or in sandwiches.

For great after school or late night snacks, try wrapping slices of luncheon meat around spears of carrots, celery, cheddar cheese or dill pickles. Lunchmeat wraparounds provide a between-meal protein punch.

April showers may bring May flowers but they also bring grey chilly days. Fight the chills with a Polish Hot Pot. Pare 6 potatoes and cut into ½ inch slices. Arrange in the bottom of a greased 2 quart casserole. Cut ½ pound Polish sausage into 1 inch slices and place over potatoes. Top with 6 onions thickly sliced. Mix a 1 pound can of tomatoes, 1½ teaspoons paprika and 1 teaspoon salt and add to the casserole. Bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes. Stir in ½ cup sour cream and bake 15 minutes longer. Makes 6 servings.

Despite what you might think, more skinless franks are eaten for the main meal of the day — dinner — than at any other time.

If you have lunch box toters at home, remember, "variety is the spice of life." Buy various types of bread and rolls and freeze them so you can have a different sandwich "look" each day of the week. Investigate the large selection at your supermarket's "cold cut" counter; each week buy two new types of sausage such as cotto salami, cervelat, pepperoni or pickle loaf.

Cottage cheese in a casserole

Creamy cottage cheese is a surprisingly good ingredient for casserole cookery. In no way should this versatile dairy food be taken for granted. Although justly famous in salads, it is equally terrific in main dishes and cooked combinations. In terms of economy, nutrition and calories, entrees containing cottage cheese as the main protein source are a real bargain. And for wonderful fresh flavor, cottage cheese and vegetable mixtures are truly unbeatable.

This super delicious zucchini casserole is a prime example of sensible cost and calories plus great taste and good looks. It has sauteed fresh zucchini and onion layered with a well-seasoned mixture of cottage cheese and egg yolks. In baking, the flavors mingle and the cheese becomes smooth and creamy. For extra zip, sprinkle zesty grated Parmesan cheese over the top of the casserole before cooking. Served with a hot bread and plenty of chilled milk, this thrifty tasty dish makes a hearty, well-balanced meal. Jack cheese, butter and Parmesan cheese give a big flavor lift to crusty sesame topped quick bread triangles.

When you consider that cottage cheese is simply milk protein in solid form it is easy to see why it is such a nutritious food. To produce cottage cheese, pasteurized, skimmed milk is coagulated by the addition of lactic acid starter and a small amount of rennet. When the curd is firm and dry, it is salted and cut into large or small sizes. One half cup of creamed cottage cheese contains more than 35 per cent of the recommended daily allowance of protein for adult women, yet it has only 130 calories. It also contains significant amounts of minerals and vitamins found in milk. The most appealing quality is its fresh taste. To hold at peak condition, store cottage cheese covered in the refrigerator and use it within a week.

SUPER DELICIOUS ZUCCHINI CASSEROLE

- 1 pint small curd cottage cheese
- 2 egg yolks
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon marjoram, crumbled
- ½ teaspoon thyme, crumbled
- ¼ teaspoon tarragon, crumbled
- 1½ pounds zucchini, sliced
- 1 small onion, cut into thin wedges
- 1 tablespoon butter
- 1 teaspoon garlic salt
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 1 tablespoon grated Parmesan cheese

Mix cottage cheese, egg yolks, salt, marjoram, thyme and tarragon. Saute zucchini and onion in butter, stirring often over medium heat until tender crisp. Mix in garlic salt and flour. Turn half of hot zucchini mixture into shallow 1½ or 2-quart baking dish. Top with cottage cheese mixture then remaining zucchini. Sprinkle with parmesan cheese. Bake uncovered in 400 degrees oven 20 minutes or until hot and bubbly. Makes 4 or 5 servings.

QUICK CHEESE BREAD

- 1 egg
- ½ cup milk
- 2 tablespoons instant minced onion
- ½ teaspoon tarragon, crumbled
- ½ teaspoon basil, crumbled
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 1½ cups biscuit mix
- 1 cup grated Monterey Jack cheese
- Melted butter
- 2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese
- 1 tablespoon sesame seeds

Beat egg with milk. Mix with onion, seasonings, biscuit mix and jack cheese. Spread in well greased 8-inch pie plate. Brush with melted butter. Sprinkle with grated parmesan cheese and sesame seeds. Bake in 400-degree oven 20 to 25 minutes. Makes 8 wedges.

Sacred hole

A good fishing spot was held in almost sacred awe by Eskimo ice fishermen of northern Canada. To ensure continued good luck, a fisherman placed his catch about him in a large circle with their heads pointed toward the hole in the ice. Doing so, he believed, enabled the fish's spirit to return to the water and speak favorably of the man who had dealt honorably with him.

This grilled sandwich definitely has 'sole'

If you're a "from scratch" cook whose meal preparation time is limited, here's the best news since stir-fry cookery. It's the hot-grilled North Atlantic Sole Supper Sandwich — from freezer to family dinner table in less than 15 minutes.

Start with a one-pound package of frozen skinless, boneless, North Atlantic Sole fillets. Don't thaw, just poach in 1 cup salted water for 8 to 10 minutes or until fish flakes. As the Sole simmers, chop celery, onions, heat skillet (or sandwich grill) and have bread and cheese at the ready. Then drain and flake the tender delicately flavored North Atlantic fish and mix (while still warm) with chopped vegetables and mayonnaise. Spread the Sole salad on bread, top with cheese, add another slice of bread and grill in butter until golden brown on both sides.

The sandwich, a fresh new approach to Lenten luncheon or dinner menus, is a truly great combination of "old favorite" foods dressed up in a brand new and convenient package. Easy and fast to prepare, it's high in nutritive quality with protein-rich, low-fat North Atlantic Sole. One low cost pound serves four.

Sole and other varieties of fish fillets from the icy depths of the North Atlantic including Ocean Perch, Cod and Pollock are available in the frozen food case at most supermarkets. They come from the primary fish-producing countries of Canada, Denmark, Iceland and Norway.

SUPPER SOLE SANDWICH

1 lb. frozen North Atlantic Sole fillets
1 cup water
1 slice onion
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup chopped celery
¼ cup chopped onion
2 tablespoons pickle relish
⅓ cup mayonnaise
6 slices (1 oz. each) processed American cheese
12 slices white or whole wheat bread

Place block of frozen fish fillets in 10-inch skillet on large saucepan. Add water, onion and salt. Cover, bring to a boil, then immediately reduce heat and simmer about 8-10 minutes or until fish becomes opaque and flakes easily with a fork. Drain and flake fish and combine with celery, chopped onion, pickle relish and mayonnaise. Spread mixture evenly on 6 slices of bread. Top each with a cheese slice and remaining slices of bread. Grill on both sides until cheese starts to melt and sandwich is golden.

Poultry hit with coloring controversy

Should eggs be labeled as artificially colored because corn and alfalfa meal are included in a chicken's diet to give egg yolks a more yellow color?

This is the problem facing the Federal Food and Drug Administration which has a regulation requiring that food that is "intentionally" colored must be labeled as artificially colored.

According to University of California Cooperative Extension poultry specialist Ralph Ernst, the regulation has not been enforced for eggs because natural feeds are being used to produce the desired color changes. He added that the same situation exists for chicken fryers fed corn or other feeds to give the skin a yellow color.

However, recent applications for permits to market artificial pigments for food coloring may force the FDA to require the "artificially colored" label on poultry and eggs to avoid inconsistency in enforcement of the regulation.

"Such a label would be deceptive and may cause undue concern among consumers when, in fact, only natural feeds are being used to produce the desired color," said Ernst. "In most California feeding situations, this means about five per cent alfalfa meal and 20 to 50 per cent corn in the chicken's diet."

He added that these feeds could make up more of the diet, and in some instances do, but it is usually more economical to feed milo or other grains that do not have the desired coloring pigments.

Ernst said he believes consumers prefer the deeper yellow eggs and poultry because this was their natural color years ago when chickens were raised on pasture and ate large amounts of green plants. Today, most chickens are raised in enclosed houses and are fed carefully balanced diets which enough corn or alfalfa.

SQUARE MEAL MEATLOAF

Get the right angle on meals

The study of geometry has a language all its own . . . but many geometric terms have crept into our everyday speech and are familiar to us all. If you find that your dwindling budget is paralleling your family's lack of interest in mealtimes . . . then it's time to shape up.

These two new recipes use the square and the circle to get a new angle on budget dining.

Square Meal Meatloaf turns the usual rectangle into a square shell of economical ground beef. The meatloaf mixture takes no time at all to stir together and shape. An envelope of mashed potato granules makes an easy filling for the square loaf. A topping of bread crumbs, butter and parmesan cheese gives the whole dish added appeal.

Serve with green beans, tossed salad, gingerbread, milk and coffee.

If you're going round in circles with budget woes and trying to be creative to boot . . . then Meatball Stew is the answer. The meatballs simmer in a sauce made from an envelope of brown gravy mix.

Serve with buttered rice, coleslaw, jelly roll, milk and coffee.

SQUARE MEAL MEATLOAF

1 egg
½ cup tomato juice
1½ teaspoons celery salt
1 pound ground beef
1¼ cups soft bread crumbs
1 envelope (5 servings) mashed potato granules
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1 tablespoon grated Parmesan cheese

Combine egg, tomato juice, and celery salt in large mixing bowl. Add ground beef and 1 cup of the bread crumbs; mix lightly. Spoon onto shallow baking pan and shape into a 6-inch square, building up edges to form a shell. Bake at 400 degrees for 20 minutes. Prepare mashed potatoes as directed on package; spread in meatloaf shell. Melt butter; stir in remaining ¼ cup crumbs and cheese. Sprinkle over potatoes. Return to oven and bake 10 to 15 minutes longer. 4 to 6 servings.

MEATBALL STEW

1 pound ground beef
¼ cup fine dry bread crumbs
1 egg, slightly beaten
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons shortening or oil
1¼ cups water
1 envelope (¾-oz.) brown gravy mix
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1 package (10-oz.) frozen mixed vegetables

Combine ground beef, bread crumbs, egg, and salt; shape into meatballs. Brown in shortening in large skillet. Add water, contents of gravy mix envelope, and Worcestershire sauce to skillet, until blended. Add vegetables. Cover and simmer 15 minutes. 4 to 6 servings.

A different Chinese dish

The popularity of Chinese food in the United States dates back to the middle of the 19th Century when immigrants from Canton settled here and introduced their customs and cooking skills.

Now Chinese cookery is more popular than ever. Chinese restaurants have sprung up in small towns and middle-size communities as well as major cities. And canned and frozen Chinese delicacies enjoy brisk sales in American supermarkets.

Chinese food looks good, tastes good, and is nutritious. If you have eaten in a Chinese restaurant lately you know that a great variety of dishes can be found on the menu. There are soups, fish dishes, vegetable mixtures and assorted meats and chicken. Frequently, a party of four or more people will order several dishes and sample each one. This is a good way to experiment with new foods.

Those who want economical, nutritious meals should experiment with Chinese dishes at home. This is an easy way to inspire family interest in mealtime and practice your skills in the art of Chinese cuisine.

Oriental Chicken with Cashews is a delicious Chinese dish that is a little different from those usually seen on a restaurant menu. It can be prepared with regular kitchen utensils using ingredients found in your local supermarket — no special equipment or exotic foods necessary.

ORIENTAL CHICKEN WITH CASHEWS

2 eggs
¼ cup unsifted flour
1 tablespoon sugar
½ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon water
2 teaspoons dry sherry
2 whole chicken breasts (1¾ pound) boned and skinned
1 cup salted cashews, finely chopped
1 cup peanut oil

Beat eggs slightly. Add flour, sugar, salt, water and dry sherry; beat until smooth.

Thinly slice chicken parallel to the grain into pieces about 2 inches square. Dip chicken in egg mixture and then coat with chopped cashews. Place on wax paper. Chicken may be covered and refrigerated until just before serving.

Heat peanut oil in heavy skillet over high heat to 375 degrees. Cook chicken in hot oil, a few pieces at a time, 2 to 3 minutes, or until done. Drain on paper towels. Keep warm until ready to serve. Makes 4 servings.

PINEAPPLE MOLASSES JUMBLES

Updating an old favorite

With the arrival of spring and warmer days, youngsters and their parents are spending much more time out-of-doors.

For a super treat between meals, everyone in the family will love a large, sweet cooky reminiscent of the old fashioned Jumbles of grandmother's time. This old favorite had the subtle flavor of sour cream or buttermilk.

Now comes a new variation that gives the cooky a flavor of Hawaii. Instead of stirring a dairy product into the batter, "Pineapple Molasses Jumbles" are beaten together with a can of tangy-sweet crushed pineapple. The drained liquid from the golden fruit is held to be brushed over the cooky tops just before they are sprinkled with sugar and set into the oven. This gives them a crackly top.

Not only does the pineapple harmonize handsomely with the light molasses flavor of Jumbles, but the texture of the fruit gives the cookies a soft chewiness. They store well and freeze nicely — if you can keep them away from the family cookie monsters. Better bake a double batch!

PINEAPPLE MOLASSES JUMBLES

1 (8¼ ounce) can crushed pineapple
2½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
¾ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon ginger
¼ teaspoon ground cloves
½ cup butter or margarine
1 cup brown sugar (packed)
1 large egg
⅓ cup light molasses
1 cup flaked coconut
½ cup chopped walnuts
Granulated sugar for tops

Drain pineapple well, pressing out and reserving syrup. Re-sift flour with soda, salt and spices. Set aside. Cream together butter and brown sugar. Add egg and beat until light. Beat in molasses. (Batter will appear curdled.) Stir in drained pineapple, then flour mixture. Fold in coconut and walnuts. Drop scant ¼ cup measures of dough 3 inches apart onto greased cooky sheets. Brush with reserved pineapple syrup and sprinkle each with a scant ¼ teaspoon sugar. Bake above oven center in moderate oven (350 degrees) 15 to 18 minutes, just until cookies test done and are lightly browned. Do not overbake. Remove to wire racks to cool thoroughly. Makes 1½ dozen large cookies.

Bread-baking given rebirth

The nation's bicentennial has focused much attention on our early history, including some early customs. One of these is the baking of bread in the home. Spurred by the bicentennial spirit and the gourmet trend, home bread-baking is becoming more common again.

Dill bread is higher in protein than most breads because of cottage cheese in it. Besides having nutritional value, this bread tastes unusually good — a benefit of the dill seed.

Dill Bread

¼ cup warm water, 110 (or lukewarm water, 85 degrees, if compressed yeast is used)
1 package dry yeast (or 1 cake compressed yeast)
1 cup creamed cottage cheese, heated to lukewarm
2 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon instant minced onion
1 tablespoon butter
2 teaspoons dill seed
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon soda
1 egg, unbeaten
2¼-2½ cups all purpose flour butter
salt

Pour water into bowl; add yeast and stir until dissolved. Combine with cottage cheese, sugar, onion, butter, dill seed, salt, soda and egg. Stir until well blended. Add flour gradually, mixing well after each addition. Stir (or use hands if necessary) until dough is of even consistency, and is smooth and elastic.

Grease 1½-quart oval baking dish well. Form dough into smooth oval, place in dish, and lightly grease top. Cover with a damp cloth, and set in warm place (about 80 degrees) to rise until doubled. Stir dough down. Reshape into an oval, rather flat loaf, and lightly grease the top. Cover and let rise in warm place, again until doubled. (The second rising should take less time — approximately 30 to 40 minutes.)

Bake in preheated 325 degrees oven for 40 to 50 minutes, or until top is golden brown and bread has started to pull away from the sides of dish. Immediately turn bread out of dish to cool on wire rack. While still hot, brush top with soft butter and sprinkle with salt.

International dish can cure menu doldrums

Webster defines doldrums as "low spirits; dull, gloomy, listless feeling." The second accepted dictionary definition calls doldrums "equatorial ocean regions noted for dead calms."

These two new recipes create a breath of fresh air, straight from the Mediterranean for your menu doldrums!

PORK STEW MILANESE

- ½ pound mild Italian sausage links
- 1 tablespoon oil
- 2 medium-size onions, sliced
- 1½ pounds lean pork steaks
- 2 cups water
- ⅛ teaspoon garlic powder
- ⅛ teaspoon black pepper
- 5 or 6 small carrots, peeled
- 1 envelope (¾-oz.) brown gravy mix
- 5 or 6 small cabbage wedges

Cut sausage into 1-inch pieces; brown in oil in medium-size skillet. Add onions and cook until soft but not brown; place in 2-quart casserole. Cut pork into 1-inch cubes. Brown pork in sausage drippings; place in casserole. Pour off fat from skillet. Add water to skillet and heat, scraping brown bits from bottom of pan; pour over meat in casserole. Add garlic, pepper, and carrots. Cover and bake in 350 degree oven 1 hour. Stir in contents of envelope of gravy mix; place cabbage wedges on top. Cover and bake 30 minutes longer or until meat and vegetables are tender. 5 to 6 servings.

GREEK POTATOES

- 1 package (5⅝-oz.) scalloped potatoes
- 1 chicken bouillon cube
- 2 2/3 cups boiling water
- 1/3 cup milk
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 3 tablespoons butter or margarine
- ¼ teaspoon oregano

Pour potato slices from package into 1½-quart casserole; sprinkle with seasoning mix from package. Dissolve bouillon cube in boiling water; add to potato mixture with remaining ingredients, stirring to combine. Bake, uncovered, in 350 degree oven 50 minutes or until tender and lightly browned. 5 to 6 servings.

Goose livers arouse controversy in France

PARIS (AP) — A $150 million golden egg, hidden under a mountain of Israeli and Bulgarian goose liver, is at the bottom of what a French goose breeder is calling an international foie gras scandal.

Andre Vuillet has accused the French government of covering up that about 60 per cent of the country's goose and duck liver paste production, a $250 million a year business with 70 per cent marked for export, comes from foreign livers imported in industrial quantities, packaged in France and then sold with French labels at prices the non-Gallic goose liver could never bring.

"It's like the Winegate scandal in the Bordeaux country when they brought in cheap wine and sold it under prestigious labels," Vuillet said in an interview. "The difference is that the Bordeaux wine trickery was against the law.

"But there's nothing that requires anybody in France to say on the label of a can of goose liver where the geese come from, and it can quite legally be sold as a French product. The government would be bucking some very heavy interest groups if it tried to write a tough labelling law, but that's what we want it to do. They don't seem interested."

Vuillet, 35, is president of the French Association of Foie Gras Producers. He says its membership of about 1,100 "are the little guys, the ones who don't know what you're talking about if you mention the word marketing, but who get up at 4 a.m. to make sure their geese feed on the best grain that's available."

Their problem is, he says, that they cannot compete with the bigger French producers who import their goose livers, mainly from Israel and Bulgaria, at about $20 less per kilo (2.2 pounds) than what the going prices are in France, where a kilo of pure foie gras costs about $105.

Vuillet called the foreign livers "homogenized" and said they were often the product of chemically treated geese. In some cases, he charged, cans sold under the label of French goose liver contained only 25 or 30 per cent liver, all of it imported, and the rest lard and spices.

A spokesman for the French Ministry of Agriculture, replying to Vuillet's accusations, said that all products with a French label "are packaged according to French methods and as far as we can see there is no deception involved. There may be some badly informed consumers and that's regrettable."

Vuillet's charges have been aired in French newspapers and on television.

Vuillet's said the situation is only coming to the surface now because his association just recently authorized him to make such a move.

"I told these people" — the goose liver packers importing foreign livers — "that the whole thing could be dealt with quietly, away from the public, if they just started labeling properly on their own. They said forget it and told me that if I ever opened my mouth I'd be doing something anti-French.

"I suppose if I were a big nationalist I wouldn't be saying it, but I think it's necessary. France is known as the world capital of gastronomy. If we want to conserve this position, we have to be honest. When these foie gras industrialists cheat legally, it is certain to be uncovered by someone else in the long run. So it's better to say it now than be brought into court later someplace else."

Saute fresh corn swiftly

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

Fresh corn makes a decided difference in the flavor of any recipe. Fortunately, fresh corn buffs may eat corn-on-the-cob and use fresh corn for favorite recipes year round since Florida provides a constant flow of this American treat to markets until June. Then it's just a short wait until the local fresh corn begins to ripen. When buying fresh corn, store it in the refrigerator until ready to use. Corn left to stand unchilled for several days will become more starchy.

FRESH CORN SAUTE

- 3 ears fresh corn
- 3 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 cup diced celery
- ½ cup chopped onion
- ¼ cup diced pimiento
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon sugar
- Dash ground black pepper

Remove husk and silks from corn. Cut kernels from cobs (makes about 2 cups). Set aside. In a medium-sized skillet, melt butter. Add celery and onion; saute for 5 minutes. Add reserved corn, pimiento, salt, sugar and black pepper. Cover and simmer for 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. Makes 4 portions.

An unusual sandwich combination

Thin sliced smoked salmon combines with cream cheese, sliced avocado and fresh lime juice for a sandwich that will tempt the palates of all those who enjoy truly good eating.

Thin sliced smoked salmon is available in three-ounce packets in the delicatessen section of your local market. Because of the special technique used in packaging, this salmon does not need to be packed in oil. It is a dry pack and retains all of its color and flavor. Salmon packed in this manner can be added to many foods. Try it with scrambled eggs, or escalloped potatoes.

SMOKED SALMON AVOCADO SANDWICH

- 2 3-ounce packages thin sliced smoked salmon
- 8 slices dark pumpernickel bread
- 1 3-ounce package cream cheese, softened
- 8 slices avocado
- Fresh lime
- Fresh ground pepper
- Fresh dill

Spread cream cheese on bread. Top with a strip of smoked salmon and two avocado slices. Sprinkle with fresh lime juice and garnish with dill and lime slices. Let guests grind pepper on top. Serve with crisp relishes. Makes 4 sandwiches.

Frozen meat cooking guide

Oops! Forget to take the meat out of the freezer to defrost for tonight's dinner? You can cook the meat from the frozen state, but you'll need to allow additional cooking time.

When cooking frozen roasts, the National Live Stock and Meat Board recommends allowing approximately a third to a half again as long as for cooking roasts which have not been frozen or which are defrosted. The additional time needed for cooking steaks and chops varies according to the surface area, thickness of the meat and the broiling temperature.

Thick frozen steaks, chops and ground meat patties should be broiled farther from the heat than defrosted ones so that the meat can be cooked to the desired degree of doneness without becoming too brown on the outside.

Different chicken recipes for the family

Well, you see there was this chicken that came out of this egg that came out of this chicken that provides an eternally complex and irritating question as to which came first . . . the chicken or the egg.

Diligent research has currently traced the egg back to a chicken somewhere in India around 2000 B.C. Its descendants spread to other parts of the world and by 1350 B.C. an Egyptian pharaoh was even buried in his tomb with a painting of a rooster. Greek coins in the fourth and fifth century B.C. were decorated with pictures of roosters and two ancient Roman agriculturists were known to have made specific suggestions as to how to run a poultry farm for several hundred chickens.

The term chicken can mean just about anything from young and tender broilers and fryers to larger and older roasting chickens to still larger capons (unsexed males also good for roasting) to old stewing and fricasseeing hens and roosters. They are tough but have a delicious flavor if cooked properly.

As with any dish that is both economical and versatile, almost every country has its chicken specialties.

In Italy, there is chicken tetrazzini made with spaghetti and heavy cream and chicken cacciatore covered with a tomato sauce.

France has its coq au vin with a red wine sauce and also Chicken Marengo. The latter dish was created by Napoleon's chef and named after the northern Italian village where the French beat the Austrians in 1800. The story goes that the chef, named Dunand, celebrated the victory by scavenging the countryside for whatever ingredients were available and came up with chicken, garlic, olive oil, tomatoes and mushrooms all flavored with Courvoisier, Napoleon's favorite cognac.

The Chinese make chicken with sesame and also wrap chicken in paper to preserve its flavor.

The Japanese prepare oyako donburi (chicken and eggs) and yakitori (chicken cooked on bamboo skewers over a cypress fire).

There is chicken tandoori in northern India. The tandoori is a primitive oven made with straw and mud. But the recipe isn't primitive at all. The chicken is marinated in yogurt and garlic and then cooked with curry, ginger, cloves, cinnamon, cayenne, cardamon and bay leaves.

And Spain's popular paella cooked with chicken, rice, sausages, vegetables and shellfish has become a universal favorite.

A Scottish contribution to poultry cookery is the cock-a-leekie soup. Some say this dish originated in the days of cockfighting. The loser was thrown into a pot and cooked with leeks.

To test whether your fowl is completely cooked, prick the fleshiest part of the bird with a fork. If the juice runs clear, it's done. If it runs red, it's not.

Here are some exciting-ly different chicken recipes for your family's taste pleasure.

POULET TIA MARIA

Take one medium size chicken sufficient to serve 4 to 6 people. Peel and segment 3 oranges and an appropriate quantity of grapes. Soak in 1 cup of Tia Maria, the Jamaican liqueur, and stuff into chicken cavity. Bake in the oven, basting with chicken fat and Tia Maria, until done. The sweetness of the liqueur reacts with the tartness of the fruit to give the chicken a rich succulence.

FRIED CHICKEN

Mixtures for fried or baked chicken are as varied as your imagination. Combine such ingredients as: Orange juice, orange peel, eggs and bread crumbs; flour, eggs, cayenne, Worcestershire sauce, salt; Bread crubs, eggs, garlic salt; Crushed crackers, cocktail sherry, heavy cream

CHICKEN A LA NAPOLEON

Marinate chicken parts in cognac for three hours before barbecuing or broiling.

Diet not the sole factor in heart disease

By Gaynor Maddox

How can I avoid getting coronary heart disease? More and more men die today because of it. Doctors and research scientists say there is no definite or infallible answer as yet.

Diet plays a large part in the attempted answers. So do exercise, not smoking, heredity and environment. All these are called risk factors. The fear of increasing cholesterol in the blood has blinded people to other factors, such as the need to combat high blood pressure.

So don't rely solely on diet or on exercise. In fact, don't rely on any one thing. Keep at them all, says Dr. Ray Rosenman, Harold Brunn Institute of Cardiovascular Research, Mt. Zion Hospital, San Francisco, California.

At the National Dairy Conference for Food Writers in Atlanta, Dr. Rosenman warned about the importance of diet in the control of cholesterol. "It is a prime factor in the cholesterol battle, but not all-important as many people thought."

This highly rated expert in cardiovascular problems defines the two types of personality-Type A and Type B. Type B is more or less calm, able to laugh easily, not tense. But Type A usually is a person rushing to get more out of life than is possible.

"Type A persons are at higher risk for coronary heart disease, particularly if they exhibit other risk factors. By the same token, the prevention of coronary heart disease is also far from simplistic. Although we must use faith as our guideline rather than hard fact at this juncture, there seems little doubt but that the total elimination of risk factors should be our goal and at the earliest possible ages."

Here are some stratagems for Type As. "Avoid days that bulge with events. Try to allot daily time for some solitude. Avoid individuals who bring out your hostility. Desist from catering to your egocentric tendency. Stop hurrying the speech of others or your own. Make time-elastic appointments whenever feasible. Never over-schedule. Begin to read books again. Stop skimming. Don't be afraid to arise earlier and leave work later if by so doing you can avoid feeling compressed by time. Fight hostility by laughing at it.

"Identify common daily sources of stress in order to avoid them. Exercise to avoid physical tension. Define goals, set priorities, reduce the number of back-to-back activities. Focus on process rather than outcome in order to diminish a chronic sense of time urgency. Spend time restructuring social, home and work environments. Only in such ways can the Type A individual control his behavioral excesses.

"What are the important culpable factors that can be controlled? — diet, weight, physical activity, hypertension, high cholesterol, cigarette smoking and excessive Type A behavior pattern.

"Will this guarantee protection against coronary heart disease? Not necessarily. But it will be a reasonable investment for good general health and well-being.

Farmers gain U.S. aid

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Drought-stricken farmers in 27 California counties will receive emergency federal aid, the state Department of Food and Agriculture said Friday.

The aid — mostly in the form of low-cost loans to farmers — was denied in two other counties which applied for it: Alpine and Butte.

Those approved were Alameda, Amador, Calaveras, Colusa, Contra Costa, Fresno, Glenn, Kings, Los Angeles, Madera, Merced, Monterey, Napa, Nevada, Riverside, San Benito, San Bernardino, San Diego, San Joaquin, San Luis Obispo, Solano, Stanislaus, Sutter, Tehama, Tulare, Tuolumne and Yolo.

CUCUMBER CANAPES

- 4 ounces grated (medium-fine) cheddar cheese
- 2 tablespoons mayonnaise
- 8 small pimiento-stuffed green olives, minced
- 1 tablespoon prepared mustard
- 1½ teaspoons bottled white horseradish
- 1 cucumber, 7 inches long
- Large pieces of toasted walnuts

Mix together the cheese, mayonnaise, olives, mustard and horseradish; chill to have firm. (Makes a generous ½ cup.) At serving time, cut off cucumber ends and discard. If waxed, pare; if not waxed, wash and dry and leave unpared. Slice into ¼-inch rounds for easy pickup — there should be 24. Dry cucumber slices on toweling so cheese topping all adhere. Turn a level teaspoon of the cheese mixture onto each cucumber round; press down firmly. Press a walnut piece over center of each round. Makes 24.

MEATLESS SUPPER
Eggplant Parmesan
Green Salad Italian Bread
Baked Apples Beverage

EGGPLANT PARMESAN

- 1 1pound eggplant
- 2 eggs
- 2 tablespoons flour
- ¼ cup olive oil
- 1½ to 2 cups Italian-style all-purpose tomato sauce
- ½ cup grated Parmesan cheese

Wash and dry eggplant; discard ends; cut cross wise about ¼-inch thick to have 13 slices — the 2 small end slices are used to make 1 slice. Beat together the eggs and flour until smooth; dip eggplant in mixture and fry slowly in a large skillet in the hot olive oil in single layers — using part of the oil at a time — until brown on both sides. Arrange 6 of the slices in a single layer in an 11¾ by 7½ by 1¾-inch baking dish; top with half the tomato sauce and half the cheese; top with remaining eggplant, tomato sauce and cheese. Bake in a 350-degree oven until bubbly hot — 20 to 25 minutes. Makes 3 large servings.

COMPANY LUNCH
Gold Coin Soup Hard Rolls
Hot Ratatouille with Italian Sausage
Fresh Fruit Compote

GOLD COIN SOUP

- ½ pound (5 medium) carrots, peeled and thinly sliced — about 2 cups
- 1 small onion, thinly sliced
- 10¾-ounce can condensed chicken broth, undiluted
- 10¾-ounce can condensed cream of potato soup, undiluted
- Lemon juice

Simmer carrots, onion and broth, covered, until tender. Puree in an electric blender with the potato soup. Add 1 cup milk. Heat gently, stirring often, until boiling. Stir in enough more milk to make a pleasant consistency. Chill. At serving time stir in more milk, if necessary, and a teaspoonful or so of lemon juice or enough to suit your own taste. Serve cold. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

FAMILY DINNER
Fish Fillets Potatoes
Green Beans
Health Salad

HEALTH SALAD

- Chopped iceberg lettuce
- Medium-fine grated pared carrot
- Medium-fine grated cheddar cheese
- Raisins
- Commercial sour cream
- Lemon juice
- Sugar, if desired
- Salt

Toss together all the ingredients in the proportions you prefer to make the quantity you need. Serve at once.

Here are helpful definitions of heart terms

By GAYNOR MADDOX

Recently in Atlanta, Georgia, the National Dairy Council presented a dictionary of terms in nutrition, diet and heart disease.

Here is the dictionary in part. Many of the words are becoming daily more familiar in this time of increasing deaths from heart attack.

Angina Pecotris — a sudden vise-like pain in the chest, caused by insufficient oxygenation of the heart muscle. It is often associated with emotional stress or undue physical effort. The pain acts like a "safety valve," stopping the strain or effort.

Anoxia — literally, no oxygen. This condition most frequently occurs when the blood supply to a part of the body is completely cut off. This results in the death of the affected tissue. For example a specific area of the heart muscle may die when the blood supply (and hence the oxygen supply) has been blocked, as by a clot in the artery supplying the area.

Arteriosclerosis — loss of elasticity in the arteries, a process which occurs as aging proceeds.

Cardiac — pertaining to the heart.

Cerebral Vascular Disease — disease of the blood vessels leading to the brain. Blockage of cerebral arteries is called a stroke.

Cholesterol — a steroid, present in all animal fats and oils, blood, bile, nerves and all cells of the body. It can be made in the body or obtained from the diet. It is probably a starting material for the synthesis of bile compounds, vitamin D and some hormones. It is also important in the transport of fatty acids.

Coronary Artery — there are two small coronary arteries which supply blood to the heart muscle. They run from the root of the aorta over the surface of the heart.

Coronary Thrombosis — presence of a blood clot or thrombus in the coronary artery.

Essential Fatty Acids — three fatty acids are "essential", i.e. the body cannot make them. They are linoleic acid, linolenic acid, and arachidonic acid, all polyunsaturated. The body can convert linoleic acid into arachidonic acid. Arachidonic acid is essential for growth and certain other functions in infants.

Fibrillation — uncoordinated contractions of the heart muscle occurring when the individual muscle fibers take up independent irregular contractions.

Lakers blow chance to jump to third

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — The Los Angeles Lakers missed a big chance in their bid for a playoff berth Tuesday night, and they can put a lot of the blame on a couple of former UCLA All-Americans.

Bill Walton and Sidney Wicks combined for 48 points and 20 rebounds, leading the Portland Trail Blazers to a 106-104 victory over the Lakers in a National Basketball Association game.

Because of the loss, Los Angeles remains a half game behind third-place Phoenix in the Pacific Division.

Golden State, defending NBA champion and the Pacific Division winner again this season, edged Phoenix 111-106 in overtime.

Los Angeles has one game left, at Phoenix, while the Suns have two games remaining, the second against Seattle.

Seattle, which has four games left, trails Golden State by 17 games. Phoenix is 18 back and Los Angeles 18½.

Walton, the oft-injured 6-foot-11 center, was the big difference Tuesday night. He finished with 26 points, all but 4 in the second half. Wicks, who preceded him at UCLA, added 22. Each had 10 rebounds as Portland controlled the boards 54-49.

"I knew Bill was ready Monday at practice," said Portland Coach Lenny Wilkens. "I could feel it. I saw him look like he looked a couple of months ago before he got hurt."

A couple of month ago, when Walton suffered his latest injury, the Blazers were one of the hottest teams in the NBA and looked like a solid bet to reach the playoffs.

After Walton was sidelined, the momentum changed and the Blazers once again will watch the playoffs from the sidelines.

Los Angeles, getting 31 points from Gail Goodrich and 29 from Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, led 100-97 when Portland scored seven consecutive points to go in front 104-100.

Jabbar then scored twice, but Wicks sank a pair of free throws in between, and that was the difference.

Goodrich picked up 22 points in the second half. Jabbar led both teams with 13 rebounds.

"It was a fine game by both teams," Wilkens said. "Both had intensity. I knew it would be that way. They had a lot at stake, and we were ready, too."

CONTROL OF PUCK

Kings' Neil Komadoski has control of the puck but Atlanta's Bill Clement is right behind him in Tuesday's Stanley Cup contest. Kings won, 2-1. Teams play in Atlanta Thursday.

Selmon, Muncie top draft list

NEW YORK (AP) — Leroy Selmon, Oklahoma's destructive defensive lineman, and Chuck Muncie, California's pile-driving runner, figure to be the top two picks—by the Tampa Bay Buccaneers and Seattle Seahawks, respectively—in the National Football League's annual college draft.

Selmon and Muncie are rated as superstars in this "Year of the Running Back." There's a ton of running backs, starting with Muncie, a 6-foot-3, 235-pounder who rushed for 1,460 yards last year, fourth in the nation, and scored 15 touchdowns.

In his wake will come names like Ohio State's Archie Griffin, the first 5,000-yard career gainer and the first two-time Heisman Trophy winner as the nation's top college player.

Some scouts call the 5-9, 184-pound Griffin too small. Others, though, point to the pro success of "little" runners like Mack Herron, Greg Pruitt, Mike Garrett, Johnny Rodgers and Anthony Davis.

Other running backs expected to go in Thursday's early rounds are Joe Washington of Oklahoma, Tony Galbreath of Missouri, Sonny Collins of Kentucky, Jim Jensen of Iowa, Bubba Bean of Texas A&M and Mike Pruitt of Purdue.

But Selmon, the Sooners' mammoth defensive tackle (who might end up as a defensive end in the pros) is certainly the star attraction. One scout, after taking a look at the 6-2, 260-pound All-American and Outland Trophy winner as the nation's best college lineman, said in awe: "He may go before the first round."

Other defensive linemen expected to be picked in the early rounds are Texas Southern's Charles Philyaw, Oklahoma's Dewey Selmon (Leroy's brother), Arizona's Mike Dawson and Purdue's Ken Novak.

The first-round selection order—barring last-minute trades—is Tampa, Seattle, New Orleans, San Diego, New England, the New York Jets, Cleveland, Detroit, Atlanta, Chicago, Cincinnati, New England, the New York Giants, Kansas City, Denver, Detroit, Miami, Buffalo, Miami, Baltimore, New England, St. Louis, Green Bay, Cincinnati, Minnesota, Los Angeles, Dallas and Pittsburgh.

New England has three first-round picks and Detroit, Miami and Cincinnati have two apiece via trades. Houston, Oakland, Philadelphia, San Francisco and Washington have none in the opening round, having dealt them away.

It's not a year for super quarterbacks, but four are highly rated as pro prospects—Craig Penrose of San Diego State, Gene Swick of Toledo, Scott Gardner of Virginia and Richard Todd of Alabama.

Among the receivers expected to be grabbed early are tight ends Bennie Cunningham of Clemson and Mike Barber of Louisiana Tech and wide receivers Larry Dorsey of Tennessee State and Billy Brooks of Oklahoma.

Buckner enjoying first spot

MESA, Ariz. (AP) — Leadoff man Bill Buckner — the newest experiment of the Los Angeles Dodgers — says he likes his new role, even though it may not last long.

The outfielder for the National League club said Tuesday he would like to be the leadoff man for the Dodgers, but realizes that Davey Lopes will probably be back for opening day on Friday.

With Steve Garvey slashing three hits, Buckner getting two and Mike Marshall pitching three strong innings Tuesday, the Dodgers whipped Oakland's A's 6-2 for their ninth exhibition baseball triumph of the spring.

Marshall struck out five of the 13 A's he faced and allowed just three hits in the game, despite his late arrival at spring training. Marshall has permitted only one run in eight innings of relief pitching.

Lopes is out with pulled muscle in his side, so Buckner was leadoff for the game and said, "I like it better than batting second. The requirements of the leadoff man are to get on base and score runs, and I like that.

Starters Burt Hooton of the Dodgers and Vida Blue of the A's both went six innings. Hooton, who won his last 12 games in 1975 and wound up with a career-high 18 victories, pitched well Tuesday but said:

"I've got a little way to go. It wasn't six strong innings. At the end of last year I was throwing twice as well as I'm throwing now."

The Dodgers, 9-3 this spring, broke a 2-2 tie with singles off Paul Lindblad by Manny Mota and Ivan DeJesus, followed by John Hale's sacrifice fly.

Steve Garvey had three hits in five at bats and drove in two runs. Buckner had a double and a single, and said of his 18-for-43 batting this spring: "I feel very good at the plate. Right now the only thing bothering me is a sore elbow. It hurts and it's uncomfortable, but it won't keep me out of the lineup."

The Dodgers have only one game to go this exhibition season, against the Giants this afternoon at Phoenix. The two teams will open the National League season Friday at Candlestick Park in San Francisco.

Kings look for sweep

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Los Angeles Kings' captain Mike Murphy says his teammates "didn't take any cheap shots" in their victory over the Atlanta Flames, which gave them an important first-game edge in the opening round of the best-of-three National Hockey League playoff series.

"Our experience from last year's playoffs helped us tonight," he said after the 2-1 victory Tuesday. "We didn't take any cheap shots at the goal. It was an extremely physical game and we are a tired hockey team right now.

"But we have two nights to rest and we will be ready for them Thursday night," Murphy said.

"We don't want to have to come back to Los Angeles for a third game," said goalie Rogie Vachon, who played brilliantly in the net for the Kings. "So we're going all out to wrap it up in Atlanta Thursday night."

The Kings move to Atlanta Thursday for the second game of the series in the preliminary rounds of the Stanley Cup playoffs.

Tommy Williams, who fired in one goal early in the opening period and assisted on another, said "I really psyched myself up all day."

"It was a tight-checking game and getting that early goal 50 seconds into the game relieved a lot of pressure and it gets a team going."

With 5:24 left to play, Atlanta defenseman Barry Gibbs blasted a 50-foot slap shot to deprive Vachon of a shutout prior to Gibbs' score at 13:36 of the final period. Vachon is the best active Stanley Cup goalie, with 1.93 goals against average.

Atlanta Coach Fred Creighton pulled goalie Dan Bouchard with 21 seconds left in the game to add an extra attacker, but the Kings held on to score their fourth victory in five meetings with the Flames this season.

"I guess we played well," said Creighton. "I thought we had some good chances to score in the second and third period. We had enough chances to win, but so did they.

"The Kings forechecked well and played aggressively, which is what we have to do. They have the home ice advantage that gives them two chances and we've got only one."

Bob Nevin made it 2-0 for Los Angeles at 2:40 of the second period when he connected with a backhander from 12 feet in front. Williams set up the play with a perfect pass to the Kings veteran.

With nine seconds left to play in the second period, Mike Corrigan appeared to have scored a goal for Los Angeles, but referee Ron Wicks disallowed the score. He ruled that Corrigan had kicked the shot into the net. Defenseman Bob Murdoch had fired the shot from just inside the blue line and hit Corrigan, who was standing in front of the goal.

"We played very well tonight," said Kings' Coach Bob Pulford, giving special credit to the line of Williams, Nevin and Butch Goring. "We did not have many scoring opportunities, but I think this is the way all the games will be."

Bouchard was credited with 26 saves while Atlanta got 20 shots on Vachon.

The Flames, who have failed to defeat the Kings on Los Angeles ice in 10 games, are now 8-0-2.

Kirkwood wins job in rotation

ANAHEIM (AP) — Pitching, among other things, has been a weak spot for the California Angels in recent years but it appears that part of the problem has been solved by Don Kirkwood.

In 1975 the lean redhead pitched 47 times but started just two games. This spring, however, he has been given an opportunity to earn a spot in the California rotation and Tuesday he officially earned that spot.

"We gave him the opportunity to win a job, and he went out and did it," said Manager Dick Williams after Kirkwood pitched seven innings, allowing only one earned run against the San Francisco Giants.

It capped a fine spring for the young pitcher. He hurled 19 and one-third innings, permitting just 15 hits and four earned runs for a 1.86 earned run average.

Thus Kirkwood becomes the No. 3 starter in the Angel rotation behind fireballing no-hit ace Nolan Ryan and left-handed strikeout artist Frank Tanana.

In another development Tuesday, the Angels said the cast would be removed today from the right hand of outfielder Bobby Bonds and doctors would then determine just how serious is his broken finger.

Bonds, the slugging outfielder obtained from the New York Yankees during the off season, broke the middle finger sliding into home plate last Friday night against the Los Angeles Dodgers.

If the break is determined to be a new one, Bonds is expected to be out five weeks. If X rays show the injury to be an old one, he may start Friday night in the team's opener against Oakland.

Pomona spikers roll over Scots

By MIKE BROSSART
PB Staff Writer

Pomona High's Barry Boettcher broke two school records — one already his own — and teammate Hank Zibell continued to improve upon his own school standard in the shot put as the Red Devils maintained their course for a showdown with Garey.

The Devils rolled over visiting Upland — a good track team — by the lopsided score of 90 2/3 to 27 1/3 Tuesday afternoon while the Vikings walked over a weak Damien squad, 102-61. Pomona and Garey are both 5-0 in San Antonio League dual meets and will meet on the final day of league action, April 29.

Both teams should be 6-0 at that time, since Garey will visit Chino (1-4) and Pomona will host Montclair (1-4) Wednesday, April 21.

Boettcher ran virtually unchallenged in the mile but was still able to cover the distance in 4:23.0, breaking the Pomona record of 4:23.8 set by Steve Koenig in 1971.

In the two mile, Upland's Roger Innes pushed Boettcher all the way to the record. Boettcher, who overtook Innes for the last time with 220 yards to go, finished in 9:27.1 to Innes' 9:32.6, the best time of the year for the Upland runner.

Boettcher had set the old mark of 9:30.5 last year.

"He'll go lower than he did today," Frank Hardy, distance coach of the Devils. "That was the first time he's been challenged.

"Barry will get down into the tens (less than 4:20 and 9:20) in both events. When the season started, he had goals of 4:09 and 9:14."

Meanwhile, Zibell came up with his best shot put, 62 feet, 8½ inches. He had set the school mark of 61-4 three weeks earlier.

Another top effort was turned in by Upland's Casey Cox, who won the half-mile in 1:56.0, the best prep time in the Valley to date in that event.

Cox's win, however, was one of only two for the Highlanders in 14 events. The other was Cliff Juell's 12-foot pole vault.

In fact, Pomona swept five individual events and won both relays, shutting out Upland in exactly half the events.

Terry Andrews was the top scorer for the Devils. He won the 100 (10.5), 220 (22.8) and 440 (51.5) and anchored Pomona's winning 440 relay team, which included Karsem James, Jim Donaldson and Anthony Miley (43.6).

Donaldson and Charles Cole finished behind Andrews for a sweep in the 100 and James and Donaldson did the same in the 220. James was also second in the 440, but Cox placed third to prevent another sweep.

Ernest Jarnagin, Marty Johnson and Darryl Shaw of Pomona combined for the top three places in the 120 high hurdles while Ricky Fairman and Anthony Miley backed up Zibell for a sweep in the shot put.

Charles Cole won the long jump at 21-8, followed by teammates Lewis Cole (Charles' brother) and Jim Middleton. Middleton also won the 330 low hurdles in 40.3, while Jarnagin finished second.

Upland's best event was the pole vault. Cliff Juell won the event at 12 feet and teammate Steve Johnson was second at 10.

Cavs still have Pierce as hero

By SEAN SULLIVAN
PB Correspondent

"We still have a Pierce for a hero!" declared Montclair High skipper Tom McFadden after watching his crew's come-from-behind victory over an improving Ganesha Giants squad 7-6 at Montclair High Tuesday afternoon.

The win ups the Cavs record to 6-1, enabling them to maintain their lead in the San Antonio League as the first half comes to a close.

Darrin Pierce, a junior and younger brother of injured pitching ace Don Pierce, went three-for-four at the plate including a two-out single in the bottom of the seventh, enabling leftfielder Mike Corbo to score the winning run of the wild contest.

As McFadden was quick to point out, it was the first start of the year for the younger Pierce, who played rightfield.

It looked as though an upset was in the making as a fired-up Giant club jumped on Montclair starter Mike Kizziar. The cellar-dwelling Giants ripped eight hits off the Cav starter.

Kizziar opened the game by walking Giant centerfielder Wayne Smith who in turn stole second, went to third on a sacrifice bunt by Ron LaPere, and scored on a ball that got by the Cavs' sophomore catcher Kent Gurney.

After the host's bats were quiet in their half of the inning, senior Dan Houck led-off the second for the visitors with a single and then scored on a long sacrifice fly by Mike Dorsch to centerfield to make it 2-0.

The margin increased to 3-0 when sophomore rightfielder Kerry Lee singled to breed additional thoughts of another Ganesha upset (the Giants upended a tough Claremont squad 1-0 just a week ago), as freshman catcher Bob Ogden scored.

Smith then came to the plate and launched a triple off the fence in centerfield allowing Lee to score the fourth Giant tally.

Down by four runs, the Cavs came to bat in the third having to face Giant lefthander Tom Cosgrove, who struck out four Cavaliers (11 in the entire contest) in the first two frames.

Pierce led off the inning by cracking a sharp single to left-field, causing a stir among the Montclair supporters.

After Cosgrove picked up his fifth and sixth strikeouts of the battle, he gave up a walk to third-sacker Bill Moore. Pierce then scored the first tally for the hosts as Rick Adams hit a grounder through the legs of Ganesha shortstop Joe Madrigal.

The next two frames remained scoreless as both hurlers fanned four hitters apiece.

After giving up back-to-back singles to Madrigal and Houck in the fifth, Kizziar found Ogden to end the Giant hopes of increasing their lead.

Cosgrove countered in the Montclair fifth by striking out two and throwing out another at first base, as it was looking dimmer and dimmer for the Montclairians.

Corbo doubled with two out in the Montclair sixth and scored when, as he attempted a steal of third, the ball got by Dorsch on the throw from catcher Ogden to narrow the margin to 5-2.

But Dorsch retaliated in the seventh with a single to left to score Madrigal who reached on a single.

Down 6-2, the Cavs sent 10 hitters to the plate in the final frame. Pierce led-off with a single and scored on a wild pitch thrown by reliever Madrigal. Centerfielder Rich Labarge then scored on another wild pitch by Madrigal.

After Moore singled and Adams walked, Corbo singled them both in to even the score as the Cavalier gallery went wild. He then crossed the plate with the winning run as Pierce picked up his second hit of the inning.

"I said at the beginning of the year," McFadden offered, "that the team that wins this league (the SAL) would have to be lucky as well as good."

Lady Luck was certainly on the side of the front-running Cavs Tuesday afternoon.

Montclair will be out to protect its SAL lead Friday when the Cavs travel to Claremont. Ganesha will be hosting cross-town rival Garey the same day. Both those games are scheduled for 3:15 p.m. starts.

Leos smash Pomona, 17-0

Paul McGuire hurled a four-hit shutout and his La Verne teammates provided 16-hit support Tuesday as the Leos rolled over Pomona Pitzer, 17-0.

For McGuire (4-1) it was another fine effort. The bespectacled righthander lost his first start of the year, 4-3 to the University of Arizona.

Since then he has won four straight. The wins have come over Azusa Pacific, (3-2), Whittier (5-1) and the Sagehens.

Last week he beat Whittier 5-1 Tuesday striking out nine and walking no one. Saturday he picked up a win with 3 1/3 innings of relief, striking out four and walking one.

Against the Sagehens Tuesday, he fanned eight in six innings and once again did not walk a man. In his last three appearances, McGuire has pitched 18 1/3 innings, and struck out 21 while walking only one and allowing but 10 hits!

La Verne jumped on Todd Steckler for seven runs on eight hits in the second inning. John Laubhan started it with a lead-off home run.

The next seven batters followed with hits including a two-run double by Wayne Redfearn.

Tim Burzette was the Leopards' leading hitter. Burzette, who went into the game with a .435 average (30-for-69), had two more hits and three runs batted in and stretched his consecutive-game hitting streak to 21.

Jim Pearns had three hits including a solo home run. Laubhan and Redfearn each had a pair of RBIs.

La Verne now is 8-1 in league play and 14-13 overall. The conference championship will probably be decided in the series with Claremont-Mudd which opens Saturday with a doubleheader at La Verne.

Pomona-Pitzer, 3-12 and 4-17, hosts LIFE Bible for two games Friday starting at noon. After that the 'Hens are off until April 24 when they play two games at Occidental.

Sparky wants busy bullpen

By Associated Press

Gary Nolan finds himself on the mound for Thursday's 1976 baseball opener in Cincinnati. But he won't find himself there very long, according to Manager Sparky Anderson.

Anderson has indicated that he'll pull his starters in favor of relief pitchers early in the season in order to guard against sore arms.

The Houston Astros can expect to see at least one reliever—and maybe even a parade. The defending world champions have one of the strongest bullpens in baseball and Anderson went through one extravagantly long stretch last year without a starter finishing a game.

While the Reds face J.R. Richard in their traditional opener at home, a step ahead of the rest of the National League, the first shot of the American League wars will be fired in Milwaukee where the Brewers host the New York Yankees. Catfish Hunter will pitch for New York against Milwaukee's Jim Slaton.

Those two games will be the only ones played on Opening Day, but they'll trigger a weekend landslide.

In Friday's National League action, the Montreal Expos will send Steve Rogers against Tom Seaver of the New York Mets; Don Sutton will pitch for the Los Angeles Dodgers against San Francisco's John Montefusco; Atlanta's Phil Neikro will duel Randy Jones of San Diego and Chicago's Ray Burris faces the St. Louis Cardinals and Lynn McGlothen.

Easy win for Devils

Two school records were set on the non-varsity levels. Pomona's Shawn Price won the junior varsity 880 in 2:07.4, erasing the old mark of 2:07.7, while Upland's John Sheerer set a mark in the frosh-soph 330 lows with a time of 41.0.

Upland (3-2) fell into a third-place tie with Ganesha, 69-49 winner over Claremont.

SAL teams will compete in the Chino Relays Friday night and then will take a week off for Easter vacation.

Jones runs lows in 14.1

Ganesha High's Lloyd Jones covered the 120-yard high hurdles in an incredible 14.1 seconds Tuesday afternoon, making him the CIF's fastest hurdler at that distance by two-tenths of a second. His previous best was 14.4.

"There was wind on and off, but I'd say it was a legitimate time," said Coach Doug Westlake of the Giants. Wind gauges are not in use at dual meets. Jones also won the 330 low hurdles in 39.2.

"I think Lloyd was a little disappointed with his performance at the Chaffey Invitational, so he went all out today," said Westlake.

Jones ran the 120 highs in 14.9 in the finals Saturday at Chaffey, finishing second to Pomona's Ernest Jarnagin (14.8). Jones has a best time of 37.8 in the 330 lows, second-best in CIF.

The Giants (3-2) beat Claremont (2-3), 69-49, to pull into a third-place tie with Upland. In other San Antonio League meets Tuesday, Garey (5-0) stomped Damien (0-5) to remain deadlocked with Pomona for first place and Chino (1-4) won its first meet, 66-51 over Montclair (1-4).

Semi-pro team seeks players

The Pomona Brewers, members of the Pomona Park and Recreation Department's semi-pro baseball league, are currently seeking players for the upcoming season.

Prospects interested in a tryout with the Brewers are invited to call team manager Manuel Navarro at (714) 620-1035.

CHS wins gym meet

Claremont High downed Chaffey Tuesday in a girls gymnastics meet, 73.90 to 48.05.

Jill Magee of Claremont scored 25.85 to win all-around honors. She won the bars (7.2), was runnerup in vaulting and the beam and fourth in floor exercise.

Teammate Pam Kinsey was the all-around runnerup with 23.55 points. She was second in bars and floor exercise, third on the beam and fourth in vaulting.

Terri Cohn of Claremont won vaulting (5.15) and beam (7.0), while Nancy Schick won the floor exercise (7.8) and was fourth on the beam.

Cecilia Westlotorn, third on the bars, was the only Chaffey entry to finish among the top four in any event.

Claremont (3-0 will visit South Hills Thursday.

Jones' teammate Floyd Eddings won three events to pace the Giants. Eddings took the 100 (9.7), 220 (22.1) and long jump (22 feet, 4 inches) and ran on Ganesha's winning mile relay team.

Claremont's Kelly Gordien, competing for the first time after a period of ineligibility, won the high jump at 6-4.

Garey took it easy in its meet with Damien, winning with generally unspectacular times and distances. The only exception was Morris Cole's 22.4 in the 220. Cole did not run the 100.

The SAL teams will compete in the Chino Relays before taking a week off for Easter Vacation. The next league meets are scheduled for Wednesday, April 21.

'Pack beats Scot netters

Claremont High's tennis squad topped Upland, 16-12, Tuesday afternoon, in a match between teams that were previously unbeaten in San Antonio League play.

Gregg Kaufman won all four of his sets while the doubles team of Yaron Stempo and Jeff Arce went 6-0 to lead Claremont (7-0). Upland (6-1) was paced by Wally Velie and Eric Gosswiller, both 3-1.

Kaufman won 6-1 over Velie, last year's SAL singles champion.

In junior varsity action, Claremon won seven of eight tiebreakers to post a 17-11 victory over the Highlanders.

The 'Pack will travel to Montclair Friday to open the second round of league play.

CIF loss for Upland girls

PLACENTIA — The Upland High girls basketball team bowed out of the CIF 3A playoffs here Tuesday night, as host Valencia High downed the Scots 57-52 in a quarterfinal game.

The Upland girls finished the season with a 17-4 record and the San Antonio League championship.

Cubs lose Frailing

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP) — The Chicago Cubs placed pitcher Ken Frailing on the 21-day disabled list Sunday because of stiffness in his pitching shoulder.

The Cubs also trimmed their roster to the 25-player limit by sending outfielder Jim Tyrone and infielder Rob Sperring to Wichita.

Pomona back in SAL chase

By MARK GRIP
PB Correspondent

Pomona High climbed back into the San Antonio League baseball picture Tuesday with a 2-1 decision over cross-town rival Garey on the victor's diamond.

The win, combined with Upland's 7-0 thumping of Claremont, ties the Devils for second place in loop action with Claremont.

The trio's 4-3 record puts them two games behind front-running Montclair boasting a 6-1 record.

The win also ends a three game losing streak that Pomona suffered after winning its first three league outings.

The loss that started the drought was a crucial extra-inning loss to a then-unbeaten Claremont.

The crippled Devils went into Tuesday's game with only 10 players, missing three starters.

Pomona played without injured third baseman Joe Chapa (leg) and ace pitcher-catcher Jack Phillips (flu and arm). Craven expects both players ready for action this Friday.

The other missing Devil was Hank Zibell, who came late after competing in Pomona's track meet.

Zibell hurled the shot put 62 feet 8½ inches and then donned his spikes to play centerfield and bat cleanup.

Pomona scored solo runs in the first and second innings for a quick 2-0 lead that pitcher Mike Keegan made stand up.

Garey chalked up an unearned run in the fifth and threatened to tie the game in the seventh, advancing a runner to third with two out.

The first run of the afternoon came when Viking starter David Rondero walked Kevin Johnson (his third of the inning) to force home Brian Cochran, who started things with a single.

Dale Coleman singled with one out, advanced to second on a fielders choice, and scored the second Devil run on Keegan's single to left.

Cregg Handy came on to pitch the fourth and put the fire out allowing only one hit in three innings of relief work.

Keegan had the Vikings throttled on one hit and no runs through four innings.

Al Clay led off the fifth by reaching first on an error and coming to score, two outs later, when Jim Saige blasted a triple to right field.

Keegan went on to pick up the complete-game win, his third against one loss overall and second in league.

The junior righthander struck out three, allowed only three hits, and walked none.

Mounties down OCC 11-2

MSAC's Veselic sharp

By PAUL CLICK
PB Correspondent

Bob Veselic hurled no-hit ball for four and 2/3 innings Tuesday afternoon before allowing a hit, and went on to pitch a three-hitter as Mt. San Antonio College defeated Orange Coast 11-2.

The win gives MSAC a 7-3 record in conference play but the Mounties remain a game and a half behind front-running Cerritos. Cerritos is 9-2 after whipping Santa Ana 11-3 on Tuesday.

Veselic had great stuff as he fanned 15 Pirate batters. Orange Coast batters at times were overwhelmed by Veselic's velocity. Veselic was wild however as he walked seven batters.

"I thought Veselic pitched well," noted MSAC's Art Mazmanian. "In the last two weeks Veselic's pitching has just been terrific. He's a different pitcher now."

Since the Grossmont game earlier this year Veselic has had great command of his pitches and has cut down on his walks. Mazmanian attributes Veselic's turn-around due to giving up the slider and concentrating on just the fastball and curveball.

The Mountie batters gave Veselic great support as MSAC never trailed in the game. They scored twice in the first inning and went on to pile up 11 runs and nine hits. The Mounties also received three errors and nine walks to help their attack.

MSAC put the game away in the fourth as Forrest Brown led off the inning with a towering homer over the right-field fence. Larry Marsh followed with a basehit. After three free tickets by the Pirate pitcher that resulted in a run the hurler uncorked a wild pitch, allowing another run to score. The wild pitch gave MSAC a 6-0 lead.

Mazmanian said, "I thought we played a fine game despite the type of opposition we were playing. The kids are playing good ball. I just hope we can keep our continuity with this break from conference play coming up.

"We're going to give a few guys who haven't seen much action a chance to pitch. We play LA City Thursday and Rio Hondo Saturday."

Referring to the conference race which is now a two-team affair between MSAC and Cerritos, Mazmanian said, "We're right in there and if we just keep playing like we did today we'll be a tough team to beat."

MSAC received excellent play from Brian Menasco, who knocked out a single and walked three times. Ron Roenicke had a triple and two RBI's, and Larry Mash collected three base hits.

According to Mazmanian, catcher Val Primante has been doing a underrated job behind the plate. Primante walked twice and scored two runs.

"Primante has done a good job as the Mountie backstop. He's been a real surprise as he has not had a bad game in conference action yet," Mazmanian noted.

The Priates scored on a bunt single and a ground out to second base.

MSAC will return to South Coast Conference action after participating in a holiday tournament during Easter week.

Scots blank 'Pack to take over 2nd

By JIM McCONNELL
PB Staff Writer

Upland High took over sole possession of second place in the San Antonio League baseball race Tuesday with an easy 7-0 victory over Claremont at Upland Memorial Park.

The win gives the Highlanders a 5-2 mark at the conclusion of the first round of SAL play. Coach Bob Garvin's Scots will try to improve on that mark Friday when they travel to Damien.

Tuesday's performance was a most disappointing one for Claremont. The Wolfpack came into the game tied for second with Upland at 4-2, but the game was never in doubt after the first inning.

In that frame, the 'Pack gave Upland two runs on a walk, two errors and a wild pitch without the Scots hitting the ball out of the infield. Upland put together four more runs in the third on five hits, and another tally in the fourth, and that was more than enough for senior righthander Stan Smith.

Smith held the Wolfpack attack scoreless, scattering six hits. Smith fanned only two Claremont batters, but walked only one and benefitted from several nifty defensive plays.

'Pack pitcher Mil Pompa pitched well also, but fielding miscues by his mates put him in trouble in the three Upland scoring frames.

Pompa finished with a seven-hitter, fanning eight and walking one.

Upland has been the hottest team on offense in the league of late, but the Highlanders received a lot of help from the shaky Claremont defense Tuesday.

In the last of the first, Bob Stidd led off by drawing a walk. He promptly took second on a Pompa wild pitch, and scored as 'Pack third sacker Paul Sokolowski booted Jeff Sarratt's grounder. Sarratt then stole second, took third on a bad throw by Claremont catcher Brent Bossom, and came home as Scott Haugan grounded out to first.

Upland increased its lead to 6-0 with four runs in the third.

Dean Sanchez led that frame off with a single. Stidd sacrificed him to second, and Sarratt beat out an infield single, Sanchez moving to third.

Upland then tried a double steal, and Sanchez scored as Bossom's throw to second sailed into centerfield. Sarratt got up and continued to third, where he came home as Greg Straley laced a single to right.

Straley added to Bossom's woes by stealing second. Haugan then reached on an infield single, Straley scoring on the play as 'Pack second baseman Carl Cervantes threw wildly in a vain attempt to nip Haugan at first.

Sarratt and Claremont's Dan Healey were the only players on either side to collect more than one hit apiece.

Spartans down slumping Chino

Damien High's baseball team came to life Tuesday for a 9-2 win over host Chino.

Spartan hurler Richard Bustos fired a seven-hitter, fanning seven Cowboys, to register the win. Bustos also walked five, but pitched out of trouble on several occasions.

The Damien offense built up a big 9-0 lead after four and one-half innings. The Spartans touched up Chino starter Chris Pruitt for two runs in the first, as Ruben Lopez tripled home the scores.

Mark Schlesinger doubled home two more in the fourth, and a three-run Spartan explosion in the fifth put the game out of reach of the Cowboys.

Pruitt, Mark White and Barry Higgins were touched up for eight hits and added seven walks to the Damien offensive attack.

The Cowboys scored once in the last of the fifth on Mary Edens' RBI single and one more in the sixth on Gene St. Esteben's one-bagger. Rick Riedel scored both Cowboys tallies.

On the game, Lopez was the only player to have more than one hit, as he added a single to his first-inning triple.

Damien, now 2-4-1, in league, jumped over slumping Chino into sixth place in the SAL standings. Chino is now 2-5 in league.

The Spartans will host Upland Friday, while Chino will be at Pomona.

Cuccia hurls Braves past Bearcats, 4-0

By TIM CLARK
PB Correspondent

Gary Cronan and his Braves have made the Hacienda League baseball race a little more interesting.

The Braves, behind a super pitching effort by ace Steve Cuccia, shut out Bonita High for the first time this year, 4-0, at the Bearcat diamond Tuesday afternoon. Alta Loma has now streaked to a 6-2 Hacienda mark, after dropping its two initial league outings to Bonita and San Dimas. For Bonita (10-4 overall), the loss was its first of the spring in Hacienda play.

Friday's games

San Dimas at Alta Loma, 3:15 p.m.
Walnut at Ontario, 3:15 p.m.
Sierra Vista at Royal Oak, 3:15 p.m.

Cuccia was magnificent for the Braves, pitching a two-hitter and recording a season-high 11 strikeouts in picking up his fourth win of the year. Cuccia's only loss of the season came, ironically, at the hands of the Bearcats in the league opener, 6-2. The senior right-hander was in excellent control Tuesday, throwing only 89 pitches, allowed a single walk, and effortlessly retired the last Bearcat batters he faced.

"Steve has just been great for us all year", commented Cronan. "His only bad outing came in the first Bonita game. This is his second shutout in a row too." (Cuccia blanked Walnut 1-0, Friday past).

"Somebody's gotta knock off Bonita," added Cuccia. "Because no one's going to beat us the rest of the year. We're rolling now, we're going all the way."

What made the Braves win all the more impressive was that they beat Bonita's two-time All-CIF pitcher, Bill Bumstead, in the process. It was Bumstead's first loss of the year, dropping his overall record to 6-1. (It was also Bumstead's first Tuesday start of the season, as Dave Drury has always handled the midweek chores for the Bearcats).

Brave third baseman Dave Silva provided the biggest blow of the day, as he destroyed a Bumstead offering in the third with a man on, giving the visitors a 2-0 edge. Silva also tripled in the sixth, and scored along with Anthony Vasquez (intentional walk) on a two-run single by Gary Ornales.

"Dave is a very aggressive person," smiled Cronan. "What's kind of funny is that he's been telling me all week about how he was going to kill Burnstead. Well, I guess you can talk big like that if you're going to deliver."

Bumstead actually didn't look all that bad in starting his second game in a row. The senior right-hander allowed only four hits, and also racked up his season-high in the "K" department with 12. Bumstead did have two bad innings through, when he threw 12 pitches in the third, and 32 times in the sixth.

Bonita skipper Dick Salomon and company will try to rebound Friday when Dave Drury (3-1, 1.40 ERA) will take the mound against the lowly (0-8) Gladstone Gladiators at Bonita. Alta Loma will engage in "Revenge Match" No. 2 when they travel to San Dimas to meet Dennis Wetzel and the Saints (The Braves last loss came on a no-hitter by Wetzel). Both contests have a 3:15 p.m. start.

Oxy deals Stags costly SCIAC loss

By BRENT SHYER
PB Correspondent

The Claremont-Mudd Stags were unable to gain any momentum for Saturday's big doubleheader with La Verne College Tuesday afternoon, as the Tigers of Occidental College trounced C-M, 10-6, on C-M's baseball diamond.

The loss leaves the Stags with a SCIAC record of 9-3 (14-8 overall) while Oxy pushed its mark up to 4-5 (9-10 overall).

In the initial inning, the Tigers touched up C-M starting pitcher Joe Maiberger for three runs. Maiberger opened up the game by walking Vince Gallo and Greg Gose. A ground-rule double by Steve Marmaduke brought Gallo home.

Maiberger then walked Greg Ring to fill the bases. A line drive single by Al Gorang spelled two runs for Oxy and the end of Maiberger (8-2).

Steve Rodriguez came on to pitch for C-M and reired the side without futher damage. Rodriguez pitched until two out in the seventh inning, and allowed five runs (two unearned).

The Stags retaliated with a run in the bottom of the first, on a booming 400-foot home run to center field by Wunsan Moore.

Oxy came right back in the second stanza to add a tally on a Marmaduke single which drove home Gallo, who had singled and stole second.

The Tigers started to make it a rout in the top of the third when they loaded the bases on a hit batter, catcher's interference, and a walk. Gallo, who singled twice and walked three times in the contest, hit a safety to right-center field for a pair of RBI.

The Stags put a run in the bank in the third without the benefit of a hit. A walk to Moore, an error on the Tigers' Gallo at second, and a walk to catcher Greg Thompson loaded the bases. As Jaime Opatrny rapped into a double-play, Moore came across the plate.

Pete Davis (4-5) started the game for Occidental and pitched 7 1/3 innings, allowing four runs on six hits. He tired in the eighth and, with the bases loaded, gave way to Tom Madison.

Oxy upped its lead in the seventh with two unearned runs.

Bill Arce's C-M squad cut the margin to 8-4, in the last of the eighth. After the bases were jammed on a ringing double by Thompson, a hit batter, and a walk, Al Golad hit a single for an RBI, while a walk to Bob Turek plated one more.

Ring and Gorang picked up RBIs in the ninth, as they each singled.

Walnut nips Glads

Walnut High kept its hopes alive for a Hacienda League baseball title Tuesday with a narrow 1-0 win over last-place Gladstone.

The Mustangs are now 5-3 in league and trail first-place Bonita (7-1) by two games with six games remaining on the league schedule.

In other Hacienda action Tuesday, Royal Oak beat San Dimas 6-4 while Ontario smothered Sierra Vista 16-1. Chaffey dropped a 2-1 decision to Redlands in a Citrus Belt League game, Webb beat Orange Lutheran 7-1 in an Arrowhead League outing, and L.A. Lutheran downed Ontario Christian 8-2 in an Olympic League affair.

Walnut's Butch Long pitched a three-hitter, fanning nine, to beat Gladstone. The Mustangs had to score in the last of the seventh to win it, as Ed Kimura singled and scored all the way from first as Jim Ziegler's one-bagger bounced past Gladstone rightfielder Tom Tucker.

Royal Oak held off San Dimas to deal the Saints their fourth H.L. loss against a like number of victories. Gary Bowers, with relief help from Dave Sinner, picked up the mound win.

Greg Sayegh socked a two-run homer for S.D., while teammate Steve Campbell had two singles and a double. Curt Burkhart suffered the loss on the hill despite fanning nine Royal Oak batters.

Webb used the four-hit pitching of Pete Sanders and the hitting of Paul Richards and Marshall Morton to down Orange Lutheran. Sanders helped his own cause with a three-run double in the sixth. Webb is now 5-1 in Arrowhead League games.

Willie Phillips belted a grand-slam homer for L.A. Lutheran in the third to seal OCHS's doom. Hank Bouwman hurled the distance for the Knights, and also drove in the first OCHS run with a first-inning double.

Owls rip S.W., 22-3

Citrus won and Chaffey lost in Mission Conference baseball contests played Tuesday.

The Owls belted host Southwestern 22-3 behind a 20-hit attack, but the Panthers dropped a 9-5 decision at San Diego City College.

Jim McCadden and David Hostetler led the Owl attack as the locals improved their Mission mark to 9-3. McCadden had four hits, five runs scored and three RBI, while Hostetler had two hits and five RBI. The 22 runs tied a Citrus school record for most tallies in a contest as the owls upped their season mark to 17-6.

Chaffey saw its conference mark fall to 7-5 with the loss at San Diego. A five-run explosion in the sixth by City did the Panthers in, as the hosts combined five singles and a walk for the scores.

Bobby Branchetti sparked the Chaffey attack with four hits and two RBI.

READY TO TRY AGAIN — Stock car drivers will have another go Sunday at running the West Coast 250 which was rained out last week. Sonny Easley will start on the inside of two. Ticket stubs from last week will be honored for admission Sunday.

Stock drivers to try again Sunday in West Coast 250

The inaugural West coast 250 stock car race, originally slated last Sunday, has been rescheduled for this Sunday following a torrential downpour.

The $25,000 event was postponed when heavy rains hit the speedway just as the 40-car field had lined up to await the starting signal.

In the meantime, NASCAR officials have impounded all 40 machines and have them under lock and key in the speedway garages to prevent any tampering by their crews. They will be released at 10 a.m. Sunday for a brief practice session preceeding the race wihch will get underway at 1 p.m.

The impounding is standard practice at all NASCAR races where postponements are involved.

Heading the lineup from the number one starting position is L. D. Ottinger, NASCAR's national sportsmen champion from Newport, Tenn., the only "outsider" in the field of all west coast drivers.

Ottinger qualified his California prepared 1975 Chevrolet at a speed of 148.947 mph last Saturday and will share the front row with Jimmy Insolo of Mission Hills. Insolo's 1973 Chevy was clocked at 148.407 mph.

Directly behind the leaders are Sonny Easley of Van Nuys in a '73 Ford and veteran Herschel McGriff of Bridal Veil, Ore. in a '73 Nova. Both were over the 145 mph mark in qualifications and are expected to push for the lead when the green flag falls Sunday.

Tickets for the race are still available and may be purchased at the gate Sunday or in advance at the speedway box office or any ticketron outlet. General admission is $6.00 includes seating in east or west concourses.

Memorial race set by Q.M.A.

The Pomona Valley Quarter Midget Racing Association will hold its 18th Annual Carlos Pogetto Memorial Race this weekend.

The track will be open Friday from 5 p.m. to 9 p.m. for practice and qualifying. More practice and qualifying will be held Saturday from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Sunday's racing is slated to get underway at 10 a.m. Spectators will be admitted free of charge. A hot dinner will be served Saturday from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. for $1.50. Breakfast is available Saturday and Sunday morning from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. for $1.00.

The children racing will be from all over Southern California plus some families from Northern Calif. and Phoenix, Ariz. Ages of the drivers range from five to 16 years.

Although varying quite a bit in style, the cars have to meet standards set by Quarter Midgets of America (Q.M.A.). Likewise the drivers must possess Q.M.A. and insurance cards.

Fuel and gas are furnished at the track which is located on First Street in Pomona in back of the Pomona Grand Prix facility on S. East End Ave. Pit fee is $6.00.

Q.M.A. membership costs $5.00. Children wishing to become drivers must attend driving school (6-to-8 weeks) at the track. Driving instruction is free to members except for the insurance which costs 55 cents a week or $8.80 per year.

Safety requirements for drivers include helmets, leather driving gloves and jackets and long pants. Cars are equipped with shoulder harnesses and roll cages.

Anyone desiring further information may get it by calling Bob or Sheri Wicker at (714) 627-5869 or Kathy Wilhoit at 986-5088.

Sunday's race is named for Carlos Pogetto who went to the city in 1956 with a request that the land on which the track is situated, then owned by the Pomona Water Dept., be leased or donated to the P.V.Q.M.R.A. for use as a track.

The track opened in the fall of 1956. Pogetto, a Pomona police officer, was killed in the line of duty in 1957. The track was dedicated to him and the memorial race held every year since in his honor.

Is L.B. Grand Prix dead?

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — The crash barriers and catch fences are all gone now, along with the wail of 500-horsepower racing engines, and the streets of Long Beach are now populated again by rush hour traffic and slow moving lines of senior citizens.

The United States Grand Prix West has come and gone— maybe forever.

Sources told The Associated Press at least $400,000 was lost on the event, despite claims by the organizers that "we probably broke even, maybe even made a penny or two."

That, coupled with $300,000 in losses from a dress rehearsal Formula 5000 race at the circuit last fall, could very well spell doom for the event.

Only 72,000 of an expected 100,000-150,000 went through the turnstyles for last Sunday's Formula I spectacle. How many of those came on free passes is not known. Sources told the AP that of the 85,000 who attended the Formula 5000 race, only 40,000 paid admission.

The basic purse for the Formula 5000 race was $75,000, while organizers paid the Formula I group $265,000 in prizes and another $250,000 for transportation and expenses. Total cost of the event may have exceeded $1.5 million, sources said.

The future seems uncertain. Should the event be run again— and the Formula I crowd hopes sincerely it will be—more than a few problems have to be solved.

Of primary concern is the number of persons who can watch for free, from high-rise buildings and other vantage points. It was estimated nearly 30,000 viewed the race from outside the circuit.

Traffic wasn't any problem, insisted organizer Chris Pook, who says the race is a big plus for the community.

"We had no traffic tieups. This city is used to having 200,000-300,000 come here on the weekend to go to the beach," Pook said.

"You mean this race kept 200,000 people out of town this weekend?" replied one newsman.

The press, for what it's worth, wasn't too happy about its quarters, which consisted of a large hallway outside of the arena in the Long Beach convention center.

The "press box" had no windows, and consequently, no view of the race track. That was a major problem since the press only attends so it can actually view, and interpret, the proceedings.

There was a television monitor provided, but it was impossible for more than just a handful at a time to watch.

This was wholly unacceptable to many newsmen, some of whom journeyed from Europe, South America and Japan.

But there were few alternatives, especially since their press credentials were good primarily in the press room.

Though pit passes number in the thousands at racing events like the Indianapolis 500, Daytona 500 and even United States Grand Prix at Watkins Glen, there were only 170 printed for the USGP-West.

"I've never seen anything so impossible to cover," said one newsman. "The statistics are completely fouled up. I can't get near the drivers to do interviews. And I can't see the race.

"Communications were better in the Civil War."

It was also a tough weekend for the cars. Virtually everyone except winner Clay Regazzoni experienced some sort of mechanical problem, either during the race or practice.

The smaller, lighter Formula 5000 cars had much the same problem.

The course may have to be changed somewhat if it is used again, to eliminate some of the pounding the cars take.

Such changes would probably also help make the races more closely contested.

It's a Racquet

TENNIS IS BIG as a fund-raiser these days. The San Gabriel Valley Chinese Cultural Association recently completed its doubles tournament and the City of Hope has a huge mixed doubles affair coming up April 11. Now it's the Boy Scouts' turn. Officials of the Scouts' Old Baldy Council this week announced plans for a Memorial Day event, which they're calling the "Sunny Skies Classic."

The all-doubles program at the Claremont Tennis Club will be the council's second use of tennis as a money maker, the previous tournament having been held last October. Round-robin play will be scheduled within three divisions — men's, women's and mixed doubles — on each of three levels — A, B and C — from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. May 31, according to tournament director Scott Rushing.

That'll be one of these long three-day weekends, but Rushing believes many local players will be around to participate in the tournament. "A lot of people who go away for some of the weekend would most likely be back on Monday when we're having the tournament," he said.

The "classic" will apparently have a unique sidelight: Plans are afoot to make it the valley's first televised tennis ever. Rushing said Theta Cable TV intends to tape some of the action, to be shown at a later hour.

The entry fee is $18 per team, with proceeds to aid Scout activities in this area. Dinner at the club following the competition also comes with the fee. Champions in each category will receive trophies.

Tournament chairman is Roger Wheeler of Wheeler, Steffan and Garrison Realty. The committee includes Jeff Lewis of Foothill Beverage Co., Richard Soper of Southern California Edison Co. and Carolyn Soper of Pomona First Federal Savings and Loan Association.

Players can make further inquiries by calling Rushing at 626-3551. Or they can simply mail their entry and check to the Old Baldy Council, 120 W. San Jose Ave., Claremont, 91711.

THEY'RE IN THE AGE BRACKET gently known as "veterans" but their skills are among the best the local area will see all year. These are the players who'll come from around Southern California to the Claremont Tennis Club for the four-day Senior Tennis Society tournament beginning Thursday.

Among the familiar names: Horst Ritter, recent winner of the national indoor 35 and over singles title at Salt Lake City; Dick Leach, who partnered Ritter to capture the doubles championship in the same tournament; Sven Daviddson, former Swedish Davis Cup player and now a top seniors player who recently played on the Masters tour; and Dorothy Cheney, No. 1 50 and over player among Southern California women.

The Padua Avenue facility will be hosting the tournament matches from the morning on through the day with competition in five age classifications for the men and three for the women. The men's levels are 35-, 45-, 50-, and 60-and-over. The women's are 30-, 40-, and 50-and-over. Finals are scheduled for Sunday.

A FORMIDABLE PAIR of substitutes failed to break Bob and Penny Daoust's unbeaten streak in the Claremont city leagues. The Daousts got their stiffest test of this year's league action but finally turned back Mike Gozansky and Judy Ross, Saturday, 5-7, 6-4, 6-4, for their 19th straight victory since entering the mixed doubles ladder last fall. Gozansky and Ross, both among the top doubles players at the Claremont Tennis Club, were subbing for Ken MacKirdy and Lonnie Felberg.

With only one more Saturday to go in this cycle, the Daousts have clinched first place with their 154 points. But MacKirdy and Felberg, still ranking second with 135, will have another shot at them this week. Bylle Whedbee and Jim Jamieson are third with 131.

One decisive league tussle does shape up this Saturday: In men's doubles, defending ladder and play-off champions Jack Verhyden and Dave Griffin need a whopping triumph to overtake the current leaders, the Herb Hoskins-Rick Pawley-Jerry Bradley entry. They trail by eight — 138 to 146 — in the games-won scoring system, and will take a crack at erasing that deficit in a final match against two of the front-running trio. Third place is occupied by Steve Stires and Wes Davis with 132 points. Meanwhile, the father-son team of Tom Brudick Sr. and Jr. won the men's doubles consolation play-off title, edging Lee Rengert and John Rutter in the finals, 3-6, 7-5, 7-6.

In spite of a loss last Saturday Aki Nishimura seems a shoo-in for the men's singles championship. He tumbled to Dennis Robbie, 5-7, 6-4, 6-2, but his 137 points give him a comfortable margin over Robbie and Tom Denno, tied for second with 124 each.

Penny Daoust and Isabel Alba have easily wrapped up their second straight women's doubles title. With 140 points, they have a wide gap over Linda Moore and Ros Dong, second with 113, and Pat Fiddes and Jeannine Neuer, third with 110.

Two weeks still remain on the women's singles schedule, but Mrs. Daoust had a comfortable lead here, starting this week with 126 points against the 104 credited each to Mrs. Neuer and Helen Wang. Carolyn Mason's 112 topped the B ladder, with Betty Brainerd's 110 good for second. Jan Homes was first with 120 and Barbara Steiner second with 117 among the C's.

BY BEATING BOTH THE RAIN and a Fountain Valley team Sunday, the Claremont Tennis Club moved on to the second round of the Dart Resorts California Tennis Club Championships. The claremonters held a 4-2 lead and were ahead in the three remaining matches when the visiting contingent decided to default the unfinished contests ahead of the impending rain.

Claremont winners in the all-doubles meet were Jim Lucke and Charles Zetterberg, Kevin Clark and Merwin Miller, Margaret Overin and Karen Lucke and Chuck Anderson and Doris Clark.

The local team's next opponent will be a Laguna Niguel team, which drew a first round bye. The date and location haven't been determined.

MEMBERS OF THE SAN GABRIEL Valley YWCA's tennis club have neither a rigid schedule nor a fixed location. They play their ladder matches whenever and wherever it's convenient. The club is open to both men and women, who, as a matter of fact, compete on the same ladders, and all it costs is the $5 fee for membership in the YWCA.

The club has three singles divisions — beginner, intermediate and advanced — and the players in each decide the times and court locations at which they can get together for challenge matches. The YWCA keeps tabs of the standings at the West Covina office. Right now, Ray Heyleck is at the top of the club's advanced ladder.

The group has scheduled a meeting to greet new members and discuss future events next Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the YWCA, 1600 W. Cameron Ave.

OLARN ISARRA has left the unbeaten Claremont High tennis team for Thailand, and his attempt to make his home country's Davis Cup team. On the way he'll compete in a tournament in Singapore. In Thailand's national tournament, he's paired up in doubles with the country's No. 1 player. Early next month, he hopes to be back with his Claremont teammates in time for CIF play-off competition . . . The Avis Cup Challenge series resumed on Channel 4 Sunday at 10:30 a.m. with John Newcombe opposing Raul Ramirez.

Orioles fail to sign Reggie Jackson

MIAMI (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles' general manager says slugging outfielder Reggie Jackson would like to lead the club to a World Series title—if he can just agree to contract terms.

GM Hank Peters said Tuesday he failed to reach a contract agreement during two days of talks with Jackson and his agent in Arizona.

"Reggie wants to play and he would like to play for the Orioles," Peters said. "He thinks the Orioles are a great club and have great talent and would like to lead them toa World Series victory.

"At this time, however, his terms are unacceptabe to the Orioles." The general manager added. "Reggie asked for a multi-year contract." Peters declined comment on reports that the 29-year-oll Jackson asked for a three-year contract for about $675,000 and assurances that he would have permission to attend to his business interests in the West when necessary.

"I don't want to say too much," Peters said before leaving Phoenix. "We're still discussing things."

The Orioles obtained Jackson—the American League's most valuable player in 1973— and pitchers Ken Holtzman and Bill Van Bommel last week in return for outfielder Don Baylor and pitchers Mike Torrez and Paul Mitchell.

The three former Orioles already have reported to the A's. Van Bommel pitched in the Orioles' 9-3 loss to Texas Tuesday and Holtzman was scheduled to join the club in Baltimore today.

Jackson—who has been in seclusion since the trade—and Walker were unavailable for comment.

Peters said he had three different meetings with Jackson and Walker during his time in Phoenix. The three met for over five hours Monday night and then again early Tuesday and at the airport before Peters left.

The general manager talked with Jackson and Walker by telephone during a stop in Dallas on his flight back here. "They made a proposal to me which I found unacceptable," Peters said. "I made a proposal to them which they are considering. We'll continue to talk by telephone."

He said he was expecting another call from Phoenix and the situation could change soon. "I'm just going to sit here by the telephone," Peters said.

Peters expressed optimism. "Any time someone asks you for a multi-year contract, it means that he wants to play for you. The problem is strictly terms."

But then he cautioned, "Right now, if anyone asked me what were the chances of Reggie being in our lineup on opening day, I'd have to say 50-50."

West Virginia's basketball roster includes Maurice Robinson, Tony Robertson, Bill Roberson and Tommy Roberts.

Parents missing boat

Child's first 3 years felt most important

Editor's Note: Many child psychologists say that parents have one basic chance to influence their child's emotional, social and educational development. That chance comes during the first three years of life, and the experts say many parents are missing it. This is the first of two articles about the importance of those first three years.

By SHELLY COHEN
Associated Press Writer

It's been six months of diapers and bottles, of cries and coos, and that creature in the crib is starting to crawl.

The baby is beginning what many psychologists and educators agree is the most important year of his life, and he's really only got two people to turn to: his parents.

"For us to think education begins when a child goes to first grade is grossly in error," said Dr. Burton L. White, head of Harvard University's internationally known preschool project. "Children start to learn long before they are 6 years old. They start to learn at birth."

And by three "it's pretty much all over," says White. He believes that the developing and learning capacities that will see a child through the rest of his life are pretty much set by age 3.

It follows that being a parent, well, "that's the most important job in the world," White said.

It's also a job for which few people are trained.

"It's my personal estimate that no more than 10 per cent of our kids get the kind of experiences in the first years of life that would make the most sense and give them the best possible early development," White said. "Furthermore, there's nothing terribly magical about what they need.

"And most families are advantaged enough, even if they are poor and not very well educated, to do a fine job. But they can't do it on the basis of instinct or intuition alone. That's a myth."

Parents do need to know such things as when children begin to crawl and to climb and when they start to develop language. Many parents don't realize the latter starts at seven or eight months, long before most children utter their first words.

Educating children doesn't mean playing Bach on the stereo or putting Picassos on the nursery wall. But it might mean burning the playpen, which White says is a great inhibitor and frustrator of a child just beginning to explore the world and use newly acquired motor skills.

What happens if a child doesn't get adequate early education from his parents? He might do poorly in school. He might have trouble making friends. In extreme cases, he may be totally antisocial and violent, the experts say.

Oversimplifying: If a child is never encouraged to talk or read, he'll probably have trouble with both in school. If he's never taught to share his toys, he may never really understand the feelings of others. If he is never taught that he shouldn't hit his fellow toddler with a block, he may think little of using a knife in the same way as a teen-ager.

White is the author of "The First Three Years of Life," based his theories on 18 years of research in early childhood education.

Another expert in the field, Urie Bronfenbrenner, professor of psychology at Cornell, came to the same conclusions in "Is Early Intervention Effective?" published by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

But such child development theories, many of them based on the pioneer work by Swiss psychologist Jean Piaget, raise a number of ethical questions for parents, public school systems and governments:

What about the working mother? Is this all part of a plot to keep women at home? What do you do with parents who are unable or unwilling to be good educators? How do you reorder public school priorities to deal with those most important, early years?

Perhaps of most immediate interest to today's parents is the question of the working mother.

White says, "We've seen the job (of child rearing) done beautifully with a woman working halftime. It only takes about an hour a day to educate a child brilliantly. The problem is, it's 30 seconds here and a minute there."

But for White the child's development must be "woven into the equation" by the working mother.

"I think doing nothing but that (parenting) is a pretty bad deal for anyone, male or female. So my feeling is perhaps people should have halftime jobs in addition to the partial responsibility for raising a child."

But for those who must live in the 9 to 5 world, a recent study by Harvard psychology professor Jerome Kagan offers some comfort.

Kagan, along with Richard Kearsley and Philip R. Zelazo of Tufts University Medical School, studied two groups of children: one raised at home and the other which spent five days a week at what was considered a well run group day care center.

The children entered the program at age 3½ months and most continued through 30 months.

Kagan concluded that "attendance at a day care center staffed by conscientious and nurturant adults during the first 2½ years does not seem to sculpt a psychological profile very much different from the one created by total home rearing."

They found that both day care children and children reared at home were equally likely to head for mother as a source of solace when they were bored, tired or afraid, despite the presence of the day care attendant. Kagan said the study "supports the view that day care, when responsibly and conscientiously implemented, does not seem to have hidden psychological dangers."

The reason, the study says, in part is that "the family has a mysterious power, which is perhaps the one reason why it has been the basic and most stable social unit in this and other societies for so long a time."

But what happens when the family fails, when it is found incapable of providing the kind of education a child needs, as was the case when an Iowa judge removed children from the home of their loving but mentally deficient parents?

"I don't have an answer to that," White said. "The problem is perfectly parallel to what child abuse researchers are trying to cope with. We have a moral issue here."

White points to the Brookline Early Education Project (BEEP) as an example of what can be done with a completely voluntary program supported by the public school system. The program provides testing and services for a group of some 230 youngsters and expert advice on child rearing for their parents.

White believes the responsibility for educating parents to be their child's first teacher should fall properly to the public school system.

Dr. Donald Pierson, director of BEEP, agrees.

He suggested elementary schools could start by expanding their libraries to offer books on child development for parents and a toy lending library.

School health programs could be extended to provide physical exams and testing to young children. High schools could offer classes in which students get credit for working with youngsters in a BEEP-type program, Pierson said, raising the possibility of a whole crop of new parents trained in high school in the art of parenting.

And internationally the theories have gained recognition at a recent UNESCO conference in Paris attended by representatives of 20 countries. Their final report called for new priorities to emphasize infant development.

Project Head Start, a now defunct American program designed to give disadvantaged preschool youngsters an educational boost, was widely considered a failure. Many experts now say the millions of dollars spent on the program failed to produce lasting results because the program got the children after their third birthday. It was too late then, just as elementary school would be afterward.

Whether BEEP or a program like it will become the inheritor of the hopes once pinned to Head Start remains to be seen. But many experts are now saying that education during the first three years is more important in some ways than grades one through 12.

"The first order of business now is going to be get the kid off to a proper start," said White. "Don't wipe him out before he's three years old. Give him a good shot at going in the right direction at the beginning."

Surprise debut as a driver

HUTCHINSON, KAN. (AP) — Don't leave the keys in your car, warns Mrs. Bernard James, especially when a little child is in it. He might make a surprise debut as a driver.

When she left the keys in her car recently, her 6-year-old son, Sean, backed the car out of a parking stall and drove it, backward, about 150 to 200 feet in a wide arc around the parking lot. The ride came to an end when the car hit two parked cars.

"I can kind of laugh about it now," said Mrs. James, "because he's safe and nobody was hurt. But it wasn't funny at the time and it scares me when I think about it. I'm never, ever going to be too busy to grab the keys again."

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

RESOLUTION OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS OF WALNUT VALLEY WATER DISTRICT, LOS ANGELES COUNTY, CALIFORNIA, RE THE INTENTION OF THE BOARD TO ADOPT A PLAN OF WORKS FOR A PORTION OF THE DISTRICT DESIGNATED "IMPROVEMENT DISTRICT NO. 3" AND FIXING THE TIME AND PLACE OF HEARING THEREON AND GIVING NOTICE THEREOF.

WHEREAS, by Resolution No. 12-75-169, the Board of Directors of the District formed Improvement District No. 3 for the acquisition and construction of the works, facilities and properties of the Diamond Bar Water Company and other works for the production, transmission, storage and distribution of water for irrigation, domestic, industrial and municipal purposes, for the land and inhabitants within the exterior boundaries of said improvement district; and

WHEREAS, this Board of Directors finds it is in the best interests of the District that a Plan of Works be adopted;

NOW, THEREFORE, the Board of Directors of the Walnut Valley Water District DOES HEREBY RESOLVE, DETERMINE AND ORDER as follows:

SECTION 1. That it is the intention of this Board of Directors to adopt a Plan of Works for Walnut Valley Water District for Improvement District No. 3. Said Plan of Works prepared by the General Manager of the District, dated January 19, 1976, entitled "Walnut Valley Water District Plan of Works for the Acquisition of the Diamond Bar Water Company", has been presented to this Board and is on file in the office of the Secretary of the District.

SECTION 2. That the estimated expenses of carrying out the Plan of Works is estimated to be $6,500,000.

SECTION 3. That the assessments for carrying out said Plan of Works shall be levied upon all of the lands within Improvement District No. 3.

SECTION 4. That a map of the exterior boundaries of Improvement District No. 3 is on file in the office of the Secretary of the District and is available for inspection by any person or persons interested.

SECTION 5. That this Board of Directors does hereby call a hearing on the proposed Plan of Works for the hour of 7:30 o'clock p.m., April 21, 1976, at Golden Springs Elementary School, 245 South Ballena, Diamond Bar, California; and that the Secretary of the District is hereby authorized and directed to publish and post a notice of said hearing as provided in Section 35950.3 of the Water Code. Notice of the hearing shall also be mailed to each property owner in Improvement District No. 3 as listed on the last assessment roll of the County of Los Angeles.

NOTICE

SOUTHERN PACIFIC TRANSPORTATION COMPANY, One Market Street, San Francisco, California 94105, represented by Mr. Charles W. Burkett, General Solicitor, Southern Pacific Transportation Company, One Market Street, San Francisco, California 94105, hereby give notice that on the 13th day of February, 1976, it filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission at Washington, D.C., an application under Section 1 (18) of the Interstate Commerce Act for an order approving and authorizing the acquisition and operation of a line of railroad owned by The Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway Company in Los Angeles County, California, which application is assigned Finance Docket No. 28124.

Applicant proposes to construct two new short segments of track to connect SP's Baldwin Park Branch line with the parallel Santa Fe Branch line trackage between SP Mile Post 514.30 and AT&SF Mile Post 105.46, in Los Angeles County, California. The second segment proposed to be constructed is to begin at AT&SF Mile Post 104.54 and terminate at SP Mile Post 515.57. The two connections so constructed will serve to effectuate the trackage agreement entered into between applicant SP and AT&SF for operation by SP over 1.04 miles of the adjacent AT&SF Branch line track, which application is assigned Finance Docket No. 28123. The connecting lines proposed to be constructed are located entirely within the County of Los Angeles, State of California.

The connecting track proposed to be constructed at SP Mile Post 514.30 is approximately .13 miles in length. The connecting track proposed to be constructed at AT&SF Mile Post 104.54 is approximately .21 miles in length. The present and future public convenience and necessity require the proposed construction of track in order to provide a physical connection between SP and AT&SF. Such connection will allow SP to abandon a portion of its Baldwin Park branch line, which application is docketed AB-12 (Sub-No. 22), and to secure bridge trackage rights over 1.04 miles of AT&SF branch track.

In the opinion of the applicant, the granting of the authority sought will not constitute a major Federal action significantly affecting the quality of the human environment within the meaning of the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969. In accordance with the Commission's regulations (49 C.F.R. 1100.250) in Ex Parte No. 55 (Sub-No. 4), Implementation — Nat'l Environmental Policy Act, 1969, 340 I.C.C. 431 (1972), any protests may include a statement indicating the presence or absence of any effect of the requested Commission action on the quality of the human environment. If any such effect is alleged to be present, the statement shall include information relating to the relevant factors set forth in Ex Parte No. 55 (Sub-No. 4), supra, Part (b)(1)-(5), 340 I.C.C. 431, 461.

Pursuant to the provisions of the Interstate Commerce Act, as amended, the proceeding will be handled without public hearings unless comments in support or opposition on such application are filed with the Secretary, Interstate Commerce Commission, 12th and Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20423, and the aforementioned counsel for applicant, within 30 days after date of first publication in a newspaper of general circulation. Any interested person is entitled to recommend to the Commission that it approve, disapprove, or take any other specified action with respect to such application.

Aramid!

The tire fiber that's stronger than steel. Full 2 yr. warranty.

Introducing the new JCPenney Aramid Belted Radial.

Our new radial tire is so rugged, we've given it our first full two year warranty. It's belted with an amazing new fiber that, pound for pound, is actually stronger than steel. Other outstanding features: two polyester radial plies, special sidewall stabilizers, 7-rib tread design and whitewalls.

The new JCPenney Aramid belted radial. It could make steel belted radials obsolete.

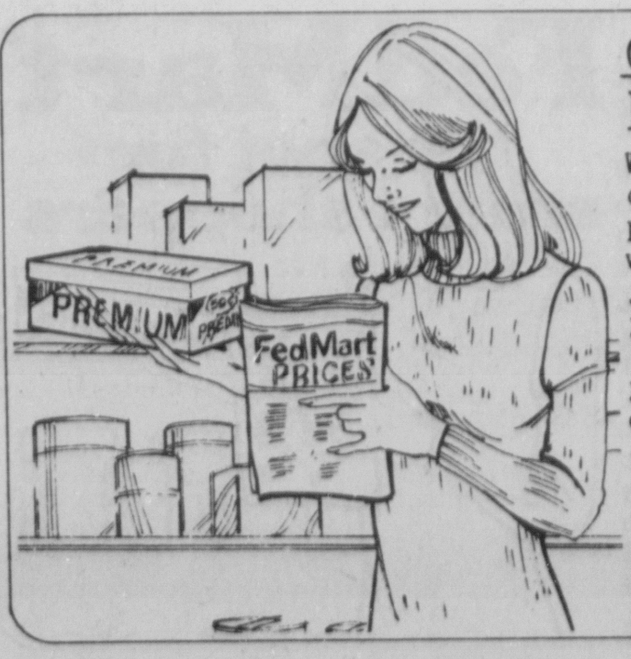
Celebrating the second week of our Grand Opening in Covina



Compare FedMart's Low prices with what you've been paying ... the proof is in your pantry!

With almost every supermarket claiming to have the lowest prices, it's difficult to know who to believe. But it's easy to judge for yourself. Just go to your pantry, refrigerator, or freezer and look at the prices you've been paying for meat, produce, dairy products, your favorite national brands and the store's own brands. Then write down the price you paid next to FedMart's price. Add up the number of prices where FedMart is lower and judge for yourself.

You'll find that shopping at FedMart will save you money on most items. We can do it because we're much more than just a supermarket. We sell lots of things in over 20 departments and we've taken many costly frills out of handling merchandise too. For example, you'll find groceries displayed in their original cartons. So why not compare this small sampling of FedMart's low prices. Then come to FedMart and judge for yourself.

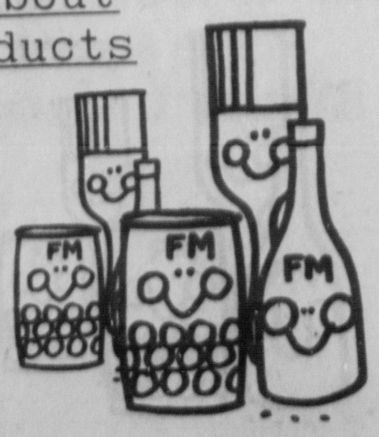
What you should know about FM products



At FedMart you'll find many familiar trusted national brands at low prices. And you'll find more than 1,500 different items packaged under our own fine quality FM Brand label.

We recognize that our reputation rises or falls largely on the acceptance of our own brand. That's why two conditions must be met before we'll package a product under our own label:

(1) It must be equal to, or better than, the comparable leading national brand in quality.

(2) It must offer you substantial savings.

So for an extra measure of value and savings, try the FM Brand.

Safeway has joined with nutrition experts* to bring you a new, important service called

KNOW YOUR FOOD

Better Nutrition for Your Family for Less Money!

Safeway is made up of people! Lots of friendly, neighborly people ever ready to lend a hand wherever needed. We'll provide information to help you in preparing nutritionally-balanced meals. We'll offer shopping tips on how to get more value for your money. And information about seasonal buys on foods that are plentiful and sell for less. Meal ideas will be yours for the taking in recipe leaflets you'll enjoy using. Meat cooking information will teach new homemakers which meats can be dry-cooked and which require moist cooking methods. We hope you'll like this new service from Safeway! And use it to make meal planning, food shopping and saving money easier. After all, we're here to help. Remember that Safeway is your friendly neighbor right down the street . . . come visit us soon!

These are examples of informative topics to be covered in forthcoming "Know Your Food" columns. Look for them in Safeway's weekly food ads!

- NUTRITION IN FOOD
- FOOD PREPARATION
- GETTING THE BEST VALUES
- BEST USE OF YOUR FREEZER
- SEASONAL FOOD BUYING
- MENU PLANNING
- UNIT PRICING
- OPEN DATING . . . & MANY MORE

University experts work with Safeway

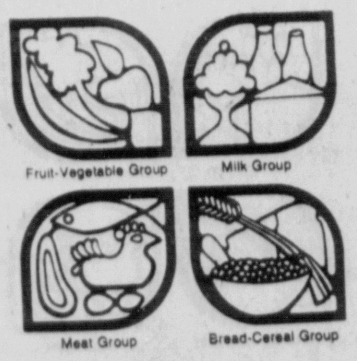
Specialists from the University of California Cooperative Extension have agreed to provide Safeway with factual material for a series of "Know Your Food" columns. They will also lend technical approval to information as it is put into column form by Safeway.

"Know Your Food"

YOUR FOOD GUIDE*



Here is the first in a five-part weekly series on Food for Fitness — a Daily Food Guide.* It explains our need for different nutrients. The Basic Four Food Groups, briefly outlined here, will be fully detailed in four subsequent columns in Safeway ads. We suggest you clip this series to keep handy for nutritional meal planning.

HOW TO USE THIS GUIDE

Each day our food should supply us with many different nutrients —

- Protein for growth and for repair of the body.
- Minerals and vitamins for growth and to keep the body functioning properly.
- Fat and carbohydrates for energy.

Most foods contain more than one nutrient, but no single food contains all the nutrients in the amounts needed. Thus, we need a variety of foods each day.

This Food Guide shows one way to choose foods wisely each day. In the Guide foods are sorted into groups. Choices within groups are wide enough to allow for a variety of foods.

Select the main part of your diet from the four broad food groups. Add other foods as needed to make meals more appealing.

Some pointers to guide you in using this plan:

Choose at least the minimum number of servings from each of the broad food groups.

Serving sizes may differ — small for young children, extra large (or seconds) for very active adults or teenagers. Pregnant and nursing women also require more food from these groups.

Make choices within each group according to suggestions given. Foods within each group are similar, but not identical, in food value.

Choose additional foods to round out meals both from foods in the four groups and from foods not listed in these groups. These additional foods should add enough calories to complete your food energy needs for the day. Children need enough food energy to support normal growth; adults need enough to maintain body weight at a level most favorable to health and well-being.

Try to have some meat, poultry, fish, eggs, or milk at each meal.

OTHER FOODS

To round out meals and meet energy needs, almost everyone will use some foods not specified in the four food groups. Such foods include sugars, butter, margarine, other fats. These often are ingredients in a recipe, or are added to other foods during preparation or at the table.

200 YEARS AGO, internationally renown men were making important contributions to what was to become the United States of America. General George Washington showed manifest physical and nervous power; he was the colonies' greatest expert on the wildnerness and its warfare; he inspired confidence. They made him commander-in-chief. Printer, author, colonial representative, and world-famous scientist, Dr. Benjamin Franklin, in some respects, was perhaps the most extraordinary figure in the 13 Colonies to declare independence and launch a nation in the new world. As Carl van Doren observed, "Franklin must have been what he was, because nobody could have invented such a figure." Today, we identify the tall, red-haired Thomas Jefferson as the author of the majestic Declaration, beginning, "We hold these truths to be self-evident". This rangy philosopher - statesman was filled with the eccentric notion that people could, under a democratic - republican institution, govern themselves better than any other system. The sense of our founding fathers' power comes down to us today, two centuries later, like a charge over an electric wire.
